—HEALTH BOARD ACCEPTS REPORT—

Osteopathic Colleges Denied Accreditation

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The State Health Board accepted Monday the examining board's report that none of the five osteopathic colleges met Nebraska's minimum accreditation standards for a medical school.

The inspections were made in compliance with a 1963 law making graduates from accredited osteopathic colleges eligible to take the state's examination for licensing to practice medicine.

The 1963 Legislature directed that all requesting osteopathic colleges be inspected and reported on by May 31.

Could Be Rechecked

The examining board inspected osteopathic colleges at Philadelphia, Pa., Kansas City and Kirksville, Mo., Des Moines, Ia., and Chicago, Ill., and said the schools could be reinspected in the future when the deficiences are corrected.

Board action came after little discussion of the report. Members had been furnished copies prior to the meeting.

Dr. Earl F. Leininger, board chairman and a McCook physician, said he felt the examining board "was quite liberal in their findings. It just boils down to qualifications."

'Fine Work'

Dr. Howard Yost, Grand Island dentist and board member, commended the inspection team "for the fine work done."

"There can't be two standards for the practice of medicine," he said. "When osteopathy schools meet the standards of a Class A medical school, then these schools will switch over to being medical schools."

"If a person wants to practice osteopathy, he should study osteopathy, but if he wants to practice medicine, he should study medicine."

Final Action

The state board indicated acceptance of the examining board's report constituted its final action.

"It recommended no school for approval," explained one member, "thus no further action is needed."

Board action was unanimous with one member absent.

Dr. Paul R. Reichstadt of Omaha, president of the Nebraska Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said, the board's "questionable decision" continues Nebraska as a "medical closed shop."

Lost Doctors

"Nebraska is the only state in this area which does not recognize osteopathy as the medical equal of allopathy," he said. "At least a half-dozen young doctors were willing to come to Nebraska and take the same licensing test given graduates of M.D. colleges, and now these capable young men will practice in states which border Nebraska."

Dr. George Taylor, a Sidney osteopath and member of the state board of examiners in medicine and surgery, said, "The decision was a gross miscarriage of justice, especially regarding three of the five schools, Chicago, Kirksville and Philadelphia.

He said these are top medical schools and so recognized by a majority of states.

Correctable

However, Dr. Taylor noted the Nebraska inspectors "recognized the shortcomings were few and correctable in a short period of time."

He said Nebraska is short of doctors and might have gotten relief rrom the young osteopathic doctors willing to take the same exmaination given MD's.

"These young doctors won't suffer, for they have the choice of practice in 39 states," he said. "Only Nebraskans will suffer."

Board Asks Funds For X-Ray Units

The State Health Board voted Monday to ask the Legislature for a supplemental appropriation to finance its mobile chest X-ray program.

The state had been using about $18,000 in federal funds for one state-wide unit and the Douglas County unit, but Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, said federal "Formula" money can no longer be used for the program.

Dr. Rogers said the federal government believes the money can be better spent for nursing services, follow up projects and purchase of drugs.

But, he said he disagrees with the government over the value of the mobile X-ray program.

It does detect TB cases and also heart conditions and chest cancer, he said.

He said the program has "been very popular with Nebraskans."

In other action, the board:

—commended the city of Neligh for approving fluoridation of its water supply in a recent election, terming it a "breakthrough" in the prevention of dental diseases.

—appointed a three-member appeals committee headed by Dr. Howard Yost of Grand Island to hear any employe complaints.

—heard a progress report on Omaha's efforts to effectively treat packinghouse wastes.

McNamara To Huddle In Honolulu

Honolulu (AP)—The first session of a U.S. military top level conference on Viet Nam battle strategy ended Monday as Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara winged westward from Washington to join the huddle.

After the session broke for lunch, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, characterized the conference as an "exchange of views . . . to make sure diplomatic and military fronts" were in lockstep. The meeting is expected to take two or three days.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, arrived unannounced Sunday night to participate in the talks.

Expansion Review

Earlier, a Pentagon spokesman said the talks were reviewing in detail "plans for U.S. support of the expansion of South Vietnamese military and paramilitary forces."

Asked by newsmen if there were discussions of further escalation of the Southeast Asian war, Wheeler replied, "No, nothing like that."

Just before he left the capital, McNamara told reporters the conference would discuss a possible stepup in logistical support in South Viet Nam—arms, training and advisory personnel—for South Vietnamese forces.

Raids To Go On

He said the U.S. air raids have hurt the Viet Cong in moving their forces and would continue until Communist aggression stops.

McNamara expressed regret North Viet Nam had rejected a nonaligned nations appeal for unconditional negotiations. The defense secretary rejected a suggestion by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., that bombing raids be temporarily suspended.

The session's significance was heightened by the announcement that McNamara would attend, and by Taylor's arrival from Saigon.

JANET AND JOHNNY . . . go for twin-bike ride.

Quadricycle Lets Blind Girl Join In Riding Fun

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Sutton — Janet and Johnny Bender have become quite the traffic stoppers around Sutton.

With tail-wagging Corky running along behind, the youngsters are familiar to motorists as they peddle along on their unusual quadricycle.

Ten-year-old Janet is blind, depending on Johnny to provide the "eyes" for their spoke-wheeled outings — limited to weekends since Janet spends the week days at the School for the Visually Handicapped in Nebraska City.

Christmas Gift

Their vehicle—a sort of bicycle-built-for-two — was a gift last Christmas.

Having seen pictures of a similar rig, parents Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bender commissioned Reuben Goesch, a local farmer, inventor and "tinkerer," to build one for Janet.

Goesch hooked two bikes—one a girl's and the other a boy's—together with a system of bars and rods so the blind youngster can ride alongside her older brother.

Peddles, Honks

"She peddles and honks, he peddles and steers," explained Mrs. Bender.

Though connected for steering, the front wheels are independent enough to allow one to ride over a bump without affecting the other.

Goesch's engineering is a variation on a kit that is available on the market, Mrs. Bender explained.

"I like it real well," said Janet, boasting that she rode off with no trouble the first time out.

Had Tricycle

"She has a tricycle," the youngster's mother said, "but she outgrew those. We had to walk along with her and steer."

"There are few sports a blind child can really get into. Bike riding is popular, and now she can get out and ride with the rest of them."

Though she can't see it, the lively girl shows as much pride as any other 10-year-old in the bright, white-wall-tired bike—and that fine-sounding horn.

Sukarno Raps U.S., Sees Formosans In So. Viet Nam

Jakarta, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno kept up a steady attack Monday against U.S. policy in Viet Nam. He also announced Indonesia is prepared to convene a "Conference of the New Emerging Forces" (CONEFO) next year.

Speaking at 10th anniversary celebrations of the first gathering of African-Asian nations in Bandung, Sukarno charged that the United States was "mobilizing people from the Kuomintang (Nationalist China) for its aggression in Viet Nam." He did not elaborate.

The new attack came one day after Sukarno called President Johnson's offer for unconditional negotiations on Viet Nam "full of contradictions."

He called the U.S. proposal to extend $1 billion in aid to Southeast Asia "a bribe."

Sukarno, who maintains that the world is divided into "NEFOS" (New Forces) and "OLDEFOS" (Old Established Forces) that are hostile toward each other, used the occasion to promote a conference of the new forces.

He said the conference would be attended "not only by this revolutionary Africa-Asia of ours, but also by the countries of Laitn America, the countries of the socialist (Communist) camp and the progressive forces in the capitalist countries, including France, Britain and America."

Admired As World Leader

. . . BOMBING SOURS REDS

By The Associated Press

President Johnson's stature as a world leader appears to be increasing in the eyes of much of the non-Communist world, while in the Red camp he evokes attitudes ranging all the way from baiflement and frustration to violent hostility.

After 1½ years in office, the President seems to have inspired admiration—some of it grudging—in areas where many once regarded him with mixed feelings.

To a world which had come to know John F. Kennedy, Johnson was new, untested, so distinctly American as to confound analysis.

Viet Nam Bearing

Johnson's Viet Nam policy has strong bearing on his image around the world. Frequently, approval is cautious, tempered by apprehension and sharp criticism. But on the whole, he comes off well.

A significant contribution to crystallizing the Johnson image in foreign minds was his April 7 Baltimore speech challenging the Communist world to unconditional talks on Viet Nam while promising a billion-dollar U.S. contribution to war on Southeast Asia's economic woes.

An AP survey of what the world thinks of the U.S. President produces a picture like this:

Among the Russians and their European Communist allies there seemed to have been widespread gratification that the President defeated Barry Goldwater last fall. The gratification soured when the Americans began bombing in North Viet Nam.

Common Man Uneasy

The man in the Red Street reflects uneasiness over Viet Nam, though appearing not to identify U. S. policies there too closely with the President.

Red China and its Communist allies are even more violent against Johnson than they had been against Kennedy. They heap ridicule on the President's April 7 proposal and picture him as "the worst enemy of all the peoples of the world."

In Britain, Germany, Austria, Italy and Scandanavia, the Johnson speech did much to raise his stock. It evoked favorable comment in Britain. More often than not, the man in the street now seems to view the President as a strong man who forthrightly attacks U.S. economic and racial problems at home while standing up against Communist pressures abroad.

Subsurface Worry

Among Britons in general there is an undercurrent of worry that Johnson's policies might trigger a bigger conflict.

A commonly accepted view of the President in France, where President Charles de Gaulle has been at odds with U.S. influence, is that the President is a sort of referee between the Pentagon and State Department, but even Gaullist spokesmen credit him with preventing the Viet Nam war from getting out of control.

Austrians, familiar with Communist expansion tactics, show growing approval of Johnson policies.

In the Low Countries, the President gets strong support from such influential persons as Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgium's foreign minister, who has said that what Americans are doing in Southeast Asia is not far different from what they did to save Europe from Stalinism.

Oriental Mood Mixed

On the other side of the world, in Japan and India, the President's call for unconditional negotiations was welcomed, but the mood has been sharply critical since it became apparent the air strikes would continue.

Many Indians have a high regard for Johnson, mindful of the Chinese pressure on India's borders, although he is not nearly so popular as Kennedy.

In Japan, the President is the butt of much more criticism than before. The man in the street, eying the gruesome possibilities in Asia, seems to go along with this.

Vital Stakes

Australia and New Zealand hail Johnson's policies. Both have vital stakes in holding back what is often regarded as a menace of Oriental communism and a threat from pressures generated by sprawling Indonesia.

In the Middle East, the Johnson image seems out of focus, overshadowed by that of Kennedy, who left a strong imprint. The general attitude seems to be that the President is largely un unknown figure in the area.

Among Latin Americans from Mexico to Argentina, the Johnson reputation seems to be enjoying a boom—always excepting the extreme leftists and pro-Castro elements.

Rubber Deadline Midnight

Akron, Ohio (AP)—Management and union representatives who spent the Easter weekend at the bargaining table returned Monday to try to head off a threatened strike against three major rubber companies.

Contracts of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich Co. and Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. run out at midnight Tuesday. United Rubber Workers locals at plants of those companies have voted strike authority if negotiations fail to produce an agreement by that time.

A union spokesman declined comment on whether any progress was made in the weekend talks across Ohio, saying only, "We're always hopeful something can be worked out."

The spokesman said both sides will decide after Monday's talks on the possibility of night sessions. "We're sort of playing it by ear now and we'll see what happens," the spokesman added.

It is traditional that both sides remain tight-lipped on the progress of contract talks once they begin.

Bargaining with Firestone and General Tire & Rubber Co. are being held in Cleveland, with Goodyear in Cincinnati, and with Goodrich in Dayton. All have their headquarters in Akron. General Tire's current pact expires May 15.

A wage increase, cost-of-living escalator, double time for overtime work, a shorter work week and improved vacation plan are among the union demands.

Present average hourly rates are Goodyear, $3.16; Firestone, $3.43, and Goodrich $3.14.

(Members of URW Local No. 286 in Lincoln are being represented at the talks by Gilbert Laws, local president.)

Chapel Escorts Help Hospital Patients

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Companionship and conversation have become as important as the task of taking patients to church at the Lincoln State Hospital — a task which a handful of Lincolnites volunteer to do through the Chapel Escort Service every Sunday afternoon.

The program, run by Mrs. Gould B. Flagg of 1436 B, is sponsored by the Lincoln United Church Women. The project was started to aid the short Sunday staff at the hospital so more patients would be able to attend worship services.

But over the past four years the Chapel Escort Service has become more than one offering only physical assistance. It provides a contact with outsiders that patients look forward to and appreciate.

"When I saw how glad the patients were to see us coming, I was convinced something more had to be done," Mrs. Flagg recalled about her first visit. At that early time of the Escort Service only two womes went to the hospital each Sunday.

Named Chairman

When Mrs. Flagg, a full-time secretary at the University of Nebraska, was named chairman of the service 3½ years ago, she did do "something more."

With the aid of Lincoln churches — some send escorts during a particular month or at regular intervals —Mrs. Flagg has been able to have at least eight volunteers each Sunday. They escort from two buildings, but two more would like to be included.

She believes that men are more at ease with the patients and are better able to support the elderly men who need assistance. "Teen-age boys especially enjoy conversation with the men," she observed.

The Chapel Escort Service takes some 40 to 50 patients who are at all stages of rehabilitation to the Protestant church service held in an all-purpose hall since there is no other worship area at the Lincoln State Hospital.

Discussion

After the church service and after the patients are returned to their wards, the escorts meet with Mrs. Flagg for refreshments and a discussion of the previous hour's events.

At one Sunday afternoon's conversation the church folk were eager to learn about the patients they had escorted since most of the volunteers wanted to continue acquaintances through correspondence. They also asked numerous questions about the hospital operation, activities and rehabilitation process. For all but one this was the first exerience at the State Hospital.

"Rewarding," "challenging" and "inspiring" were heard frequently during that Sunday's conversation. "The biggest effect on me was not so much what I have learned about the patients as what I have learned about myself. Today I have been shown that I take for granted—I have really been overlooking—the most precious God-given gifts, my own mental and physical health," said one volunteer.

They also asked numerous questions about the hospital operation, activities and rehabilitation process. For all but one this was the first exerience at the State Hospital.

"Rewarding," "challenging" and "inspiring" were heard frequently during that Sunday's conversation. "The biggest effect on me was not so much what I have learned about the patients as what I have learned about myself. Today I have been shown that I take for granted—I have really been overlooking—the most precious God-given gifts, my own mental and physical health," said one volunteer.

Rubber Deadline Midnight

Akron, Ohio (AP)—Management and union representatives who spent the Easter weekend at the bargaining table returned Monday to try to head off a threatened strike against three major rubber companies.

Contracts of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich Co. and Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. run out at midnight Tuesday. United Rubber Workers locals at plants of those companies have voted strike authority if negotiations fail to produce an agreement by that time.

A union spokesman declined comment on whether any progress was made in the weekend talks across Ohio, saying only, "We're always hopeful something can be worked out."

The spokesman said both sides will decide after Monday's talks on the possibility of night sessions. "We're sort of playing it by ear now and we'll see what happens," the spokesman added.

It is traditional that both sides remain tight-lipped on the progress of contract talks once they begin.

Bargaining with Firestone and General Tire & Rubber Co. are being held in Cleveland, with Goodyear in Cincinnati, and with Goodrich in Dayton. All have their headquarters in Akron. General Tire's current pact expires May 15.

A wage increase, cost-of-living escalator, double time for overtime work, a shorter work week and improved vacation plan are among the union demands.

Present average hourly rates are Goodyear, $3.16; Firestone, $3.43, and Goodrich $3.14.

(Members of URW Local No. 286 in Lincoln are being represented at the talks by Gilbert Laws, local president.)

HANOI SAYS NO TO NEUTRALS' APPEAL

Tokyo (AP) — Communist North Viet Nam has slammed the door on an appeal by 17 nonaligned nations for unconditional talks on ending the Vietnamese war. And Radio Hanoi declared the Viet Cong was "resolved to fight to the end the U.S. imperialist aggressors and their henchmen."

A statement broadcast by the official North Viet Nam news agency Monday repeated Communist demands made a week ago and since termed unacceptable by U.S. officials as a basis for negotiations.

The statement said that some of those who signed the nonaligned appeal did so "because they were not accurately informed about the bloody war provoked in South Viet Nam by the U.S. imperialists" and "have now shown an unwillingness to support that appeal."

It also said that some of the nations at the Belgrade conference of the nonaligned refused to sign the appeal.

The North Vietnamese statement had been awaited in Washington as the key to the Hanoi regime's position on President Johnson's April 7 offer for "unconditional discussions" as well as the appeal signed April 1 by the nonaligned.

The turndown was termed "highly regrettable" by an Indian government spokesman in New Delhi, the first of the nonaligned to comment. He said the appeal provided "a good base for ending the unhappy state of affairs in Viet Nam."

A separate Hanoi broadcast quoted the Viet Cong as saying any attempt to bring peace in Viet Nam will be impractical without "the first prerequisite, which is the withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Viet Nam."

The communist agency, which said it was authorized by the North Viet Nam government to make the statement, renewed charges against President Johnson's proposal, calling it "a smokescreen to cover up the U.S. imperialists' new military adventures in Viet Nam. . ."

It also ruled out any mediation role by the United Nations as "inappropriate" and contrary to the 1954 Geneva agreements partitioning Viet Nam into North and South.

The broadcast claimed that Viet Cong guerrillas now control three-fourths of South Viet Nam.

"It is clear that at the present time any solution to the South Viet Nam issue without the decisive voice of the South Viet Nam National Front for Liberation (Viet Cong) is impractical," it said.

22 Die In Viet Nam

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrilla groundfire riddled three U.S. Army helicopters on a coastal plain 280 miles northeast of Saigon Monday, killing 9 of 12 American crewmen.

A U.S. Navy fighter pilot was reported killed early Tuesday when his propeller-driven Skyraider crashed in North Viet Nam. A U.S. spokesman said it was one of three planes from the carrier Hancock that smashed a truck convoy during predawn strafing runs on a road running north from the border between North and South Viet Nam.

The spokesman said groundfire was heavy at the start of the raid, but there was no firing at the time the Skyraider crashed. It was not known whether it was shot down or crashed due to other causes.

Viet Cong terrorists ambushed a construction crew on the Bien Hoa highway just outside of Saigon Monday night. An American civilian employe working on a new water main into the capital died.

Deadline Near, Kosygin Warns

Moscow (AP)—Premier Alexei N. Kosygin accused the United States Monday of stepping up the war in Viet Nam and warned a "dangerous deadline" is near.

He said the use of gas and other weapons such as phosphorous and napalm bombs "may invite retaliation in kind."

The present situation, Kosygin added in a television address, is "fraught with unforeseen consequences."

Toughest To Date

The Viet Nam policy statement — the Soviet Union's toughest to date — capped weekend disclosures of Kremlin pledges of additional military aid to North Viet Nam, including Russian volunteers in case of need.

It also appeared to lend weight to speculation that the Russians may be on the verge of setting up antiaircraft missiles on sites reported in preparation around the North Vietnamese capital, Hanoi.

Kosygin, speaking at a Soviet-Mongolian friendship rally for visiting Premier Umzhagin Tsedenbal of Mongolia, denounced the use of napalm and phosphorus bombs and what he called "poisonous gases" in Viet Nam.

But Kosygin pictured U.S. military commanders in South Viet Nam as having used gas against Viet Cong guerrillas without White House sanction.

He asked whether this meant they could use other types of weapons at their discretion.

"If this is really so, then such a state of affairs is fraught with unforeseen consequences," he said.

"It should be borne in mind that today the United States is not the only country to possess modern types of weapons," he continued.

"The use of these or other means of warfare may invite retaliation in kind."

Cat Fever Vaccine Better Than Hoped

Washington (AP)—The Public Health Service announced Monday night it has tested a new vaccine which appears to give complete protection against an influenza-like disease which has caused many epidemics among military recruits.

The vaccine, developed by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, was tried out first on prisoner-volunteers and then on a large group of Marine-recruits who also volunteered.

The young Marines who received the vaccine were exposed to the usual annual outbreak of the disease—sometimes called cat fever—at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Not one developed the disease, Dr. Robert M. Chanock reported.

'Exceeds Expectations'

He and Dr. Dorland J. Davis, director of the allergy institute, described the development of the vaccine. They said the results "exceeded expectations."

The disease is known scientifically as adenovirus 4.

The principal symptoms are fever, sore throat and a generally miserable feeling. While the disease itself is not considered extremely dangerous, about 10% of those who contract it go on to develop pneumonia, and in some epidemics this proportion has been higher.

Still Experimental

Chanock and others emphasized that the vaccine still is considered experimental and will not be available for some time to physicians in ordinary practice. In any case, they said, its use probably will be limited almost entirely to the military because few cases of this particular infection seem to occur in civilian life.

However, Chanock said, there are a number of closely related viruses which do afflict the general population, especially young children, and the development of the adenovirus 4 vaccine could lead to discovery of protective measures against these.

The vaccine consists of a dosage of specially bred live virus. It is in a capsule which does not dissolve until it reaches the intestinal tract. Thus the throat and chest areas, where the normal disease usually breaks up, are bypassed and an infection develops in the digestive tract.

This infection, however, judging by the experience on the Marine volunteers, does not result in any symptoms of disease. It passes after a time but develops antibodies in the patient's body which then protect him against infection by the virus.

An NIH spokesman explained that adenovirus 4 has nothing to do with cats. He said it was popularly called "catarrhal fever" in World War II and service men shortened this to "cat fever."

Ohio Village Plans New Meeting Hall

Pittsfield, Ohio (AP)—As soon as the weather permits, construction will start in this northern Ohio farming community, obliterated by a Palm Sunday tornado.

Pittsfield Township Trustee Willoughby Harris said the first structure, originally planned as a township garage, will serve as a public meeting hall until the town hall can be replaced.

The old hall, 12 houses, two churches and a combination grocery-gas station were destroyed by the twister April 11. Nine persons were killed out of a population of 50.

Hopefully, a new town hall and church can be built by late summer on the new leveled site, Harris said. The garage will cost $5,000.

Steelworkers Propose Extension Past Deadline

Pittsburgh (AP) — Reliable sources said Monday night that the United Steelworkers have proposed an interim agreement that would extend new contract talks with the basic steel industry beyond a May 1 deadline.

The word came on the heels of an announcement that the union's wage policy committee will meet in Pittsburgh Thursday and an expression of optimism by William E. Simkin, the government's top labor trouble-shooter.

Sources said the union's proposal, made in late afternoon, was based on a 3.2% annual wage hike guideline recommended by the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

The sources indicated that for steelworkers, earning an average of $4.40-an-hour, this could mean about a 14-cent hike and three cents in cost-of-living increment.

Refused 5 Cents

Just last week, the union rejected an industry plan that would have given steelworkers a five-cent hike under an interim agreement lasting 69 days to six months.

The 170-member wage policy unit, composed of elected rank-and-file union members, has the final say on the USW's contract matters.

Simkin, director of the federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, met Sunday night with R. Conrad Cooper, the chief company negotiator. Monday, Simkin met privately with David J. McDonald, steelworkers president.

'Not Hopeless'

"I don't think the situation is hopeless by any means," Simkin remarked. "I believe there is an excellent chance an agreement will be worked out for further negotiations and avoid a strike."

Bargainers for both sides met separately this morning. A joint union-company sessions was held in the afternoon.

Simkin indicated a full agreement is out of the question for now, but said he hoped both sides could at least reach partial agreement that would avert a May strike of some 425,000 steelworkers.

'Father Of Waters' Breaches Dike

La Crosse, Wis. (UPI) — Maverick Mississippi River water swirled 8 feet deep through a cluster of bulk gasoline tanks Monday night, posing an "extremely serious" threat of fire in this already flood-embattled city.

The rampaging Mississippi carved two breaks in dikes protecting the city of 50,000, forced officials at Winona, Minn., to order more than 1,000 persons out of their homes and threatened to breach a newly constructed levee far downstream at Quincy, Ill.

The Father of Waters was increasing or keeping up its pressure along most of a 500-mile flood front from eastern Minnesota to eastern Missouri and western Illinois.

15 Million Gallons

Mayor Milo Knutson ordered evacuation of 25 families on La Crosse's north side Monday because of fears that fire might spread among the 15 million gallons of gasoline. One of the tanks, containing 107,000 gallons of gasoline, listed at a 45-degree angle and was believed leaking.

Fire Chief John Morch of West Allis, Wis., one of nine experts called to the scene to assess the danger, said a fire could spread "a 10-mile path of destruction should the tanks catch fire." Civil Defense officials described the situation as "extremely serious."

Wisconsin's Gov. Warren P. Knowles asked President Johnson to declare the state a disaster area. The governors of Illinois and Missouri toured danger points in their states and met to plan defense measures.

An ice jam broke loose on the southern part of Lake Pepin, upstream on the Mississippi, and sent its burden rushing downstream toward the flood-battered Minnesota cities of Wabasha and Winona.

A newly built levee five miles north of Quincy, Ill., appeared in danger of giving way under the continued pressure of the river, and a call went out for 100 more men to shore it up. A second crest, fed by the flood waters sweeping down from Minnesota and Wisconsin, was expected later this week. Weathermen said the second crest would not be as high as the 24.3-foot level measured Easter at Quincy.

Workers Give World's Fair Site Feverish Sprucing-Up

New York (AP) — With the New York World's Fair opening Wednesday, workmen set a feverish pace Monday sprucing up the 646-acre exposition site.

The billion-dollar exposition opens officially at 8:30 a.m. with a ribbon-cutting ceremony followed by a formal program featuring speeches by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt.

All remaining to be done to revitalize the sprawling exhibition site after a winter of idleness are some last-minute housekeeping chores and a few minor technical adjustments in some of the intricate displays.

Lighter Entertainment

The emphasis during this second six-month season will be on more entertainment of a lighter variety than that presented last year.

One spokesman said the fair — particularly the lake amusement area—will have a "carnival atmosphere — but not the cheap carnival type."

Added to the offerings this season are several new displays, girlie shows "of a family type," late night dinner entertainment and more admission-free exhibits.

Back for another season will be the highly successful pavilions and displays sponsored by the giants of industry including the automobile manufacturers, utilities, fuel producers and other major firms.

Religious Tone

The fair again this year will have a religious tone with several pavilions operated by such church groups as the Vatican, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) and evangelist Billy Graham.

Throughout the weekend and probably almost up to the hour of the official opening, truckloads of food stuffs will be crated into the fair site in Flushing Meadow Park.

These will be served in the many lunch counters and restaurants spotted throughout the exposition site.

Fair President Robert Moses hopes for a considerably higher first-day attendance than the 89,000 who braved chilly weather and day-long rain to visit the fair on opening day last year.

Demonstrations

Also holding down last year's opening day attendance were widespread racial demonstrations. The Congress of Racial Equality announced it would demonstrate at the fair again this year, but it did not say when or where.

Attendance throughout the 1964 season fell 13 million below the 40 million expected by fair officials. As a result, the fair lost $17.5 million.

This year, Moses expects 37.5 million visitors before the exposition closes Oct. 21. About 14 million tickets purchased last year never were used and will be honored at the gates this year despite a jump from $2 to $2.50 in adult admission.

In Lieu Of Texas

Particular emphasis was placed on revamping the lake amusement area where many concessionaires last year went broke. The defunct Texas pavilion there has been turned into a vast playland which will offer skill games, dancing and can-can shows daily.

The night life at the fair this season promises to be gayer than last when most of the foreign and domestic restaurants closed about 10:30 p.m.

"This year most of them plan to stay open until the fair closes at 2 a.m.," a spokesman said." The emphasis is going to be on entertainment and night life with the international theme predominant."

This year, Moses expects 37.5 million visitors before the exposition closes Oct. 21. About 14 million tickets purchased last year never were used and will be honored at the gates this year despite a jump from $2 to $2.50 in adult admission

In Lieu Of Texas

Particular emphasis was placed on revamping the lake amusement area where many concessionaires last year went broke. The defunct Texas pavilion there has been turned into a vast playland which will offer skill games, dancing and can-can shows daily.

The night life at the fair this season promises to be gayer than last when most of the foreign and domestic restaurants closed about 10:30 p.m.

"This year most of them plan to stay open until the fair closes at 2 a.m.," a spokesman said." The emphasis is going to be on entertainment and night life with the international theme predominant."

Panhandle Oats, Barley Seeding Nears Finish

. . . Pre-Irrigation Of Fields Under Way

Field operations, hampered for weeks by poor weather conditions, are in full swing across Nebraska, government crop observers reported Monday.

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said the seeding of oats and barley is nearly completed in the Panhandle and getting started in northeastern counties. About 8% of the oats crop has been seeded.

Tillage operations were under way in most areas of the state.

Planting of sugar beets continued in the Panhandle and some of the central and southwestern counties. Most of the early potatoes are in the ground in the central part of the state.

The division said many farmers are pre-irrigating fields in order to get moisture down ahead of planting to row crops.

The condition of winter wheat showed some decline last week as high winds prevailed in western areas, causing some additional acreage loss.

The wheat crop is coming out of the dormant stage in the Panhandle where many fields have thin stands. In the east, the amount of winter kill is becoming more apparent and many farmers are faced with the problem of leaving the crop or plowing it up.

The alfalfa crop is starting to green up but plant development has been very slow because of cool weather and lack of mositure.

Pasture and range feed continue in short supply. Movement of range cattle to summer pastures will be later than usual unless moisture and higher temperatures develop soon.

Calving continues in the Sandhills with well over half of the crop dropped. More than the usual amount of losses from scours has occurred this year because of bad weather conditions.

Spring farrowing of sows continues with most operators reporting good litter sizes.

Inshipments of stocker and feeder cattle totaled 114,000 head during March, up 25% from March, 1964. Sheep and lamb inshipments were 4% ahead of last year at 25,000 head.

Precipitation received via sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages follows:

Northwest - .81 of an inch (1965); .93 of an inch (average).
North Central 1.29; 1.03.
Northeast 1.11; 1.20.
Central 1.29; 1.03.

Norfolk Radio Station Returns To Air After Damaging Blaze

Norfolk (AP)—Radio Station WJAG returned to the air on a full broadcasting schedule at 6 a.m. Monday after a fire damaged its transmitter building 3½ miles west of Norfolk Saturday.

The fire was discovered at 3:55 a.m. Saturday.

Two WJAG staff members left Norfolk at 1:30 p.m. Saturday for Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and returned at 11:45 p.m. with a new transmitter. Chief Engineer Jerry Jaroska, assisted by his brother, Miles, an engineering student at the University of Nebraska, worked continuously until the early hours Monday to install the new transmitter in a temporary location in a garage on the transmitter site.

Meters, Dials Melted

A station spokesman said the fire, which apparently started from electrical wiring underneath the floor of the building, generated such intense heat that meters and dials were melted and wire crystalized.

WJAG news director Wayne Larsen said this is the first time in nearly 43 years of broadcasting that Nebraska's pioneer station has been off the air for a full day. Even in the flooding of May, 1944, WJAG was able to transfer its broadcasting operations to the transmitter site and remain on the air.

Sorensen Gets Swigart Support

Omaha (AP)—City Councilman Warren R. Swigart announced Monday he will support A. V. Sorensen for mayor in the May 11 election.

Swigart was third man in the three-way race for nomination for mayor in the April 6 primary and thus lost out. Sorensen and incumbent Mayor James J. Dworak were nominated.

Swigart said he will have a statement later about seeking re-election to the council with a write-in campaign.

Swigart said his endorsement was made without political commitments.

Sorensen described Swigart's endorsement as "especially important because as a member of Omaha's city council, he is alert to what has been happening in our community and in our city government for the past four years and he recognizes the need for new leadership."

Strange Animal Probably Puma, Steen Believes

There is a possibility pumas are roaming southeast Nebraska, but if so, there's not many of them.

That was the report Monday from State Game Commission Director Mel Steen who said he has talked to persons who claim they have seen a puma or pumas.

Steen discounted the possibility of more than one or two of the large cats living in southeast Nebraska. "They're never abundant and generally quite solitary," he said.

He said they present no danger to man and little danger to livestock and they prey mainly on deer.

He said pumas, also called cugars and panthers, have been spotted in western Nebraska, and surrounding states.

Candidate Cites Taxpayer Waste

Bellwood (UPI) — Cecil E. Higginbotham, the nation's first announced 1968 presidential candidate, said Monday that the taxpayer is wasting a lot of money paying salaries and operating expenses to congressmen.

"A hundred dollars worth of signature stamps and one efficient secretary could do just as good a job of lawmaking as the 'me too chief' Congress we now have," Higginbotham said.

"It is a sad state of affairs when a politician becomes more obligated to his party than to legislation of good, common sense government," he said.

Wheat Farmers Urged To Support Callan Bill

Lincoln Star Special

Ogailala—A past president of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Monday afternoon called for wheat farmers who want increased income and gradual withdrawal of the government from agriculture to support the Callan wheat bill now before Congress.

William E. Colwell of Hay Springs, at a wheat growers directors' meeting, said the proposed new legislation has six distinguishing features which he said makes it the soundest legislation proposed in many years.

He cited these six features:

1. It is permanent legislation so that farmers can plant from year to year.

2. It calls for price support funds to come from the market place and not the U.S. treasury.

3. It means that the government is acting only as bargaining agent for the wheat farmers.

4. It marks the first time that we will begin to work the government out of agriculture.

5. The legislation has an export certificate which provides support for export wheat prices.

6. The legislation would provide a fair market price for wheat supporting one-half of production at $2.50 per bushel and having that price support tied to an escalator clause which increases the price support as increases occur in the rest of the economy.

He said the legislation would return to Nebraska wheat farmers about $1.92 per bushel on their normal production. This increase in turn, Colwell said, would provide "immediate help to businesses and merchants on main street in Nebraska towns."

Another benefit would be the $1.25 loan rate pricing wheat so that it can compete for industrial usage and as a feed grain, Colwell added.

He said the new legislation would also spark U.S. export changes and allow U.S. wheat to compete with Australia, Canada, Argentina and other export nations for overseas markets.

Wheat growers directors indicated a preference for the Callan bill now before Congress over the wheat section contained in the administration's farm bill.

In other action the directors adopted a more specific stand for a broadened state tax base. They passed a resolution which stated "we are in a drought cycle and ask the Unicameral to urgently consider the following request for the good of all Nebraskans: The present state system penalizes property owners by making them pay an unfair share of the cost of state government. It also makes unwilling free loaders out of non-property owners who wish to pay their fair share. We petition the Unicameral to end this deplorable situation this session by enacting LB797."

Youth Corps To Aid State's Game Department Work

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen reported Monday that the Game Department will participate in the federal government's war on poverty program.

He said the department will use youngsters from neighborhood Youth Corps in southeast Nebraska to build a combination picnic and camping area at Indian Cave State Park.

He said the youths, aged 16 to 21 years of age, will come from Auburn, Tecumseh, Falls City, Humboldt and Nebraska City.

The federal government will pay 90% of the costs of the park project and the state will pay 10%.

Neighborhood Youths Corps are being established to provide jobs for youths from low-income families.

Steen indicated that boys from a Lexington neighborhood Youths Corps may be used in some Platte Valley Game Department projects.

Norfolk Radio Station Returns To Air After Damaging Blaze

Norfolk (AP)—Radio Station WJAG returned to the air on a full broadcasting schedule at 6 a.m. Monday after a fire damaged its transmitter building 3½ miles west of Norfolk Saturday.

The fire was discovered at 3:55 a.m. Saturday.

Two WJAG staff members left Norfolk at 1:30 p.m. Saturday for Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and returned at 11:45 p.m. with a new transmitter. Chief Engineer Jerry Jaroska, assisted by his brother, Miles, an engineering student at the University of Nebraska, worked continuously until the early hours Monday to install the new transmitter in a temporary location in a garage on the transmitter site.

Meters, Dials Melted

A station spokesman said the fire, which apparently started from electrical wiring underneath the floor of the building, generated such intense heat that meters and dials were melted and wire crystalized.

WJAG news director Wayne Larsen said this is the first time in nearly 43 years of broadcasting that Nebraska's pioneer station has been off the air for a full day. Even in the flooding of May, 1944, WJAG was able to transfer its broadcasting operations to the transmitter site and remain on the air.

Candidate Cites Taxpayer Waste

Bellwood (UPI) — Cecil E. Higginbotham, the nation's first announced 1968 presidential candidate, said Monday that the taxpayer is wasting a lot of money paying salaries and operating expenses to congressmen.

"A hundred dollars worth of signature stamps and one efficient secretary could do just as good a job of lawmaking as the 'me too chief' Congress we now have," Higginbotham said.

"It is a sad state of affairs when a politician becomes more obligated to his party than to legislation of good, common sense government," he said.

Wheat Farmers Urged To Support Callan Bill

Lincoln Star Special

Ogallala—A past president of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Monday afternoon called for wheat farmers who want increased income and gradual withdrawal of the government from agriculture to support the Callan wheat bill now before Congress.

William E. Colwell of Hay Springs, at a wheat growers directors' meeting, said the proposed new legislation has six distinguishing features which he said makes it the soundest legislation proposed in many years.

He cited these six features:

1. It is permanent legislation so that farmers can plant from year to year.

2. It calls for price support funds to come from the market place and not the U.S. treasury.

3. It means that the government is acting only as bargaining agent for the wheat farmers.

4. It marks the first time that we will begin to work the government out of agriculture.

5. The legislation has an export certificate which provides support for export wheat prices.

6. The legislation would provide a fair market price for wheat supporting one-half of production at $2.50 per bushel and having that price support tied to an escalator clause which increases the price support as increases occur in the rest of the economy.

He said the legislation would return to Nebraska wheat farmers about $1.92 per bushel on their normal production. This increase in turn, Colwell said, would provide "immediate help to businesses and merchants on main street in Nebraska towns."

Another benefit would be the $1.25 loan rate pricing wheat so that it can compete for industrial usage and as a feed grain, Colwell added.

He said the new legislation would also spark U.S. export changes and allow U.S. wheat to compete with Australia, Canada, Argentina and other export nations for overseas markets.

Wheat growers directors indicated a preference for the Callan bill now before Congress over the wheat section contained in the administration's farm bill.

In other action the directors adopted a more specific stand for a broadened state tax base. They passed a resolution which stated "we are in a drought cycle and ask the Unicameral to urgently consider the following request for the good of all Nebraskans: The present state system penalizes property owners by making them pay an unfair share of the cost of state government. It also makes unwilling free loaders out of non-property owners who wish to pay their fair share. We petition the Unicameral to end this deplorable situation this session by enacting LB797."

Youth Corps To Aid State's Game Department Work

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen reported Monday that the Game Department will participate in the federal government's war on poverty program.

He said the department will use youngsters from neighborhood Youth Corps in southeast Nebraska to build a combination picnic and camping area at Indian Cave State Park.

He said the youths, aged 16 to 21 years of age, will come from Auburn, Tecumseh, Falls City, Humboldt and Nebraska City.

The federal government will pay 90% of the costs of the park project and the state will pay 10%.

Neighborhood Youths Corps are being established to provide jobs for youths from low-income families.

Steen indicated that boys from a Lexington neighborhood Youths Corps may be used in some Platte Valley Game Department projects.

Water A Great Force

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Perhaps you were among those w[illegible] Easter week-end to some other area of the country. If so, you may have concluded at the end [illegible] was had by [illegible] was good to get back [illegible]. And one of the [illegible] Lincoln water. Taken from deep wells along the Platte River at Ashland, Lincoln water cannot be beat.

The constant low temperature of the water makes it a real treat when genuine thirst overtakes you. Along with that is its perfect taste and clear appearance. We never brag much about it but Lincoln water is truly something to brag about. Not only is it good water but we have an abundance of it. Many communities would be happy if they could boast of either of these two assets.

Tasty And Plentiful

A city that can claim both a good and abundant supply of water is in an enviable position these days. Lincoln should never lose sight of the fact that it has such an asset.

When it comes to water in real abundance, most people think of the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans. These are surely magnificent bodies of water—at times tranquil scenes and at other times forces of terrible destruction. While they generally serve man, they can deal furiously with him when it seems to please them.

And at times, the two great oceans must swell with laughter as they watch men battle over them. After a little more than half a century of operation, the Panama Canal which now connects the two bodies of water appears to be in line for some serious competition.

A two-pronged situation is currently eating away at the peaceful operation of that canal. For one thing, traffic is overloading the locks of the Panama Canal. Even if everything else were right with the world, there would be discussion of new canal facilities as a result of traffic demand between the two oceans. But adding to that complexity is the fact that the U.S. and Panama have not gotten along too famously in recent years. The old treaty of 1903 under which the U.S. obtained its canal rights from Panama has long been under serious attack. Panamanians resent a great multitude of things in connection with our ownership and operation of the canal.

We are currently in the process of studying this treaty with Panama and may well come up with some changes. Some concession to the nationalistic tendencies of Panama as well as some financial rewards are likely to be our sacrifice for continued operation of the locks. At the same time, President Johnson has about completed appointments to a new canal commission that will study the situation and recommend the site for a new sea-level canal between the Atlantic and Pacific. Congress has approved a $17.5 million expenditure for the study, which is to include preliminary estimates that will run into the billions. In 1947 a congressional study estimated that conversion of the Panama Canal to a sea-level facility would cost $2,483,000,000.

It is still possible that this could be the project decided upon. It is possible that we would have a sea-level canal today were it not for the fact that its estimate of cost back near the turn of the century was quite a bit higher than the locks system and that its construction period would have been longer.

Even then, however, competent authority recommended a sea-level canal but we ended up with the cumbersome and limited locks system. This time, it seems clear that any new facility will definitely be at sea level, providing for easy and quick transfer of ships from one ocean to the other.

Sea-Level Operation

The job of the new canal commission, in fact, is said to be selection of a site, primarily, and the ascertaining of preliminary cost figures. Presumably, at least, we have eliminated all consideration of just another locks type canal. Defense strategists have long been concerned over the possibility of sabotage or direct bombing of the present canal and the adverse effect this would have on naval operations. Defense worries would be much less, naturally, with a sea-level canal that would be difficult to render inoperable.

While we seem to have settled the question as to the type of canal, the new commission will have to look at the practical political realties of the day that have not been settled. How the U.S. can build a canal and maintain its rights therewith and still have friendly relations with the cooperating country involved is the ticklish problem the commission must tackle and solve.

We Are Doing All Right

The most recent report of the Tenth Federal Reserve District concluded with remarks about bank deposits in this seven state area. More specifically this refers to the area that includes Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, the western portion of Missouri, New Mexico and Colorado.

In the closing paragraph it said, "Total deposits declined during the period as a result of a $33 million drop in demand deposits coupled with a $20 million advance in time deposits. In the same period a year ago, demand deposits rose $16 million and time deposits increased $29 million."

This becomes especially interesting when used as a background for the current Lincoln banking situation. The report shows Lincoln deposits at $217,363,000 being $17,056,000 more than the reporting period at this time a year ago. Against the same target it does show a decrease of demand deposits of $1,858,000 but $884,000 of this came in the withdrawal of federal government funds. But the city's total in time deposits increased to $66,996,000 which was $18,914,000 more than a year ago.

We gather from this that Lincoln comes close to being an exception in the region. While it reflected a little of the deposit downturn the degree was trivial.

What do we interpret this to mean? Well mainly that the business pace is going on without much of a slowdown in growth rate, and also that individuals with in-pocket money are feeling little if any pain.

This is an optimistic reflection on the state of the Lincoln economy, an indicator of continuing growth and a guarantee that if the news is ever going to be bad the date hasn't been set.

We can proceed with confidence.

Our wolf is a curiosity in the Antelope Park zoo. It is not the one that now and then haunts doorsteps.

Paid Peace Keepers

Politically the world is a pretty cold place with lots of variations on the theme.

So is foreign aid. It is something we have to have. There are many places where it does the people of a foreign nation some good. And there are some places where it is misnamed. Those are the places where we have to hire national leadership to remain on our side or to permit us to violate sovereignty to the extent of placing a needed military installation there.

From the time we have been a major nation we have had to pay this sort of tribute. But only recently have we called it foreign aid. For years we paid several hundred million a year to whatever head beater was in charge of Cuba. It didn't serve to improve the Cubans' lot, but to assist in keeping the peace. The various head men pocketed a good deal of the cash and invariably took off to some peaceful clime with it when a rival showed up who was too tough.

Now we seem to be in a similar sad experience in Iran. It showed up in this country when a refugee from Iran brought suit against the Shah. He is trying to collect $2.7 million of his own money which he unwisely invested in one of the Shah's "help the people" projects. The suit claims that of the sums the U.S. gave to Iran to improve the economy, a good deal went to improve the private fortunes of the Shah, his family, and some favorites. The Iranian public didn't get much.

A direct result of the revelations resulted in the Iranian ambassador being sent home. And on the next round there was no foreign aid money for Iran.

Minor powers have lived that way for a long while and consider it good diplomacy. It is a prerogative of the ruling class and one of the better ways of making a good living. It is also one of the reasons why the backward world has such a hard time modernizing.

Interstate Locked In

The weekly Wayne Herald has taken up a losing cause in advocating that the Interstate highway from North Platte west be located north rather than south of the main-line railroad tracks that run through the south part of the Nebraska Panhandle. Right or wrong, the Interstate is now fixed in its route south of the river and the tracks and hardly even a miracle could change it.

The Wayne Herald points out that citizens of communities lying north of the tracks will have to cross the tracks to get to and from the Interstate. This, it argues is a dangerous situation that could be avoided if the Interstate were placed north of the tracks. The argument isn't without some logic but it will never prevail.

The north-south battle for the Interstate was fought and lost a long time ago and the railroad tracks were a part of the battle. The solution now is not relocation of the Interstate but construction of viaducts over the tracks.

This will cost money but at least it can be done. Two communities facing this problem, Lexington and Cozad, are already in the process of tryng to acquire overhead routes across the tracks to the Interstate.

The Interstate location will actually spur such construction, often in cases where the need might otherwise never be met. Even if the Interstate were moved, there would still be a demand for more viaducts than are now in existence. Effort to change the Interstate location simply is of no avail, regardless of its merit, while work toward more viaducts could produce action that is vitally needed.

Powder Maker In Political Link?

WASHINGTON — Among the biggest contributors to the Republican party are executives of the Olin-Mathieson Corp., of whom Spencer T. Olin is Republican national treasurer. In 1962, he contributed $34,600 to the GOP campaign chest while other Olin-Mathieson executives brought the total up to a whopping $100,750.

There is no known connection between this and the excess profits which Olin-Mathieson has charged the Army. Nevertheless the public has a right to know that the General Accounting Office has just charged that Olin-Mathieson soaked the taxpayers over $1 million in excess profits for blank cartridge powder. Most of this excess charge occurred during the Republican administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The General Accounting Office also charges that the Army, during the Eisenhower administration, changed its requirements so that only one company — namely Olin-Mathieson, the big contributors to the Republican party —could qualify for the contract.

The directive which resulted in the whopping overcharge was issued April 1954 by Lt. Gen. Emerson L. Cummings, then Army ordnance chief.

"The chief of ordnance directed that all military small arms should eventually be loaded with ball-type propellant powder which was developed by and is produced only by Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation," says the GAO report. Since there were no other bidders, Olin-Mathieson was awarded a negotiated contract that ran into staggering profits.

Previously, the government had procured similar powder at about 90 cents a pound. Instead, the Army purchased from Olin-Mathieson for $1.72 a pound "without requesting a review of Olin-Mathieson's costs," charged the General Accounting Office.

"Furthermore, even after excessive prices were disclosed by the Army Audit Agency," says GAO, "contracting officials did not take timely action to obtain a lower price from Olin-Mathieson.

"Olin-Mathieson earned profits amounting to about 162 per cent of the cost of powder sold to Remington Arms during the period December 1958 to January 1962," charges the GAO. "When the excessive prices were eventually disclosed by the Army Audit Agency review, Olin-Mathieson and the Army negotiated a significantly lower price for future delivery.

This is not the first time that Olin-Mathieson has been in trouble over a cartridge contract with the Army. During the war, ten members of the U.S. Cartridge Co. in St Louis, a subsidiary of Olin industries, were indicted for conspiracy to pass defective ammunition, making false statements, and violating the Sabotage Act. Tried in April 1944, they were found not guilty.

Hint U.S. Target May Be Red China

WASHINGTON—With the bombing of North Viet Nam by American Air Force planes in the third month and no sign of reaction from Hanoi skeptics are beginning to ask how far this tactic will finally go and what, if any, results can be expected.

It was too absurd, say defenders of the policy, to think response could come after only two or two and a half months. As bridges and military installations are bombed the North is hurting, according to spokesmen at the two-day briefing here the other day for editors and commentators from around the country. And the hurt will grow as the air strikes continue.

But doubts as to the ultimate objective persist. Critics of the bombing policy on the left, many of them with wide knowledge of Asia, suspect that the real goal is not North Viet Nam but Red China and China's nuclear potential. Cynics on the right go so far as to say in private that the President's Johns Hopkins speech was a propaganda exercise intended to calm the doves while the war goes on at the same pace.

Critics to one side, the practical question is whether and at what point bombing can undermine the will of a people to resist. Bombing of population centers is not now contemplated. It is recognized by spokesmen for the Vietnamese that hitting the industrial complex around Hanoi could stiffen resistance.

Official appraisal of the results of World War II bombing underscores this belief. In his book, "Germany's Underground," published in 1947, Allen Dulles, former head of the CIA who spent the war in Switzerland in close contact with the anti-Nazi movement, concludes that the wholesale bombing of cities did little to shorten the war. After the bombing of Hamburg in the summer of 1943, which caused the first fire storm in military history and took from 60,000 to 100,000 lives, Dulles said he mistakenly believed more of this would bring an early German collapse.

"Some months later I came to the conclusion that I was wrong," he wrote. "German morale not only withstood the bombing of cities but seemed to stiffen under it. Instead of gaining recruits the anti-Nazis lost recruits . . . "

The official United States strategic bombing survey carried out by distinguished civilians reached a similar verdict. Mass bombing lowered psychological morale but authoritarian controls remained intact and repression and coercion maintained a "treadmill sort of war production." Bombing of transportation and industrial sites prepared the way for the invasion of Germany and an end to the war. But foot soldiers on the ground had to invade and conquer the enemy nation.

The bombs dropped so far have been conventional, nonnuclear weapons. If the strategy is extended to Red China — there have been repeated warnings of "no privileged sanctuary" nuclear weapons will be used. And that will be a test of quite another order.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

This man was big, with shoulders slightly slumped from years of toil. His frame hunched over the table as he ate his breakfast always a hearty breakfast to sustain him through the morning.

After he had eaten, he stretched and yawned, then stepped outside to greet the dawn of a new day. He always vied with the roosters for the first glimpse of sunrise.

His eyes were the color of the sky and as changeable—sometimes a clear languid blue or as gray as rain . . .

Strong were his hands and as brown as hazelnuts in autumn . . . yet they were kind to child and beast alike. They were made for baiting fish-hooks in the lazy days of summer or rubbing life into a newborn lamb in spring . . .

When his day began, he made a careful observation of the weathervane. The golden cock upon the barn veered with the four winds, yet this man understood the swinging change of days.

He knew when to pile the loft with clover hay or fill the bins with ripened grain. He knew the time to stack the firewood near the house and bring the cattle close around the buildings . . .

This keen-eyed lover of the windswept farm and mellow earth captained all the toil-filled days. The soil he turned by knowing hands and the seed he sowed were of the honest kind. With sunshine, care and rain, he helped to paint a landscape to beautify the earth. In silence that gave him strength anew, he attained moments of refreshing calm. He fit the mosaic pieces of life into the intricate pattern of fulfillment and happiness . . . . this big man who cast his eyes toward the weathervane and caught the first glint of a new day as the golden cock veered with the winds . . .

The past week has been filled with sporadic rain showers. Some of the rain came in cold drippy drops that splashed hard against the windowpanes. Other showers fell in a slow, purposeful manner, soaking the ground until it was saturated. The clouds at times seemed to tumble across the fields, leaving all the cracks filled with water.

It brought the frogs out of their winter hibernation. Tonight they sing from the roadside ditches. One went by with a splashy hop as if to say, "Rain can't hurt me —I'm rainproof!"

The neighbors' white Peking ducks sit upon the farm pond twenty-four hours a day. They, too, give one a busy line of conversation. "The rain won't drive us out of the pond—we're waterproof!"

Now that April's here, it brings the lengthened twilight dusk, brightened by the happy sounds of children lingering to catch the last brief moment of stolen play.

Their laughter rings across the street and behind the garden fence. They are dark shadows, crouching and darting as they scatter in their games. They bound along the ground like puppies or sneak quietly behind the hedge row like kittens ready to pounce on a make-believe mouse. They can scream like a wildcat at times and the neighborhood quakes with fear, but when the sky has lost its pale streak of daylight, the little shadows slowly melt away.

Suddenly the night seems lonely and I find myself waiting for tomorrow's April twilight. What better things can April bring than waterproof ducks and rainproof frogs . . . unless it be laughing shadows that play hide-and-go-seek?

A Quiet Man

Lincoln, Neb.

The letter from "Grateful" on April 15 was appreciated, but points out clearly that people read only what they want to see.

I was only trying to explain that Mr. Kennedy would far prefer living tributes in his name to those of marble. He was never a limelight-seeker, even as far back as World War II. His heroic actions on a PT boat did not come to light until long after the combat, and then it was not he who reminded writers.

Mr. Kennedy was a quiet man, almost humbled by the great responsibility he bore in the guidance of America. There was an inner drive and strength that brought some of his hopes. We knew he suffered great physical pain and mental pain, too, for the things he could not do. He sought enduring peace for all mankind, health and comfort for those in need, help for retarded children as he looked upon his own healthy and happy son and daughter.

He gave his life to help the living.

The Promise

North Bend, Neb.

Perhaps the beauty, loveliness and warmth of spring instill new and greater hope for the aged, the wheelchair invalids, the depressed and the lonely more than anything else.

I have lived and seen during one short lifetime a changing world, from oxen-drawn sodbusters to giant six-plow machines, from the old spring-wagon and family carriage to semi-transports and $6,000 cars rolling along at 80 miles an hour over what were once deep-rooted covered wagon trails.

When we see the beauty and feel the warmth of another beautiful spring season, the regeneration of life in the first green blades of grass, the budding of trees, the first flowers, we know that our promise of perpetual life has been fulfilled. There at last is the promise of another spring in another world for those with faith and eternal hope.

LB724

Columbus, Neb.

LB724, requiring consent of county attorney and attorney general for filing a complaint in criminal procedure, should be defeated.

It compromises counterforces of the rule of law by conveying responsibilities of judge, jury and supreme court to county attorney and attorney general.

It opens the door to arbitrary power and exposes these officials to pressures of politically corrupt concentrations of power. It denies the right of petition for redress of grievances to individuals criminally caught in the web of arbitrary power.

The greatest problem of all legislation in a free society is upholding rights of the individual by procedures and disciplines guaranteeing that the rule of law will not be usurped for opposite purposes for which it is intended.

The appallingly upward trend of crime will be reversed by legislation that absolutely prevent compromises of justice and fully reconciles private freedom with public responsibility.

Academic Freedom

Lincoln Neb.

When considering recent events here in Lincoln, one should not merely pass off the subtle banning of the novel, "Candy." I believe there are grave implications in this act which require every interested citizen to examine it closely.

Free speech remains a major bulwark in our democratic foundation and yet acts of this nature seriously endanger our cherished principle. Both the art of speaking and the art of writing contain ideas which have been spoken or written. When either speech or literature is suppressed, then in reality one is suppressing ideas.

The process of limitng ideas requires someone to judge them. As a member of this community and a citizen of this country, I am not willing to allow an individual or individuals to censor my literature. By creating a judge of ideas, one assumes he possesses a monopoly on truth or knowledge. Surely no one owns such complete knowledge because ideas are essentially subjective in nature much like taste in foods. One must judge for himself.

We profess to punish actions and not ideas. I think this is necessary in a democracy. When a society punishes or suppresses ideas, then this society is no longer a free society and has begun the long road towards the totalitarian state. I wonder how many ideas have been ridiculed and suppressed by past societies and are now wholly accepted by contemporary man?

Academic freedom is closely tied to freedom of speech. Academic freedom should not and must not be confined to the campus alone but must be practiced in all sectors of a democratic society. Leaving school does not signify the end of an education. Every day one comes into contact with new ideas and concepts which he must accept or reject. When a society does not practice academic freedom as in many areas of the South, injustice, prejudice and closed minds prevail as a consequence of that inner decay. Thus, it seems imperative that we maintain an atmosphere where ideas may flourish.

Although I have not read "Candy," as an individual I want to experience all ideas and then accept or reject them on their own merits without the aid of a county attorney or anyone else. I sincerely hope I am not alone in my beliefs.

Water A Great Force

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Perhaps you were among those who took an excursion over the Easter weekend to some other area of the country. The constant low temperature of the water makes it a real treat when genuine thirst overtakes you. Along with that is its perfect taste and clear appearance. We never brag much about it, but Lincoln water is truly something to brag about. Not only is it good water, but we have an abundance of it. Many communities would be happy if they could boast of either of these two assets.

Tasty And Plentiful

A city that can claim both a good and abundant supply of water is in an enviable position these days. Lincoln should never lose sight of the fact that it has such an asset.

When it comes to water in real abundance, most people think of the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans. These are surely magnificent bodies of water—at times tranquil scenes and at other times forces of terrible destruction. While they generally serve man, they can deal furiously with him when it seems to please them.

And at times, the two great oceans must swell with laughter as they watch men battle over them. After a little more than half a century of operation, the Panama Canal which now connects the two bodies of water appears to be in line for some serious competition.

A two-pronged situation is currently eating away at the peaceful operation of that canal. For one thing, traffic is overloading the locks of the Panama Canal. Even if everything else were right with the world, there would be discussion of new canal facilities as a result of traffic demand between the two oceans. But adding to that complexity is the fact that the U.S. and Panama have not gotten along too famously in recent years. The old treaty of 1903 under which the U.S. obtained its canal rights from Panama has long been under serious attack. Panamanians resent a great multitude of things in connection with our ownership and operation of the canal.

We are currently in the process of studying this treaty with Panama and may well come up with some changes. Some concession to the nationalistic tendencies of Panama as well as some financial rewards are likely to be our sacrifice for continued operation of the locks. At the same time, President Johnson has about completed appointments to a new canal commission that will study the situation and recommend the site for a new sea-level canal between the Atlantic and Pacific. Congress has approved a $17.5 million expenditure for the study, which is to include preliminary estimates that will run into the billions. In 1947 a congressional study estimated that conversion of the Panama Canal to a sea-level facility would cost $2,483,000,000.

It is still possible that this could be the project decided upon. It is possible that we would have a sea-level canal today were it not for the fact that its estimate of cost back near the turn of the century was quite a bit higher than the locks system and that its construction period would have been longer.

Even then, however, competent authority recommended a sea-level canal but we ended up with the cumbersome and limited locks system. This time, it seems clear that any new facility will definitely be at sea level, providing for easy and quick transfer of ships from one ocean to the other.

The job of the new canal commission, in fact, is said to be selection of a site, primarily, and the ascertaining of preliminary cost figures. Presumably, at least, we have eliminated all consideration of just another locks type canal. Defense strategists have long been concerned over the possibility of sabotage or direct bombing of the present canal and the adverse effect this would have on naval operations. Defense worries would be much less, naturally, with a sea-level canal that would be difficult to render inoperable.

Sea-Level Operation

While we seem to have settled the question as to the type of canal, the new commission will have to look at the practical political realties of the day that have not been settled. How the U.S. can build a canal and maintain its rights therewith and still have friendly relations with the cooperating country involved is the ticklish problem the commission must tackle and solve.

We Are Doing All Right

The most recent report of the Tenth Federal Reserve District concluded with remarks about bank deposits in this seven state area. More specifically this refers to the area that includes Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, the western portion of Missouri, New Mexico and Colorado.

In the closing paragraph it said: "Total deposits declined during the period as a result of a $33 million drop in demand deposits coupled with a $20 million advance in time deposits. In the same period a year ago, demand deposits rose $16 million and time deposits increased $29 million."

This becomes especially interesting when used as a background for the current Lincoln banking situation. The report shows Lincoln deposits at $217,363,000 being $17,056,000 more than the reporting period at this time a year ago. Against the same target it does show a decrease of demand deposits of $1,858,000 but $884,000 of this came in the withdrawal of federal government funds. But the city's total in time deposits increased to $66,996,000 which was $18,914,000 more than a year ago.

We gather from this that Lincoln comes close to being an exception in the region. While it reflected a little of the deposit downturn the degree was trivial.

What do we interpret this to mean? Well mainly that the business pace is going on without much of a slowdown in growth rate, and also that individuals with in-pocket money are feeling little if any pain.

This is an optimistic reflection on the state of the Lincoln economy, an indicator of continuing growth and a guarantee that if the news is ever going to be bad the date hasn't been set.

We can proceed with confidence.

Our wolf is a curiosity in the Antelope Park zoo. It is not the one that now and then haunts doorsteps.

Paid Peace Keepers

Politically the world is a pretty cold place with lots of variations on the theme.

So is foreign aid. It is something we have to have. There are many places where it does the people of a foreign nation some good. And there are some places where it is misnamed. Those are the places where we have to hire national leadership to remain on our side or to permit us to violate sovereignty to the extent of placing a needed military installation there.

From the time we have been a major nation we have had to pay this sort of tribute. But only recently have we called it foreign aid. For years we paid several hundred million a year to whatever head beater was in charge of Cuba. It didn't serve to improve the Cuban's lot, but to assist in keeping the peace. The various head men pocketed a good deal of the cash and invariably took off to some peaceful clime with it when a rival showed up who was too tough.

Now we seem to be in a similar sad experience in Iran. It showed up in this country when a refugee from Iran brought suit against the Shah. He is trying to collect $2.7 million of his own money which he unwisely invested in one of the Shah's "help the people" projects. The suit claims that of the sums the U.S. gave to Iran to improve the economy, a good deal went to improve the private fortunes of the Shah, his family, and some favorites. The Iranian public didn't get much.

A direct result of the revelations resulted in the Iranian ambassador being sent home. And on the next round there was no foreign aid money for Iran.

Minor powers have lived that way for a long while and consider it good diplomacy. It is a prerogative of the ruling class and one of the better ways of making a good living. It is also one of the reasons why the backward world has such a hard time modernizing.

Interstate Locked In

The weekly Wayne Herald has taken up a losing cause in advocating that the Interstate highway from North Platte west be located north rather than south of the main-line railroad tracks that run through the south part of the Nebraska Panhandle. Right or wrong, the Interstate is now fixed in its route south of the river and the tracks and hardly even a miracle could change it.

The Wayne Herald points out that citizens of communities lying north of the tracks will have to cross the tracks to get to and from the Interstate. This, it argues is a dangerous situation that could be avoided if the Interstate were placed north of the tracks. The argument isn't without some logic but it will never prevail.

The north-south battle for the Interstate was fought and lost a long time ago and the railroad tracks were a part of the battle. The solution now is not relocation of the Interstate but construction of viaducts over the tracks.

This will cost money but at least it can be done. Two communities facing this problem, Lexington and Cozad, are already in the process of tryng to acquire overhead routes across the tracks to the Interstate.

The Interstate location will actually spur such construction, often in cases where the need might otherwise never be met. Even if the Interstate were moved, there would still be a demand for more viaducts than are now in existence. Effort to change the Interstate location simply is of no avail, regardless of its merit, while work toward more viaducts could produce action that is vitally needed.

Powder Maker In Political Link?

WASHINGTON — Among the biggest contributors to the Republican party are executives of the Olin-Mathieson Corp., of whom Spencer T. Olin is Republican national treasurer. In 1962, he contributed $34,600 to the GOP campaign chest while other Olin-Mathieson executives brought the total up to a whopping $100,750.

There is no known connection between this and the excess profits which Olin-Mathieson has charged the Army. Nevertheless the public has a right to know that the General Accounting Office has just charged that Olin-Mathieson soaked the taxpayers over $1 million in excess profits for blank cartridge powder. Most of this excess charge occurred during the Republican administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The General Accounting Office also charges that the Army, during the Eisenhower administration, changed its requirements so that only one company — namely Olin-Mathieson, the big contributors to the Republican party —could qualify for the contract.

The directive which resulted in the whopping overcharge was issued April 1954 by Lt. Gen. Emerson L. Cummings, then Army ordnance chief.

"The chief of ordnance directed that all military small arms should eventually be loaded with ball-type propellant powder which was developed by and is produced only by Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation," says the GAO report. Since there were no other bidders, Olin-Mathieson was awarded a negotiated contract that ran into staggering profits.

Previously, the government had procured similar powder at about 90 cents a pound. Instead, the Army purchased from Olin-Mathieson for $1.72 a pound "without requesting a review of Olin-Mathieson's costs," charged the General Accounting Office.

"Furthermore, even after excessive prices were disclosed by the Army Audit Agency," says GAO, "contracting officials did not take timely action to obtain a lower price from Olin-Mathieson.

"Olin-Mathieson earned profits amounting to about 162 per cent of the cost of powder sold to Remington Arms during the period December 1958 to January 1962," charges the GAO. "When the excessive prices were eventually disclosed by the Army Audit Agency review, Olin-Mathieson and the Army negotiated a significantly lower price for future delivery.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is not the first time that Olin-Mathieson has been in trouble over a cartridge contract with the Army. During the war, ten members of the U.S. Cartridge Co. in St. Louis, a subsidiary of Olin industries, were indicted for conspiracy to pass defective ammunition, making false statements, and violating the Sabotage Act. Tried in April 1944, they were found not guilty.

Hint U.S. Target May Be Red China

WASHINGTON—With the bombing of North Viet Nam by American Air Force planes in the third month and no sign of reaction from Hanoi skeptics are beginning to ask how far this tactic will finally go and what, if any, results can be expected.

It was too absurd, say defenders of the policy, to think response could come after only two or two and a half months. As bridges and military installations are bombed the North is hurting, according to spokesmen at the two-day briefing here the other day for editors and commentators from around the country. And the hurt will grow as the air strikes continue.

But doubts as to the ultimate objective persist. Critics of the bombing policy on the left, many of them with wide knowledge of Asia, suspect that the real goal is not North Viet Nam but Red China and China's nuclear potential. Cynics on the right go so far as to say in private that the President's Johns Hopkins speech was a propaganda exercise intended to calm the doves while the war goes on at the same pace.

Critics to one side, the practical question is whether and at what point bombing can undermine the will of a people to resist. Bombing of population centers is not now contemplated. It is recognized by spokesmen for the Vietnamese that hitting the industrial complex around Hanoi could stiffen resistance.

Official appraisal of the results of World War II bombing underscores this belief. In his book, "Germany's Underground," published in 1947, Allen Dulles, former head of the CIA who spent the war in Switzerland in close contact with the anti-Nazi movement, concludes that the wholesale bombing of cities did little to shorten the war. After the bombing of Hamburg in the summer of 1943, which caused the first fire storm in military history and took from 60,000 to 100,000 lives, Dulles said he mistakenly believed more of this would bring an early German collapse.

"Some months later I came to the conclusion that I was wrong," he wrote. "German morale not only withstood the bombing of cities but seemed to stiffen under it. Instead of gaining recruits the anti-Nazis lost recruits . . . "

The official United States strategic bombing survey carried out by distinguished civilians reached a similar verdict. Mass bombing lowered psychological morale but authoritarian controls remained intact and repression and coercion maintained a "treadmill sort of war production." Bombing of transportation and industrial sites prepared the way for the invasion of Germany and an end to the war. But foot soldiers on the ground had to invade and conquer the enemy nation.

The bombs dropped so far have been conventional, non-nuclear weapons. If the strategy is extended to Red China — there have been repeated warnings of "no privileged sanctuary" — nuclear weapons will be used. And that will be a test of quite another order.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

This man was big, with shoulders slightly slumped from years of toil. His frame hunched over the table as he ate his breakfast—always a hearty breakfast to sustain him through the morning.

After he had eaten, he stretched and yawned, then stepped outside to greet the dawn of a new day. He always vied with the roosters for the first glimpse of sunrise.

His eyes were the color of the sky and as changeable—sometimes a clear languid blue or as gray as rain . . .

Strong were his hands and as brown as hazelnuts in autumn . . . yet they were kind to child and beast alike. They were made for baiting fish-hooks in the lazy days of summer or rubbing life into a newborn lamb in spring . . .

When his day began, he made a careful observation of the weathervane. The golden cock upon the barn veered with the four winds, yet this man understood the swinging change of days.

He knew when to pile the loft with clover hay or fill the bins with ripened grain. He knew the time to stack the firewood near the house and bring the cattle close around the buildings . . .

This keen-eyed lover of the windswept farm and mellow earth captained all the toil-filled days. The soil he turned by knowing hands and the seed he sowed were of the honest kind. With sunshine, care and rain, he helped to paint a landscape to beautify the earth. In silence that gave him strength anew, he attained moments of refreshing calm. He fit the mosaic pieces of life into the intricate pattern of fulfillment and happiness . . . . this big man who cast his eyes toward the weathervane and caught the first glint of a new day as the golden cock veered with the winds . . .

The past week has been filled with sporadic rain showers. Some of the rain came in cold drippy drops that splashed hard against the windowpanes. Other showers fell in a slow, purposeful manner, soaking the ground until it was saturated. The clouds at times seemed to tumble across the fields, leaving all the cracks filled with water.

It brought the frogs out of their winter hibernation. Tonight they sing from the roadside ditches. One went by with a splashy hop as if to say, "Rain can't hurt me—I'm rainproof!"

The neighbors' white Peking ducks sit upon the farm pond twenty-four hours a day. They, too, give one a busy line of conversation. "The rain won't drive us out of the pond—we're waterproof!"

Now that April's here, it brings the lengthened twilight dusk, brightened by the happy sounds of children lingering to catch the last brief moment of stolen play.

Their laughter rings across the street and behind the garden fence. They are dark shadows, crouching and darting as they scatter in their games. They bound along the ground like puppies or sneak quietly behind the hedge row like kittens ready to pounce on a make-believe mouse. They can scream like a wildcat at times and the neighborhood quakes with fear, but when the sky has lost its pale streak of daylight, the little shadows slowly melt away.

Suddenly the night seems lonely and I find myself waiting for tomorrow's April twilight. What better things can April bring than waterproof ducks and rainproof frogs . . . unless it be laughing shadows that play hide-and-go-seek?

A Quiet Man

Lincoln, Neb.

The letter from "Grateful" on April 15 was appreciated, but points out clearly that people read only what they want to see.

I was only trying to explain that Mr. Kennedy would far prefer living tributes in his name to those of marble. He was never a limelight-seeker, even as far back as World War II. His heroic actions on a PT boat did not come to light until long after the combat, and then it was not he who reminded writers.

Mr. Kennedy was a quiet man, almost humbled by the great responsibility he bore in the guidance of America. There was an inner drive and strength that brought some of his hopes. We knew he suffered great physical pain and mental pain, too, for the things he could not do. He sought enduring peace for all mankind, health and comfort for those in need, help for retarded children as he looked upon his own healthy and happy son and daughter.

He gave his life to help the living.

The Promise

North Bend, Neb.

Perhaps the beauty, loveliness and warmth of spring instill new and greater hope for the aged, the wheelchair invalids, the depressed and the lonely more than anything else.

I have lived and seen during one short lifetime a changing world, from oxen-drawn sodbusters to giant six-plow machines, from the old spring-wagon and family carriage to semi-transports and $6,000 cars rolling along at 80 miles an hour over what were once deep-rooted covered wagon trails.

When we see the beauty and feel the warmth of another beautiful spring season, the regeneration of life in the first green blades of grass, the budding of trees, the first flowers, we know that our promise of perpetual life has been fulfilled. There at last is the promise of another spring in another world for those with faith and eternal hope.

LB724

Columbus, Neb.

LB724, requiring consent of county attorney and attorney general for filing a complaint in criminal procedure, should be defeated.

It compromises counterforces of the rule of law by conveying responsibilities of judge, jury and supreme court to county attorney and attorney general.

It opens the door to arbitrary power and exposes these officials to pressures of politically corrupt concentrations of power. It denies the right of petition for redress of grievances to individuals criminally caught in the web of arbitrary power.

The greatest problem of all legislation in a free society is upholding rights of the individual by procedures and disciplines guaranteeing that the rule of law will not be usurped for opposite purposes for which it is intended.

The appallingly upward trend of crime will be reversed by legislation that absolutely prevent comprommises of justice and fully reconciles private freedom with public responsibility.

Academic Freedom

Lincoln, Neb.

When considering recent events here in Lincoln, one should not merely pass off the subtle banning of the novel, "Candy." I believe there are grave implications in this act which require every interested citizen to examine it closely.

Free speech remains a major bulwark in our democratic foundation and yet acts of this nature seriously endanger our cherished principle. Both the art of speaking and the art of writing contain ideas which have been spoken or written. When either speech or literature is suppressed, then in reality one is suppressing ideas.

The process of limitng ideas requires someone to judge them. As a member of this community and a citizen of this country, I am not willing to allow an individual or individuals to censor my literature. By creating a judge of ideas, one assumes he possesses a monopoly on truth or knowledge. Surely no one owns such complete knowledge because ideas are essentially subjective in nature much like taste in foods. One must judge for himself.

We profess to punish actions and not ideas. I think this is necessary in a democracy. When a society punishes or suppresses ideas, then this society is no longer a free society and has begun the long road towards the totalitarian state. I wonder how many ideas have been ridiculed and suppressed by past societies and are now wholly accepted by contemporary man?

Academic freedom is closely tied to freedom of speech. Academic freedom should not and must not be confined to the campus alone but must be practiced in all sectors of a democratic society. Leaving school does not signify the end of an education. Every day one comes into contact with new ideas and concepts which he must accept or reject. When a society does not practice academic freedom as in many areas of the South, injustice, prejudice and closed minds prevail as a consequence of that inner decay. Thus, it seems imperative that we maintain an atmosphere where ideas may flourish.

Although I have not read "Candy," as an individual I want to experience all ideas and then accept or reject them on their own merits without the aid of a county attorney or anyone else. I sincerely hope I am not alone in my beliefs.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

New York Labor Dept. Unit Finds Part-Time Jobs For Retirees

By ROBERT PETERSON

Two years ago I wrote about a small community with no unemployment among elders. This miracle was accomplished by the simple expedient of a central office manned by a retired man who got the names of those past 60 who wanted to work.

Then this dedicated old gentleman beat various drums to remind the local citizenry that by calling his office they could always get someone for part-time chores such as babysitting, trimming hedges, polishing silverware or pinch-hitting as sales clerks in local shops.

Most state employment offices and private job agencies in big cities lack the time and inclination to fool with part-time placements. But our nation's largest city is awakening to the importance of temporary and part-time work for older people.

"We opened our new Retired Workers Job Center last February 5th," said James J. McFadden, commissioner of New York City's Labor Department, "and in the first three weeks interviewed 1,870 older people and put their names on file.

"Thanks to newspaper publicity and letters sent to hundreds of firms, calls now pour in from folks who can use retired people for occasional chores. Just this morning, for instance we placed six men as doormen 10 women as part-time typists two women to work weekends as companions to invalids and a woman of 74 as an office receptionist two days a week.

"The pay on these jobs usually runs between $1.25 and $2 per hour. This isn't a great deal, but most of these people have Social Security and merely need a little work to keep occupied, supplement incomes and stimulate a sense of usefulness."

How would he describe the typical registrant?" "It would probably be a widow in her 60's who lives alone. Usually she hasn't worked for many years, has extra time on her hands, and doesn't have quite enough income to permit her to live comfortably."

What handicaps do many applicants have" "Lack of skills or knowing specifically what kind of work they can do. A few available jobs require little skill or experience, such as doormen, receptionist or companion. But many jobs require some skills, such as knowing how to operate a switchboard, drive a car or use a typewriter.

"The demand for typists is terrific. We estimate this city has at least 4,000 job openings, full and part time, for folks who can type at least 45 words per minute. We have typewriters set up in three different locations around town where older people can have free practice to improve typing skills.

"Another handicap among some retirees is lack of neatness in appearance. Whether due to apathy or mental problems, I'm sorry to say some of the folks who come in just don't make a well-groomed appearance and this makes it difficult when we try to find them jobs.

"But on the whole the employment picture for older people is much less bleak than we thought. Our phones are ringing all the time with individuals and companies mostly small firms—which can use neat-appearing, pleasant-mannered older people. In fact, I'd almost go so far as to say there's a part-time or temporary job available to every healthy elder in New York City who really wants to work."

Let's hope the foregoing encourages cities everywhere to launch part-time job-finding programs for older people who are still capable and eager to work.

If you would like a booklet "Employment Tips for Older People" write to Robert Peterson "Life Begins at Forty," c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Nebraska Teachers Average Salary Ranks Among Lowest In Country

By WILLIAM B. KETTER
United Press International

The average Nebraska school teacher could make more money if he went to almost any other state in the country.

This apparently explains why Nebraska is losing its young teachers to out-of-school districts at a higher rate than are most of its neighbors, John Lynch, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) said Monday.

The average annual salary paid to the 17,705 elementary and secondary teachers listed in the State Education Association's annual report is $5,000.

The national average this year is $6,235.

Nebraska teachers would like to see this $1,235 gap between their salaries and the national average closed in a hurry.

Even though the Nebraska salaries are moving up faster than they are in the country as a whole they still rank 41st in the nation, Lynch said.

78.2% Hike

Lynch said teacher salaries in the state have increased 78.2% over the past 10 years. He called this "healthy progress" but still far from the goal."

He said the next five years will be the "most critical" for Nebraska education. He said they will decide whether it will move ahead and meet the challenges of the aerospace age or not.

"We can't drag our feet much longer, or we just won't have any quality teachers around to teach our youngsters," Lynch said. "Nebraska must upgrade its salary levels to meet ever-increasing competition from surrounding states."

For example, Lynch said his own son left Nebraska recently to take a teaching job in a small Iowa community because of a much higher salary. He said this happens over and over again.

"Most of these kids are offered a half dozen or more contracts to teach in various parts of the country. Naturally they are attracted to those states with good salaries," he added.

Included In Total

The total of 17,705 teachers employed in the state includes everybody connected with instruction in any way.

It includes superintendents and other administrative personnel, supervisors, counselors, librarians and visiting teachers.

When you pare that group down to those actually teaching in the classroom, the average salary drops below 5,000.

Nationally, the classroom teacher salary average was $5,963.

Generally, elementary school teachers are paid less than secondary instructors.

The State Education Department said that within a year or two, Nebraska may have an over supply of newly-graduated secondary school teachers in most areas.

Just how many of these will remain in the state will depend largely on how much salary levels rise, Lynch said.

Shortage

The department said elementary school teachers are still in short supply in the state and will probably continue to be so for some time.

It said there are 10 elementary school positions for every seven secondary school jobs in all Nebraska schools, but the supply of new teachers is estimated to be seven elementary to 10 secondary.

"Thus, actual teaching positions are in an inverse ratio to the number of 'degree' teachers who will graduate this year," the department said. "This kind of inverse ratio has occurred during the past five or six years."

The department said Nebraska ranks near the bottom of those states that reported the college preparation of elementary school teachers last year.

Slightly less than half (48.7%) of Nebraska's elementary school teachers have a baccalaureate degree or one of higher rank," the department said.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

New York Labor Dept. Unit Finds Part-Time Jobs For Retirees

By ROBERT PETERSON

Two years ago I wrote about a small community with no unemployment among elders. This miracle was accomplished by the simple expedient of a central office manned by a retired man who got the names of those past 60 who wanted to work.

Then this dedicated old gentleman beat various drums to remind the local citizenry that by calling his office they could always get someone for part-time chores such as babysitting, trimming hedges, polishing silverware or pinch-hitting as sales clerks in local shops.

Most state employment offices and private job agencies in big cities lack the time and inclination to fool with part-time placements. But our nation's largest city is awakening to the importance of temporary and part-time work for older people.

"We opened our new Retired Workers Job Center last February 5th," said James J. McFadden, commissioner of New York City's Labor Department, "and in the first three weeks interviewed 1,870 older people and put their names on file.

"Thanks to newspaper publicity and letters sent to hundreds of firms, calls now pour in from folks who can use retired people for occasional chores. Just this morning, for instance, we placed six men as doormen, 10 women as part-time typists, two women to work weekends as companions to invalids and a woman of 74 as an office receptionist two days a week.

"The pay on these jobs usually runs between $1.25 and $2 per hour. This isn't a great deal, but most of these people have Social Security and merely need a little work to keep occupied, supplement incomes and stimulate a sense of usefulness."

How would he describe the typical registrant?" "It would probably be a widow in her 60's who lives alone. Usually she hasn't worked for many years, has extra time on her hands, and doesn't have quite enough income to permit her to live comfortably."

What handicaps do many applicants have? "Lack of skills or knowing specifically what kind of work they can do. A few available jobs require little skill or experience, such as doormen, receptionist or companion. But many jobs require some skills, such as knowing how to operate a switchboard, drive a car or use a typewriter.

"The demand for typists is terrific. We estimate this city has at least 4,000 job openings, full and part time, for folks who can type at least 45 words per minute. We have typewriters set up in three different locations around town where older people can have free practice to improve typing skills.

"Another handicap among some retirees is lack of neatness in appearance. Whether due to apathy or mental problems, I'm sorry to say some of the folks who come in just don't make a well-groomed appearance and this makes it difficult when we try to find them jobs.

"But on the whole the employment picture for older people is much less bleak than we thought. Our phones are ringing all the time with individuals and companies mostly small firms—which can use neat-appearing, pleasant-mannered older people. In fact, I'd almost go so far as to say there's a part-time or temporary job available to every healthy elder in New York City who really wants to work."

Let's hope the foregoing encourages cities everywhere to launch part-time job-finding programs for older people who are still capable and eager to work.

If you would like a booklet "Employment Tips for Older People" write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Nebraska Teachers Average Salary Ranks Among Lowest In Country

By WILLIAM B. KETTER
United Press International

The average Nebraska school teacher could make more money if he went to almost any other state in the country.

This apparently explains why Nebraska is losing its young teachers to out-of-school districts at a higher rate than are most of its neighbors, John Lynch, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA), said Monday.

The average annual salary paid to the 17,705 elementary and secondary teachers listed in the State Education Association's annual report is $5,000.

The national average this year is $6,235.

Nebraska teachers would like to see this $1,235 gap between their salaries and the national average closed in a hurry.

Even though the Nebraska salaries are moving up faster than they are in the country as a whole, they still rank 41st in the nation, Lynch said.

78.2% Hike

Lynch said teacher salaries in the state have increased 78.2% over the past 10 years. He called this "healthy progress, but still far from the goal."

He said the next five years will be the "most critical" for Nebraska education. He said they will decide whether it will move ahead and meet the challenges of the aerospace age, or not.

"We can't drag our feet much longer, or we just won't have any quality teachers around to teach our youngsters," Lynch said. "Nebraska must upgrade its salary levels to meet ever-increasing competition from surrounding states."

For example, Lynch said his own son left Nebraska recently to take a teaching job in a small Iowa community because of a much higher salary. He said this happens over and over again.

"Most of these kids are offered a half-dozen or more contracts to teach in various parts of the country. Naturally, they are attracted to those states with good salaries," ne added.

Included In Total

The total of 17,705 teachers employed in the state includes everybody connected with instruction in any way.

It includes superintendents and other administrative personnel, supervisors, counselors, librarians and visiting teachers.

When you pare that group down to those actually teaching in the classroom, the average salary drops below 5,000.

Nationally, the classroom teacher salary average was $5,963.

Generally, elementary school teachers are paid less than secondary instructors.

The State Education Department said that within a year or two, Nebraska may have an over supply of newly-graduated secondary school teachers in most areas.

Just how many of these will remain in the state will depend largely on how much salary levels rise, Lynch said.

Shortage

The department said elementary school teachers are still in short supply in the state and will probably continue to be so for some time.

It said there are 10 elementary school positions for every seven secondary school jobs in all Nebraska schools, but the supply of new teachers is estimated to be seven elementary to 10 secondary.

"Thus, actual teaching positions are in an inverse ratio to the number of 'degree' teachers who will graduate this year," the department said. "This kind of inverse ratio has occurred during the past five or six years."

The department said Nebraska ranks near the bottom of those states that reported the college preparation of elementary school teachers last year.

"Slightly less than half (48.7%) of Nebraska's elementary school teachers have a baccalaureate degree or one of higher rank," the department said.

Why does the head chef
at Dino's
cook with gas?

He cooks with gas because he needs the kind of control only gas can give you. You get the exact cooking temperature you want because you have hundreds of heats to choose from on a gas range, not just five or six. And you get that exact temperature right then and there. Turn a burner on a gas range up, down, on or off and it goes up, down, on or off. Instantly. This kind of perfect control is why the great chefs appreciate gas ranges. And why you'll feel the same way. Live modern for less . . . .with gas.

Council Slates Liquor Policy Meeting

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council has set a special meeting for Thursday at 3 30 p m to determine its policy in limiting package liquor and beer licenses in outlying commercial centers

This decision was reached after public hearings Monday at which applications were made by Ken and O W Kimmel to transfer an off sale beer license from 101 No 27th to 1236 South St , James L. and Maxine L Dunbar to transfer an off-sale beer license from 2365 O to 332 No. 48th and by A Go-Go Liquor Co , Inc for a package liquor license at 839½ No 27th

Council members said that information received from city departments by Thursday should enable them to make a final determination at that time as to what basis to limit the number of licenses in the various approved areas

Action on the requests for transfer was delayed until next Monday

Plat Approved

The council approved the plat of Rosemont 3rd Addition in the vicinity of 72nd and Leighton Ave

The plat calls for vacating portions of 71st 72nd 73rd 74th Huntington St Dorothy Drive and Leighton from Dorothy Drive to 76th

Area residents said that they favor the vacation of Leighton on the grounds that traffic on the street while not heavy constitutes a safety hazard especially to school children

Councilman John Comstock, voting against accepting the plat, said that vacating Leighton an arterial street from 70th west, would throw an additional burden of heavy traffic on arterial streets to the north and south.

The council also discussed installing traffic signals at the intersection of Adams St , Cotner Blvd and 66th

City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger said that he would recommend that the intersection not be signalized until it is physically changed, with the possible closing of 66th

Alternatives

Alternatives to a four-phase signal at that location and the possibilities of designating other intersections in the vicinity as school crossings will be presented to the council for its decision at the next meeting Holsinger said

State Engineer John Hossack has informed the City Council that the state will consider the improvement of East O from the city limits to 84th "if and when funds become available "

In a letter received by the council Monday, Hossack asknowledged the resolution adopted by the council on April 5 asking for improving the highway to four lanes to relieve congestion in the area

Making the claims were Stanley Portsche, for $375; Ira Youngberg, for $910, and Real State Traders, Inc , for $164

Portsche and Youngberg alleged false arrest in connection with the incident in which no formal charges have as yet been filed by the city

The claims were filed after a Lincoln policeman informed the two men, during an auction on property owned by Real Estate Traders that city ordinances say that no person other than a licensed auctioneer shall sell at a public auction according to Deputy City Atty Henry Holst

Holst said that police had prior knowledge of the auction, but waited until it had started before approaching Portsche and Youngberg.

He said that Youngberg was taken to the police station booked and released to an attorney

Holst said that the city legal department recommended that the council deny each of the claims on the basis that the city operating under governmental immunity is not liable for the damages

MARINER 4 DISPROVES VAN ALLEN BELT HAZARD

Washington (AP) America's Mariner 4 spacecraft weathering sometimes violent space conditions on the highway to Mars—has conclusively disproved any remaining thought that the Van Allen radiation belts pose any threat to manned flight to the moon and beyond

But space scientists who reported this Monday also related that one of the causes may have been an unheralded solar flare from the sun

Various scientists have said that such solar flares though relatively infrequent could present a hazard to spacemen even after they sped safely through the radiation belts surrounding the earth Scientists generally agree that spacemen could not survive any lengthy orbiting within the belts themselves

However scientists making Monday's report made clear that despite the recent failure of one entire experiment and the partial failure of another the spacecraft itself is working fine

And they indicated they have every confidence that the craft will reach the neighborhood of Mars on July 14—and will be all set to take television pictures of the red planet.

The Mariner 4 progress report made to the annual meeting of the American Geophysical Union researchers for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, disclosed that on April 29, Mariner 4 is expected to exceed the spacecraft-to-earth communications record of 65 million miles established by Russia's Mars probe in 1962 before its radios lost contact with the earth

Council Slates Liquor Policy Meeting

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council has set a special meeting for Thursday at 3:30 p.m. to determine its policy in limiting package liquor and beer licenses in outlying commercial centers.

This decision was reached after public hearings Monday at which applications were made by Ken and O. W. Kimmel to transfer an off-sale beer license from 101 No. 27th to 1236 South St.; James L. and Maxine L. Dunbar to transfer an off-sale beer license from 2365 O to 332 No. 48th and by A-Go-Go Liquor Co., Inc., for a package liquor license at 839½ No. 27th.

Council members said that information received from city departments by Thursday should enable them to make a final determination at that time as to what basis to limit the number of licenses in the various approved areas.

Action on the requests for transfer was delayed until next Monday.

Plat Approved

The council approved the plat of Rosemont 3rd Addition, in the vicinity of 72nd and Leighton Ave.

The plat calls for vacating portions of 71st, 72nd, 73rd, 74th, Huntington St., Dorothy Drive and Leighton, from Dorothy Drive to 76th.

Area residents said that they favor the vacation of Leighton on the grounds that traffic on the street, while not heavy, constitutes a safety hazard, especially to school children.

Councilman John Comstock, voting against accepting the plat, said that vacating Leighton, an arterial street from 70th west, would throw an additional burden of heavy traffic on arterial streets to the north and south.

The council also discussed installing traffic signals at the intersection of Adams St., Cotner Blvd. and 66th.

City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger said that he would recommend that the intersection not be signalized until it is physically changed, with the possible closing of 66th.

Alternatives

Alternatives to a four-phase signal at that location and the possibilities of designating other intersections in the vicinity as school crossings will be presented to the council for its decision at the next meeting, Holsinger said.

State Will Consider East O Work When Funds Available

State Engineer John Hossack has informed the City Council that the state will consider the improvement of East O from the city limits to 84th, "if and when funds become available."

In a letter received by the council Monday, Hossack asknowledged the resolution adopted by the council on April 5 asking for improving the highway to four lanes to relieve congestion in the area.

"However, with funds limited it may be sometime before such an improvement becomes a reality," said Hossack.

He indicated that the section of O from the end of the present city improvement to and including the 70th St. intersection is "considerably more critical than that immediately to the east."

No Charges Will Be Filed In Death Of K. H. Wright

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said Monday he was convinced there "was no foul play" and no charges will be filed in connection with the death of Kenneth Howard Wright, 21, of 301 So. 18th.

Mr. Wright died Saturday of injuries suffered last Thursday night when he reportedly fell from a moving vehicle near 48th and Van Dorn.

Council Denies 3 Claims For Alleged False Arrest

The City Council Monday denied three claims totaling $1,449 filed against the city by parties alleging false arrest.

Making the claims were Stanley Portsche, for $375; Ira Youngberg, for $910, and Real State Traders, Inc., for $164.

Portsche and Youngberg alleged false arrest in connection with the incident, in which no formal charges have as yet been filed by the city.

Loss of Expenses

Real Estate Traders, Inc., claims loss of expenses.

The claims were filed after a Lincoln policeman informed the two men, during an auction on property owned by Real Estate Traders, that city ordinances say that no person other than a licensed auctioneer shall sell at a public auction, according to Deputy City Atty. Henry Holst.

Holst said that police had prior knowledge of the auction, but waited until it had started before approaching Portsche and Youngberg.

He said that Youngberg was taken to the police station, booked, and released to an attorney.

Holst said that the city legal department recommended that the council deny each of the claims on the basis that the city, operating under governmental immunity, is not liable for the damages.

150 Received School Board Votes April 6

Write-in votes cast in the April 6 city primary election in the Lincoln school board race resulted in more than 150 persons vying for the four positions on the May 4 general election ballot, according to Betty Jeanne Holcomb, election commissioner.

The three candidates who filed for election in the primary received the largest vote totals and will be placed on the May 4 ballot along with Mrs. Phyllis Cooper who garnered the highest number of write-in ballots (818).

The announced candidates included J. Arthur Danielson with 17,543; John Lux with 16,098, and Edward Copple with 12,424.

The four highest write-in candidates behind Mrs. Phyllis Cooper were Mrs. Betty Harris with 213, George (Bus) Knight with 64, Don Leising with 53, and Mrs. Gladys Cooper with 33. Miss Holcomb said that 146 other persons received from one to ten write-in votes.

LBJ Breaks Trip For Johnston Rite

Columbia, S.C. (AP)— President Johnson flew to Columbia Tuesday from the Texas White House and bowed his head in the statehouse rotunda near the casket where the body of Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., lay in state.

The President and First Lady sat on a yellow couch with the widow of the senator during a 20-minute memorial service.

Recited Prayer

The President did not speak during the memorial service. Johnson and the First Lady joined about 500 others who crowded into the second floor rotunda of the historic statehouse in repeating aloud the Lord's Prayer.

President Johnson met briefly in private with Mrs. Johnston prior to the memorial service.

Gov. Donald Russell, speaking at the memorial service, called it "a fitting tribute to the accomplishments of Sen. Johnston" to have the President of the United States attend the service.

State Grateful

"South Carolina is grateful to you, Mr. President, for being here to pay tribute to our friend," he said.

At the end of the service, the President picked up a glove Mrs. Johnston had dropped and returned it to her. He then walked to the side of the casket, picked up a cross of white chrysanthemums, tied with scarlet ribbons, and brought the cross over to the widow's side.

Johnston, 68, died Sunday in Columbia Hospital.

Price-Fixing Trial Set September 8 For Flour Firms

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP)—The trial of six flour milling company executives, accused of conspiring to fix prices of flour purchased by commercial bakeries, Monday was set for Sept. 8.

Judge John O. Henderson of Federal Court set the date after meeting with attorneys for the executives.

The executives and 12 flour milling companies were named in an indictment alleging a conspiracy to fix prices. The executives have pleaded innocent. The 12 companies pleaded no contest and were fined a total of $190,000.

The six individuals are John J. Vanier, president of Gooch Milling and Elevator, Lincoln, Neb.; William B. Heegard, vice president of Peavey Co., Minneapolis; Lawrence J. Weidt, vice president and manager of Archer-Daniels-Midland, Minneapolis; Earl F. Cross, president of Colorado Milling & Elevator Co., Denver; Bernard J. Rothwell II, president of Bay State Milling Co., Winona, Minn.; and William A. Lohman Jr., vice president of International Milling Co., Inc., Minneapolis.

MARINER 4 DISPROVES VAN ALLEN BELT HAZARD

Washington (AP) — America's Mariner 4 spacecraft—weathering sometimes violent space conditions on the highway to Mars—has conclusively disproved any remaining thought that the Van Allen radiation belts pose any threat to manned flight to the moon and beyond.

But space scientists who reported this Monday also related that one of the causes may have been an unheralded solar flare from the sun.

Various scientists have said that such solar flares, though relatively infrequent, could present a hazard to spacemen even after they sped safely through the radiation belts surrounding the earth. Scientists generally agree that spacemen could not survive any lengthy orbiting within the belts themselves.

However, scientists making Monday's report made clear that despite the recent failure of one entire experiment, and the partial failure of another, the spacecraft itself is working fine.

And they indicated they have every confidence that the craft will reach the neighborhood of Mars on July 14—and will be all set to take television pictures of the red planet.

The Mariner 4 progress report, made to the annual meeting of the American Geophysical Union, researchers for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, disclosed that on April 29, Mariner 4 is expected to exceed the spacecraft-to-earth communications record of 66 million miles established by Russia's Mars probe in 1962 before its radios lost contact with the earth.

Automation Threat Is Focus Of Publishers' Meet

New York (AP)—Automation as a labor-saving threat to jobs once again drew the attention of the nation's publishers Monday, as New York's annual Newspaper Week got under way. Also discussed were restrictions on Viet Nam correspondents, and government versus private economic aid abroad.

Gene Robb, publisher of the Albany Times-Union and the Knickerbocker News, and president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, told the opening session of the association, which represents nearly 1,000 newspapers:

"We are talking with . . . labor leaders about the problems of new technologies and how to retrain some of the newspaper craftsmen to new kinds of job. We are talking about how to stop strikes before they start. We are finding that the fear of the word 'automation' is actually a greater problem than either the facts or the prospects of so-called 'automation' . . .

"Clearly, we of management have not succeeded in getting across to the rank and file or to the leadership in our unionized shops that labor's ultimate weapon—the strike—cannot be used, or unsheathed, or even threatened habitually as in the recent past if we are to maintain the very jobs that are in issue."

In reply, Elmer Brown, president of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union, told the publishers that his printers union is ready with "skill and manpower to make such technological advances work profitably."

Brown, first labor leader to address the ANPA's labor conference session, continued:

'Roadblock'

"I submit, our insistence on the right to perform our old skills on new devices for which we are trained is not a roadblock to progress, but a reasonable and necessary approach to expansion of the newspaper industry."

However, Brown declared that printers, in coping with automation in newspaper composing rooms, are concerned for the future of 7,000 apprentices, and the pension rights of 14,000 retired ITU members.

A feature of the opening day of the ANPA convention is the annual meeting of the Associated Press, worldwide news gathering cooperative organization.

Viet Nam

The board of directors of the Associated Press, in their annual report, found affairs of the news service in good order. But they declared:

"The board deplores restrictions which have been placed on correspondents operating in Viet Nam, especially around the air base at Da Nang. Through a combination of regulations imposed by American and Vietnamese authorities, reporters have been unable to talk with fliers on their return from air strikes in North Viet Nam, with the result that newspaper readers and broadcast listeners can have only the most limited information on these activities.

"The board believes that security is not involved in these restrictions. Correspondents as a group have agreed that they will publicize nothing about the air strikes until planes return from them. The Associated Press has said that it will of course honor any military censorship that may be imposed on grounds of security, but it believes that the sort of pseudo-censorship which keeps reporters away from the source of the news goes beyond anything that was found necessary in World War II or the Korean War."

Another speaker on automation at the ANPA session was Miles P. Patrone, chairman of the association's labor relations committee. He declared:

'Protective Net'

"In the fear that technological change will dissipate or erase historically-held jurisdiction lines, international unions are rushing into the breach in an attempt to prevent the escape of any job process presently held and to throw a protective net over any process that might pass through present lines . . .

"Let us strip away this unfounded myth of automation being the devourer of jobs. If new technology has within it power to hurt, it also has the power for good . . .

"This is the time to stop the substitution of raw power for collective bargaining. For while power as a substitute for collective bargaining may achieve temporary gains, that power is mercurial, easily shifted from one side to the other."

Word 'Capitalism' Plays Into Reds' Hands—Romney

New York (AP)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan said at the Associated Press annual luncheon Monday that the United States, by calling its system capitalistic, is playing into the hands of Communist pitchmen.

Actually, the system now is "consumerism"—controlled by the people in the marketplace, Romney told more than 1,350 newspaper executives and their wives.

He said Americans buried capitalism long ago, but that most of them "are still talking about our 20th-century economy in 19th-century terms."

Used On Visit

His voice sometimes rising, Romney said former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev played on this repeatedly during his visit to the United States.

"We still call it a capitalistic system," said the potential contender for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination. "But how many of us, I wonder, know the definition of capitalism?"

Romney cited several dictionary definitions, such as "the concentration of capital, as when in the hands of the few."

Control By Few

"Around the world," he said "capitalism is usually considered as an economic system in which the economy is controlled by the few—in which the few benefit from the efforts of the many . . .

"The genius of our consumeristic system is that ultimate control has rested with the many, through the free and daily economic balloting of customers in the marketplace.

"Lack of understanding of our economic principles not only holds back progress here at home, but it plays right into the hands of our enemies abroad. When we tell people of the world that our system is capitalistic, we are telling them just exactly what our enemies want them to hear. In the battle for men's minds, we make the job of the communist pitchmen just that much easier."

Still Believe

Romney said present Soviet leaders, no less than Khrushchev, believe that communism will bury capitalism, as capitalism buried feudalism.

"But what they do not understand—and what we have failed to tell the world—is that Americans buried capitalism long ago, and moved on to consumerism, which is a higher form of economic organization."

Communism, he said, is nothing but a return to feudalism in modern nationalistic dress.

Automation Threat Is Focus Of Publishers' Meet

New York (AP)—Automation as a labor-saving threat to jobs once again drew the attention of the nation's publishers Monday, as New York's annual Newspaper Week got under way. Also discussed were restrictions on Viet Nam correspondents, and government versus private economic aid abroad.

Gene Robb, publisher of the Albany Times-Union and the Knickerbocker News, and president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, told the opening session of the association, which represents nearly 1,000 newspapers:

"We are talking with . . . labor leaders about the problems of new technologies and how to retrain some of the newspaper craftsmen to new kinds of job. We are talking about how to stop strikes before they start. We are finding that the fear of the word 'automation' is actually a greater problem than either the facts or the prospects of so-called 'automation' . . .

"Clearly, we of management have not succeeded in getting across to the rank and file or to the leadership in our unionized shops that labor's ultimate weapon—the strike—cannot be used, or unsheathed, or even threatened habitually as in the recent past if we are to maintain the very jobs that are in issue."

In reply, Elmer Brown, president of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union, told the publishers that his printers union is ready with "skill and manpower to make such technological advances work profitably."

Brown, first labor leader to address the ANPA's labor conference session, continued:

'Roadblock'

"I submit, our insistence on the right to perform our old skills on new devices for which we are trained is not a roadblock to progress, but a reasonable and necessary approach to expansion of the newspaper industry."

However, Brown declared that printers, in coping with automation in newspaper composing rooms, are concerned for the future of 7,000 apprentices, and the pension rights of 14,000 retired ITU members.

A feature of the opening day of the ANPA convention is the annual meeting of the Associated Press, worldwide news gathering cooperative organization.

Viet Nam

The board of directors of the Associated Press, in their annual report, found affairs of the news service in good order. But they declared:

"The board deplores restrictions which have been placed on correspondents operating in Viet Nam, especially around the air base at Da Nang. Through a combination of regulations imposed by American and Vietnamese authorities, reporters have been unable to talk with fliers on their return from air strikes in North Viet Nam, with the result that newspaper readers and broadcast listeners can have only the most limited information on these activities.

"The board believes that security is not involved in these restrictions. Correspondents as a group have agreed that they will publicize nothing about the air strikes until planes return from them. The Associated Press has said that it will of course honor any military censorship that may be imposed on grounds of security, but it believes that the sort of pseudo-censorship which keeps reporters away from the source of the news goes beyond anything that was found necessary in World War II or the Korean War."

Another speaker on automation at the ANPA session was Miles P. Patrone, chairman of the association's labor relations committee. He declared:

'Protective Net'

"In the fear that technological change will dissipate or erase historically-held jurisdiction lines, international unions are rushing into the breach in an attempt to prevent the escape of any job process presently held and to throw a protective net over any process that might pass through present lines . . .

"Let us strip away this unfounded myth of automation being the devourer of jobs. If new technology has within it power to hurt, it also has the power for good . . .

"This is the time to stop the substitution of raw power for collective bargaining. For while power as a substitute for collective bargaining may achieve temporary gains, that power is mercurial, easily shifted from one side to the other."

Word 'Capitalism' Plays Into Reds' Hands—Romney

New York (AP)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan said at the Associated Press annual luncheon Monday that the United States, by calling its system capitalistic, is playing into the hands of Communist pitchmen.

Actually, the system now is "consumerism"—controlled by the people in the marketplace, Romney told more than 1,350 newspaper executives and their wives.

He said Americans buried capitalism long ago, but that most of them "are still talking about our 20th-century economy in 19th-century terms."

Used On Visit

His voice sometimes rising, Romney said former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev played on this repeatedly during his visit to the United States.

"We still call it a capitalistic system," said the potential contender for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination. "But how many of us, I wonder, know the definition of capitalism?"

Romney cited several dictionary definitions, such as "the concentration of capital, as when in the hands of the few."

Control By Few

"Around the world," he said "capitalism is usually considered as an economic system in which the economy is controlled by the few—in which the few benefit from the efforts of the many . . .

"The genius of our consumeristic system is that ultimate control has rested with the many, through the free and daily economic balloting of customers in the marketplace.

"Lack of understanding of our economic principles not only holds back progress here at home, but it plays right into the hands of our enemies abroad. When we tell people of the world that our system is capitalistic, we are telling them just exactly what our enemies want them to hear. In the battle for men's minds, we make the job of the communist pitchmen just that much easier."

Still Believe

Romney said present Soviet leaders, no less than Khrushchev, believe that communism will bury capitalism, as capitalism buried feudalism.

"But what they do not understand—and what we have failed to tell the world—is that Americans buried capitalism long ago, and moved on to consumerism, which is a higher form of economic organization."

Communism, he said, is nothing but a return to feudalism in modern nationalistic dress.

Bigger Birth Boom

Wellington (AP)—Little New Zealand, with a population of 2.6 million, has a birth rate equal to India's and greater than those of a number of other rapidly expanding Asian countries. New Zealand's population is increasing 2.3% annually.

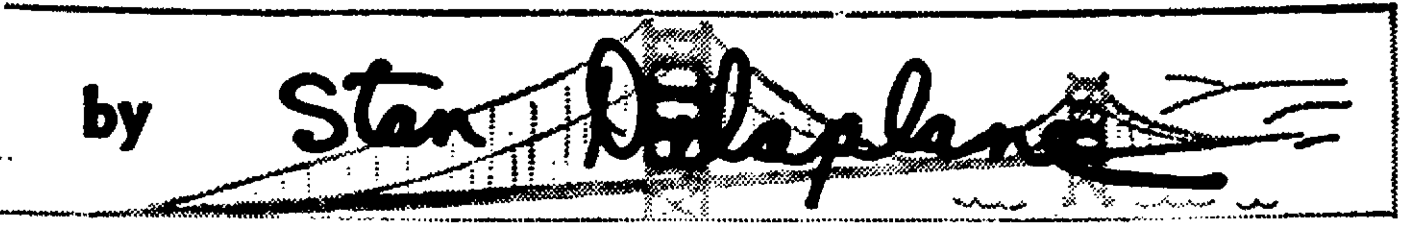
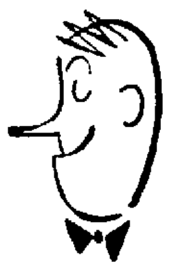
POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane



"Oh, to be in England.

"Now that April's there."



We are packing for England. Suits and ties. Shoes and socks. Packing is a matter of life's tensions — no matter how careful the check list, some vital item is forgotten.

Man is plagued by memory's tricks.

In the English village of Stoke-on-Trent, Roy Harrison drove a single-deck bus for 17 lovely years.

Recently, the council bought one of those London double-deckers. 15 feet high.

Harrison, mooning on the route, jammed it under a 13-foot bridge.

On a recent Saturday eve in Tampa, Florida, a young man called the Tampa Tribune society department.

He said he could not remember the church he was to be married in—at any ever-loving minute, if he could find it.

The alert newspaper looked up the clip on the wedding announcement.

Gave church name and direction.

Grateful young man rushed to church. And, we suppose, is living happily ever after.

The bride should paste her husband's name and address in his hat.

An overcast and rainy day around the scatter. "Occasional showers,". says the morning journal.

In London, newspapers say, "Occasional bright periods."

It's all how you look at it.

I keep a check list of things to carry. Very executive. I have a check list for cold country. A check list for the tropics. A check list for shipboard.

Then one day I flew all the way to Copenhagen. And forgot to bring my typewriter.

Man is not only plagued by loss of memory. The fates often do him in.

For mechanical reasons, I must write a week ahead of printing.

Between the typewriter ribbon and the printed word is an agony of suspense.

Be flip with a public figure, and he dies tragically. The day you appear on newsprint.

Praise a pillar of society. Next week he absconds with the widows' and orphans' fund.

Be enthusiastic about a new book. In a week it will be shown it was pirated from obscure works of Mark Twain.

We walk a tightrope of anxiety.

A week ago, April showered me with flowers. I wrote a piece bursting with daisies. And so, today it rains.

☆ ☆ ☆

Sometimes on such occasions. I get letters demanding, "What kind of reporter are you?"

Well, I am an unfortunate reporter. That is what I am. I am like—

"There was an old man of Khartoum
"Who kept two tame sheep in his room,
"For he said, 'They remind me
'Of one left behind me,
"But I cannot remember of whom.' "

☆ ☆ ☆

"Oh, to be in England, now that April's there." This was written by Robert Browning.

I wonder if Browning ever forgot his suspenders.

A year ago, I went to London for a very posh dinner. One of those things where you cannot smoke until after the toast to the Queen. (Which I forget, being a blooming American. And the waiter has to come over and tap me on the shoulder and tell me to stamp it out.)

Anyway, I got into the dress clothes. And found I had forgotten my suspenders.

It was very hard to rise to the occasion at dinner. And even harder to keep my pants up.

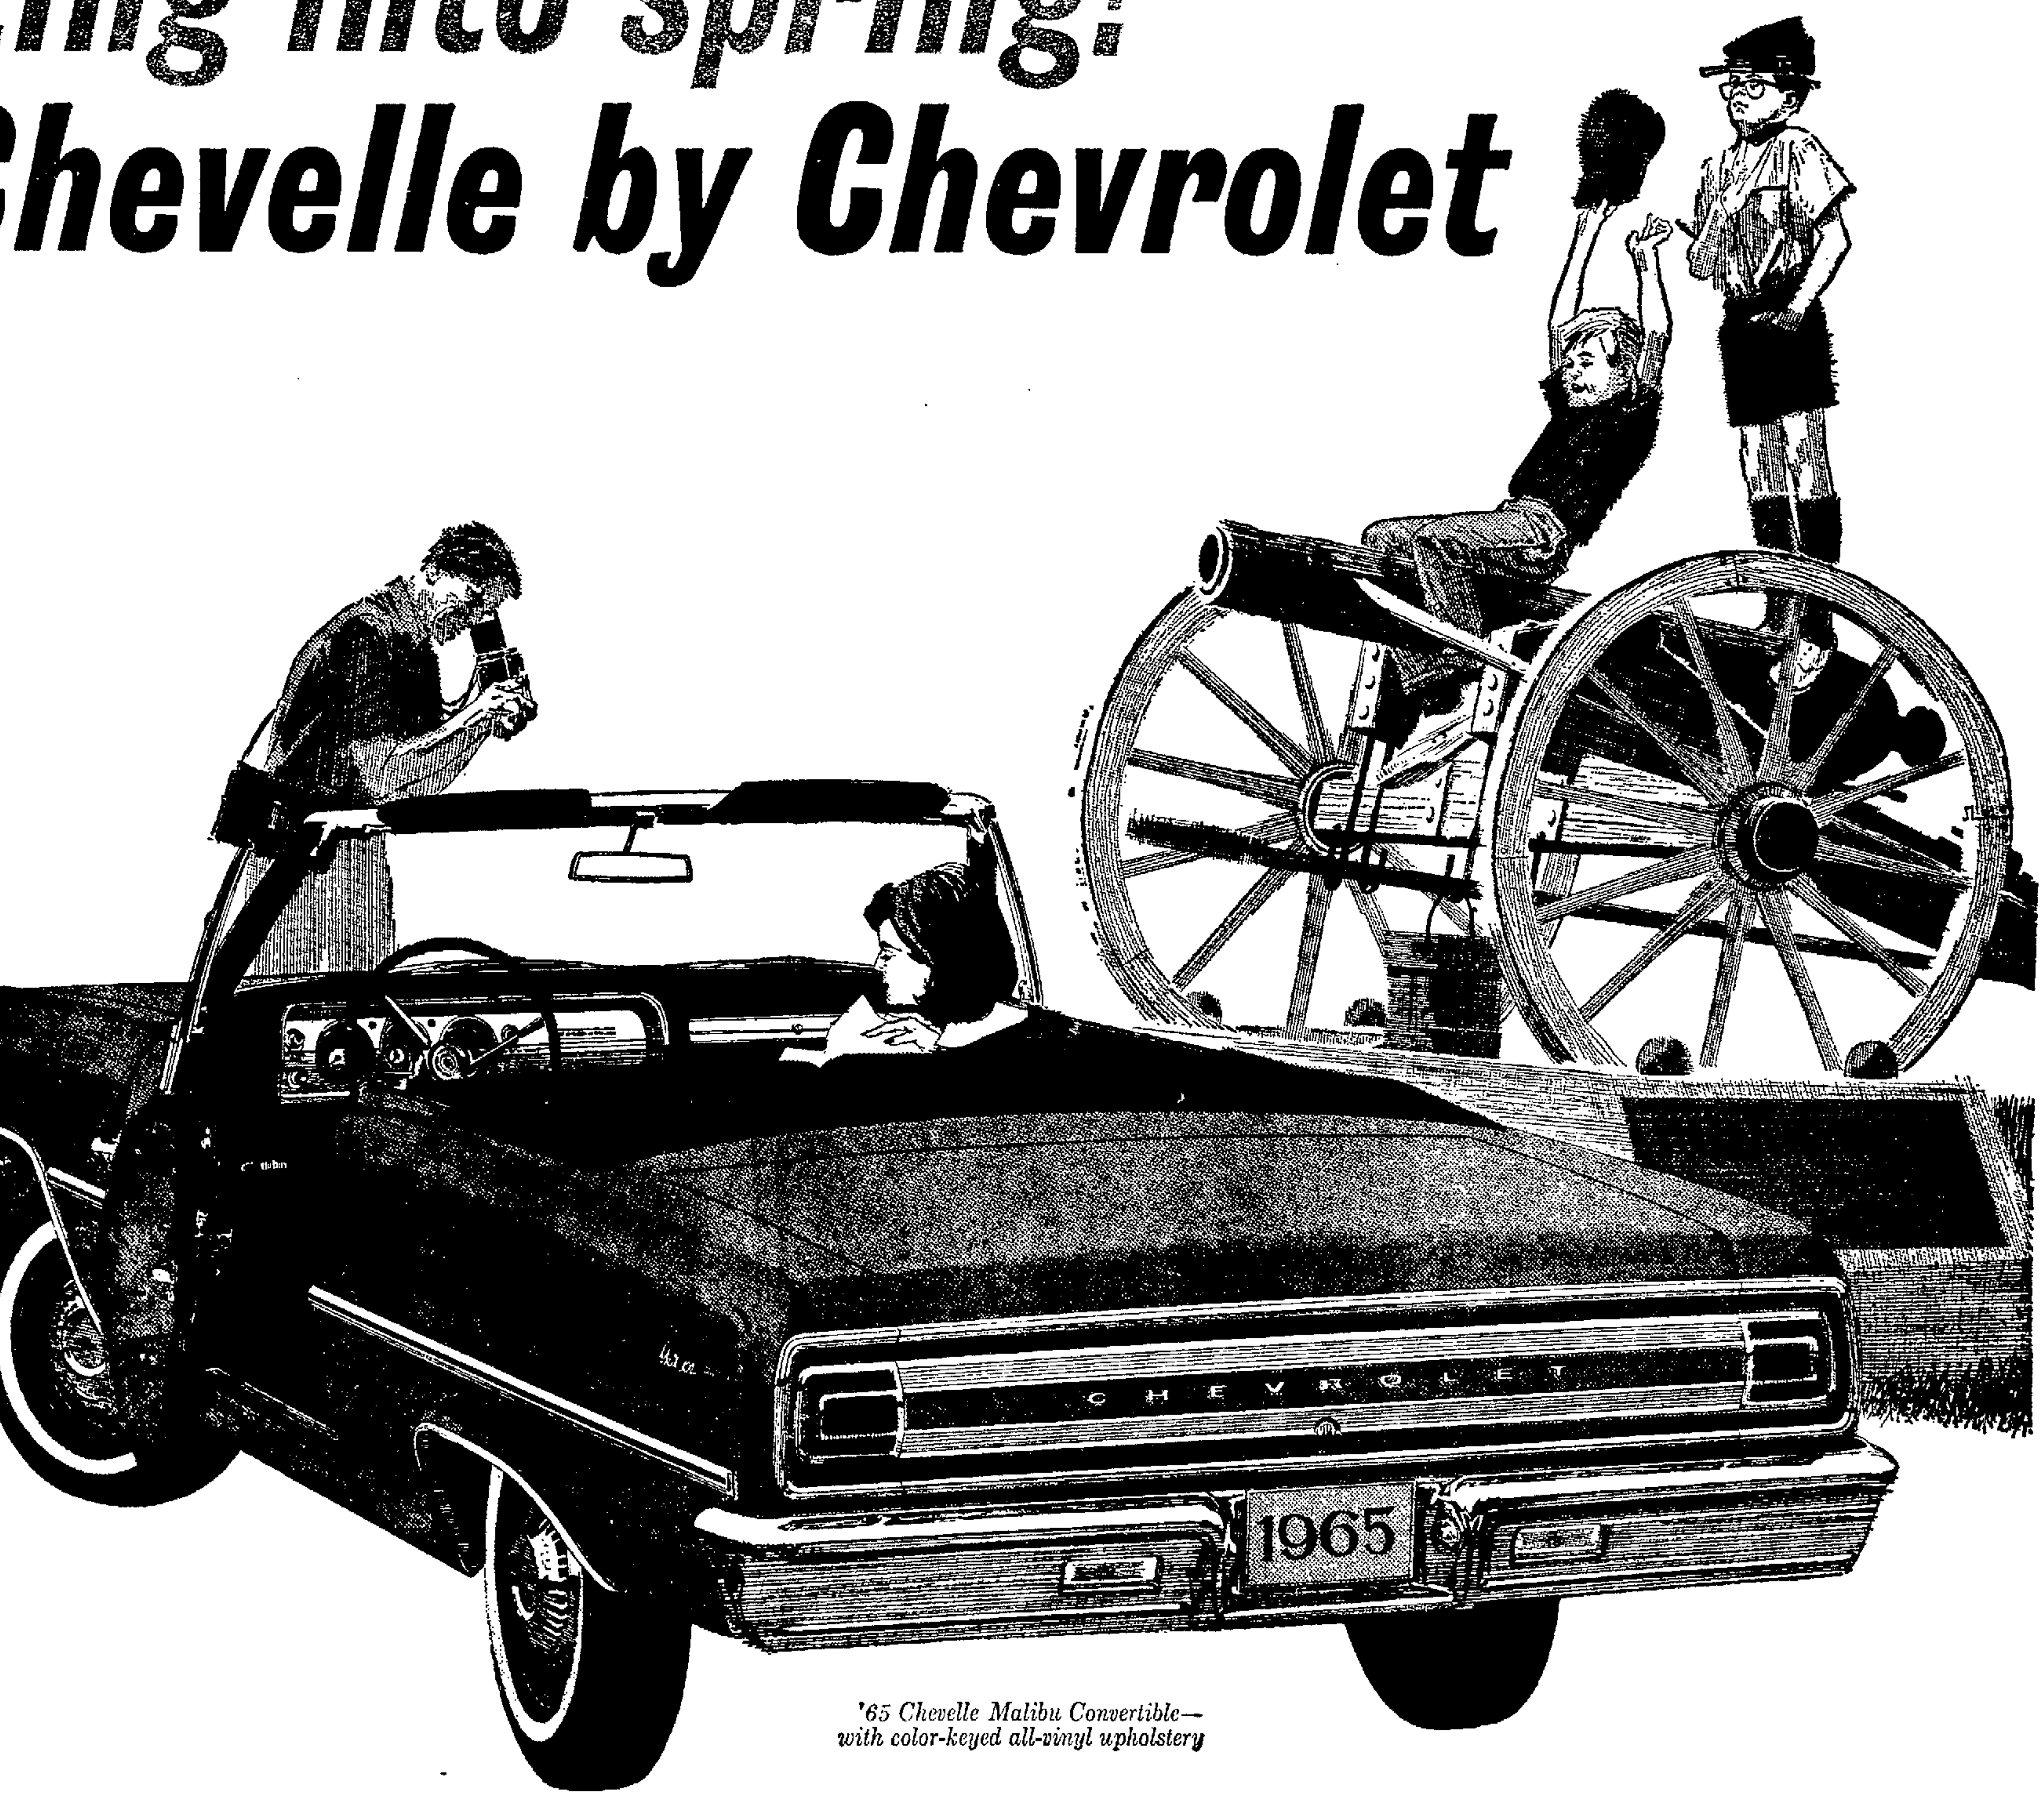
Chevelle by Chevrolet



'65 Chevelle Malibu Convertible—with color-keyed all-vinyl upholstery

It's the most popular mid-size traveler built—which isn't surprising when you consider who built it.

There's no doubt that a car like this could get by on its good looks alone. Without ever having to rely on family connections.

But the fact that it is built by Chevrolet assures you right off it's got a lot more going for it than merely meets the eye. It tells you, for example, that beneath those impetuous-looking lines you can have the impetuous kind of power—6 or V8—that Chevrolet has a reputation for putting in its cars. It tells you that you get Body by Fisher handiwork inside and out (with the kind of meticulous attention to detail that goes into some of the most expensive cars around). It tells you that you're going to get a ride developed by engineers who are old hands at putting the squelch on bumps (Chevelle has Full Coil suspension at all four wheels, similar to the regular Jet-smooth Chevrolet).

Knowing all this, you probably won't be startled by the fact more people are now buying Chevelle than any other car its size. But you will have a happy surprise when you check what you can buy one for—right now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 36 years and the best thing my husband does is sleep. I practically have to assault him to get him out of bed in the morning for work. The minute he finishes his supper in the evening he falls asleep and I have to fight with him to get him to take his clothes off and go to sleep in the bedroom. It's bad enough that he sleeps so much on work days, but on holidays and week-ends it's even worse. He falls asleep in chairs, on the couch, and on the floor! It irks me to have him sleeping all over the house when I have housecleaning to do. Do I have the right to wake him up and tell him to go sleep in the bedroom? And does a grown man need that much sleep?

"RIP VAN WINKLE'S WIFE"

DEAR WIFE: First, insist that "Rip" get a thorough physical checkup. Excessive sleep is sometimes a symptom of illness. If your husband is as fit as a fiddle, but just likes to saw wood, work around him, and let him be.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with this man for nearly a year. He works just around the corner from where I work, and that's how we met. I have never met any of his friends or family. I gave him my telephone number but he never gave me his. I have asked him how I could get in touch with him in case of emergency, but he got around it some way and he still didn't give me his number. What do you make of this?

NO NUMBER

DEAR NO: He could be hiding something — like a wife. Or a live-in companion I think you aleady have his number.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: If 'cheated' (the baby sitter who complained of being underpaid) is the one who came to our house, ate a pound of candy, two packages of potato chips, half a lemon pie, drank 2 bottles of beer, and then left with the grocery money, my new white gloves and all my hair-rollers, please tell her we won't "cheat" her again. We can't afford her.

The bidding:

Opening lead — king of clubs.

This hand was played in Dallas last fall during the Trials to select the North American international team [illegible]65. (The team turned out to be Howard Schenken, Peter Leventritt, Mrs. Dorothy Hayden and this writer, all of New York, and Ivan Erdos and Kelsey Petterson, both of Los Angeles.)

East opened the bidding at all nine tables with a heart. At four of these tables South passed and East became declarer in a part score diamond contract, making five by means of a crossruff.

However, at five tables South overcalled the heart bid with two clubs, as many players would. This turned out badly when West, in each case, took it into his head to double.

One South player got away with the overcall when the double was not left in, but four Souths had to pay a heavy toll for the overcall. One of them went down 500 and two of them 800 at two clubs doubled, while the other South ran from two clubs doubled into an eventual two notrump contract. This was doubled and went down 1,100!

Luckily, my partner Mrs. Hayden saw little virtue in a two club overcall and elected to pass the opening heart bid. The result was that we earned a good score for staying out of trouble on the hand.

However, the fact that five Souths saw fit to overcall with two clubs indicates that there must be some merit to the bid. I personally think that the overcall — vulnerable against non-vulnerable and with a passed partner — had much more to lose than to gain, but this statement is of course easier to make after seeing all hands than before.

It must be granted that the overcallers were punished more than they deserved, but still, the hand was a triumph for sound bidding. The player who periodical[illegible]s out of line with risky bids must expect to be lambasted once in a while.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 36 years and the best thing my husband does is sleep. I practically have to assault him to get him out of bed in the morning for work. The minute he finishes his supper in the evening he falls asleep and I have to fight with him to get him to take his clothes off and go to sleep in the bedroom. It's bad enough that he sleeps so much on work days, but on holidays and week-ends it's even worse. He falls asleep in chairs, on the couch, and on the floor! It irks me to have him sleeping all over the house when I have house-cleaning to do. Do I have the right to wake him up and tell him to go sleep in the bedroom? And does a grown man need that much sleep?

"RIP VAN WINKLE'S WIFE"

DEAR WIFE: First, insist that "Rip" get a thorough physical checkup. Excessive sleep is sometimes a symptom of illness. If your husband is as fit as a fiddle, but just likes to saw wood, work around him, and let him be.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with this man for nearly a year. He works just around the corner from where I work, and that's how we met. I have never met any of his friends or family. I gave him my telephone number but he never gave me his. I have asked him how I could get in touch with him in case of emergency, but he got around it some way and he still didn't give me his number. What do you make of this?

NO NUMBER

DEAR NO: He could be hiding comething — like a wife. Or a live-in companion I think you aleady have his number.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: If 'cheated' (the baby sitter who complained of being underpaid) is the one who came to our house, ate a pound of candy, two packages of potato chips, half a lemon pie, drank 2 bottles of beer, and then left with the grocery money, my new white gloves and all my hair-rollers, please tell her we won't "cheat" her again. We can't afford her.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1♥	Pass	1♠
Pass	2♦

Opening lead — king of clubs.

This hand was played in Dallas last fall during the Trials to select the North American international team . 965. (The team turned out to be Howard Schenken, Peter Leventritt, Mrs. Dorothy Hayden and this writer, all of New York, and Ivan Erdos and Kelsey Petterson, both of Los Angeles.)

East opened the bidding at all nine tables with a heart. At four of these tables South passed and East became declarer in a part score diamond contract, making five by means of a crossruff.

However, at five tables South overcalled the heart bid with two clubs, as many players would. This turned out badly when West, in each case, took it into his head to double.

One South player got away with the overcall when the double was not left in, but four Souths had to pay a heavy toll for the overcall. One of them went down 500 and two of them 800 at two clubs doubled, while the other South ran from two clubs doubled into an eventual two notrump contract. This was doubled and went down 1,100!

Luckily, my partner Mrs. Hayden saw little virtue in a two club overcall and elected to pass the opening heart bid. The result was that we earned a good score for staying out of trouble on the hand.

However, the fact that five Souths saw fit to overcall with two clubs indicates that there must be some merit to the bid. I personally think that the overcall — vulnerable against non-vulnerable and with a passed partner — had much more to lose than to gain, but this statement is of course easier to make after seeing all hands than before.

It must be granted that the overcallers were punished more than they deserved, but still, the hand was a triumph for sound bidding. The player who periodically steps out of line with risky bids must expect to be lambasted once in a while.

NEWS
and echoes of the Easter weekend in suburbia

The Easter weekend is past and we can see from this mornings news that it was a busy one indeed

But, forgetting what is past and out of sight let's take a look at all the festive dinners and fun out-of-town trips which take place during the holiday weekend

SOUTH HILLS

We will begin the morning by lending an ear to the news which Mr and Mrs. Harold DeVries have for us They were at the home of Mrs. DeVries' parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Johnson tell us the table was also surrounded with family members when a gathering of the clan took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Rudebusch here in Lincoln The Sunday evening dinner brought an out-of-town guest—John Rudebusch of Norfolk.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Larson and children, Lois, Paul, Ruth and Dale, spent the Easter holidays in Des Moines, Iowa. The Larson family visited with Mrs. Larson's sister, Miss Elvia Werner. Des Moines, by the way, will be the Larsons new home location following the close of the school year.

Sorensen: Spending Limit Would Cripple State

Lt. Gov. Philip C. Sorensen said Monday a recently proposed constitutional limitation on state spending would permanently cripple Nebraska.

He said the proposal "should win a prize as being the most short-sighted idea of the year."

Philip C. Anderson of Crete, representing a "Citizens Voice for Sensible Spending" group, advocated recently a constitutional amendment under which state government spending would be limited to a maximum of 1.2% of the market value of tangible property in the state.

Commented Sorensen, a Democrat:

"It is a good deal like the Chinese custom of binding the feet of a baby girl to assure that she will have small feet, with the result that the child is crippled for life. This is just what such a constitutional limitation would do—permanently cripple Nebraska.

"If this proposal is to be taken seriously, then probably we should consider a constitutional provision limiting the enrollment in our colleges on a percentage of property values, or a constitutional provision limiting the quality of our mental health treatments to a percentage of the taxes on beer consumption.

"I am confident that the people of Nebraska will recognize the destructive effect of this proposal."

Free Housing Not Part Of Salary

If a county provides free housing for a sheriff, the rental value of the house cannot be considered as part of the sheriff's salary.

That is the opinion of the State Justice Department which held Monday that the allowance of living quarters is in return for special services, such as supervising the jail all night.

State law requires that the salary of full-time deputies not be less than 75% of the county officer's salary. Clay County Atty. Jay J. Sullivan asked if when computing a minimum salary, the free housing could be taken into account.

(before they get into your fuel line!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency...could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER.* It traps these tiny particles right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American® Regular or American® Super-Premium.

Sorensen: Spending Limit Would Cripple State

Lt. Gov. Philip C. Sorensen said Monday a recently proposed constitutional limitation on state spending would permanently cripple Nebraska.

He said the proposal "should win a prize as being the most short-sighted idea of the year."

Philip C. Anderson of Crete, representing a "Citizens Voice for Sensible Spending" group, advocated recently a constitutional amendment under which state government spending would be limited to a maximum of 1.25% of the market value of tangible property in the state.

Commented Sorensen, a Democrat:

"It is a good deal like the Chinese custom of binding the feet of a baby girl to assure that she will have small feet, with the result that the child is crippled for life. This is just what such a constitutional limitation would do—permanently cripple Nebraska.

"If this proposal is to be taken seriously, then probably we should consider a constitutional provision limiting the enrollment in our colleges on a percentage of property values, or a constitutional provision limiting the quality of our mental health treatments to a percentage of the taxes on beer consumption.

"I am confident that the people of Nebraska will recognize the destructive effect of this proposal."

Free Housing Not Part Of Salary

If a county provides free housing for a sheriff, the rental value of the house cannot be considered as part of the sheriff's salary.

That is the opinion of the State Justice Department which held Monday that the allowance of living quarters is in return for special services, such as supervising the jail all night.

State law requires that the salary of full-time deputies not be less than 75% of the county officer's salary. Clay County Atty. Jay J. Sullivan asked if when computing a minimum salary, the free housing could be taken into account.

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER.* It traps these tiny particles right at the pump nozzle. SEC Files Suit Against Texas Gulf

. . . FOR KEEPING RICH COPPER ORE STRIKE SECRET

New York (AP)—Thirteen top officials of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co were accused by the federal government Monday of buying thousands of shares of the company's stock while withholding information about a rich copper ore strike in Canada

A suit filed late Monday in federal district court by the Securities and Exchange Commission names the company itself as a defendant.

The government charged that the firm issued a "materially false and misleading" press release on April 12, 1964 discounting rumors of the find

Company Prepared

Claude O. Stephens, president of Texas Gulf, said in a statement that although he has not had a chance to study the complaint, "the company is fully prepared to show that the company's conduct has been both legally and morally correct."

Stephens said that "during the past year the company's officers, directors and a number of key employes have cooperated fully with the SEC in an exhaustive investigation of all aspects of this case."

The SEC charged also that some of the defendants received stock options from Texas Gulf without having notified the company's board of directors of the discovery of a copper and zinc ore body near Timmins, Ont.

Among those charged were Charles F. Fogarty of Rye, N.Y., executive vice president and director of Texas Gulf; Richard D. Mollison of Greenwich, Conn another vice president, and Thomas S Lamont of Manhattan, director of Texas Gulf and vice chairman of Mortan Guaranty Trust Co., New York.

Not named as a defendant but mentioned in the complaint as having benefited from a second-hand tip about the stock's probably rise, was Herbert Klotz, an assistant secretary of commerce Klotz bought calls on 2,000 shares, the complaint said.

More Than Tripled

The value of the stock has risen from less than $18 a share in November, 1963, when, the SEC said, the first alleged "insider" purchases were made, to more than $70 in recent quotations

The SEC asked the court to enjoin the defendants from further transactions of the kind, called for cancellation of the stock options, and asked that those defendants who bought shares on the basis of their inside knowledge be required to sell them back at the same price

The complaint also asked that certain of the defendants, including Lamont, who advised other persons to buy Texas Gulf stock be required by the court to make restitution to the sellers.

The SEC suit was filed under a rule which makes it illegal for an officer, director, or employe of a corporation to misstate pertinent facts, or to fail to give pertinent facts, in purchasing the firm's securities The commission says a company's stockholders are entitled to know any facts which are known to the company's officers which would materially affect stock value.

Wildest Boom

The report of the ore discovery in a section of Kidd Township near Timmins, Ont., set off the wildest boom in modern Canadian mining history

The Toronto Stock Exchange went on a trading binge that set a North American record for volume of stock traded 28.7 million shares in one day.

In Timmins Township, which had been a dying gold mining center, people ran into the streets, shouting and clapping each other on the back.

Prospectors swarmed into the Timmins area to stake out claims Buying and selling of mining stocks reached a fever pitch

Stocks Spurt

Texas Gulf stock spurted on the New York Stock Exchange.

Curtis Publishing Co announced that it owned timberlands adjacent to the Texas Gulf discovery and its stock, too, rose sharply.

In June, Texas Gulf's engineers and an independent mining consultant made a new estimate of 55 million tons of ore with an average grade of 4.85 ounces of silver, 1.33% copper and 7.08% zinc per ton.

Initial plans for development of the property were estimated at $25 million, including an access road, a facility for open pit mining and processing 6,000 tons of ore a day.

Texas Gulf is the world's largest producer of sulphur, mainly from properties in Texas.

'Silent Spring' Criticized By Subcommittee

Washington (UPI)—A House subcommittee, in a report made public Monday, accused the late Rachel Carson of "unnecessarily" alarming the public over the dangers of pesticides

It said her best-selling book, "The Silent Spring," "created an atmosphere of panic, foretold an impending disaster and barely mentioned the immensely useful role played by pesticides in the U.S. economy."

Miss Carson, a noted biologist who died one year ago, published her book in 1962 She reviewed the uses of pesticides in the United Sates and concluded they were being applied so indiscriminately as to endanger human beings, wildlife and plant life

Her claims have been sharply criticized by representatives of the pesticide manufacturing industry

Miss Carson's book unnecessarily caused public concern over the ill effects of chemical pesticides on the public health " in the opinion of the subcommittee staff.

Candle Blamed For Home Fire

A fire caused considerable damage to a bedroom at the home of Eve Faddis, 1610 Otoe, Monday afternoon

According to Fire Department spokesmen the blaze apparently started when a lighted candle ignited curtains in the bedroom. The fire then spread to the walls and ceiling of the room.

The fire was discovered when a neighbor spotted smoke and alerted roof repairmen who were working on the house at the time.

Tornado Warning System Again Set To Go In County

Instantaneous Tornado Warning System procedures have been re-established by the Lincoln Lancaster County Civil Defense according to Richard Vestecka City-County CD director

The warning system connects all sources of storm information, including the Lincoln Air Force Base Weather Unit, with the new Weather Bureau Airport Station, which in turn relays the information directly to all AM radio and TV stations simultaneously on a special network.

Lincoln is prepared on a community-wide, well-organized basis," said Vestecka with a warning system operational since April 1960 Walt Yetter, CD Public Information Officer, and John Hanlon, Yetter's deputy supervise the staff

Yetter explained that the warning system will be in operation during the hours designated by the Weather Bureau as the period in which a tornado might occur.

Assist

The Air Force weather radar equipment will be used to assist in detecting tornadoes, and that information will be transmitted directly to the Weather Bureau. The weatherman will announce confirmed weather information over a microphone on direct broadcast lines installed by KFOR KLIN and KLMS radio stations KOLN-TV station and The Lincoln Star and Journal

Civil Defense sirens will sound a "take cover" if a tornado is known to be approaching Lincoln. Details will be broadcast over the radio-TV network. Sirens are under the direct control of Police Chief Joe Carroll.

The tornado warning system means that the residents of Lincoln and southeastern Nebraska will hear almost immediately of any serious threats to their safety," said Vestecka

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. Of Zoos And Baseball

Fathers and small boys once faced the problem of deciding between a trip to the zoo or to the baseball game on Sunday afternoon.

Charlie Finley, the imaginative Kansas City A's owner, has solved the problem for visitors to Kansas City. You can visit both the zoo and watch the baseball game in Finley's park.

"Visit A's Zoo, The Only Zoo In The Major Leagues," the sign in right field reads. After watching the A's drop fly balls and throw to the wrong bases during Sunday's rout by the New York Yankees, one wonders if the sign wouldn't have been better placed at the outside ticket windows.

All the monkeys on Finley's payroll may not be in the zoo.

The leader of the zoo parade is Finley's mule, with Charlie O—the mule—being paraded around the park just prior to the National Anthem.

Finley is even taking his pet on the first A's road trip with the first stop in Detroit and the mule is going first class.

Finley tried to get the mule a four-room suite in the Sheraton-Cadillac, home of the A's in Detroit, but had to settle for two car stalls in the hotel's garage.

Finley has gained permission to show his mule in Detroit and Cleveland on the road trip that starts Tuesday, but the Yankees haven't made their decision yet. Seems the Yankees still subscribe to the theory that the name of the game is baseball.

Promotions Galore

Finley has scheduled dozens of special nights for Kansas City this summer with Ladies Nights, School Patrol Nights, Rabbit Nights, Camera Nights, Family Nights, Bat Nights, Scout Nights, Farmers Nights, Charlie O Mule Day, Little League Nights and others.

The special nights all are listed on the right field fence behind Finley's one-half pennant porch. If you look real close, you can notice that Aug. 7 is listed as Baseball Night, leading one to hope that at least this one night they plan to play baseball.

Does anyone remember that Bill Veeck has been unofficially black-balled from baseball because of the crazy stunts he pulled a few years ago? "Ruined the decorum of baseball," they said.

Slumpers React Differently

Two of baseball's biggest early season slumps were on the line in Kansas City Sunday when the A's Mike Hershberger, a former Lincoln Chief, and the Yankees' Joe Pepitone took the field.

But the two reacted differently to their 0-for-17 performances prior to Sunday's contest.

"I'm not worried about it," Hershberger said during batting practice. "I feel like I'm swinging good and I'm hitting the ball good. It just won't fall in."

Hershberger snapped his hitless streak his second time at the plate when he rapped a Jim Bouton fast ball over the one-half pennant porch in right field to pull the A's within one run of the Yanks at 5-4.

Joe Pepitone was reacting differently to his slump. "I'm worried," he admitted frankly. "After a while, it gets on your nerves. I've lost my confidence." Pepitone was still in his slump after Sunday's contest.

Chuvalo TKO's Omaha's Nielsen In Toronto Bout

Toronto (AP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo scored a technical knockout over Bill Nielsen of Omaha, Neb. in a fight at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night.

The 27-year-old Canadian champion weighed 209 pounds to Nielsen's 199.

Chuvalo ranked No. 3 among heavyweights by the World Boxing Association, worked mainly on Nielsen's body and had some trouble staying away from the American's left jabs which drew blood from the winner's nose throughout the fight.

Nielsen, who is unranked, displayed some good combination punching early in the fight but seemed more concerned about staying away from Chuvalo than landing authoritative punches of his own.

The victory gave Chuvalo a 30-9-2 record and was his first bout since dropping a 12-round decision to Floyd Patterson in New York two months ago. Nielsen is 21-6-1.

In preliminary fights, Everett Copeland, 206, of New York, outpointed Jiancarlo Barazza, 204, of Toronto, in an eight-rounder, and Charlie Chase, 200, of Montreal, outpointed Jim Christopher, 176, of Detroit.

... 440 RELAY TEAM TUNES UP FOR DRAKE

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's 440-yard relay team, seeking to complete a slam of the Texas-Kansas-Drake Relays circuit, will tune up for this weekend's Drake Relays this afternoon when Wisconsin and Houston move into Memorial Stadium for a triangular.

The Husker spring relay outfit of Tom Milsap, Dave Crook, Lynn Headley and Charlie Greene will get the running events under way at 3:30, one-half hour after the field event men begin their duties.

The NU sprint corps set a record for the 440 relay by winning in :40.5 at the Kansas Relays Saturday. The clocking was the fastest at the KU meet since the event has been run around two curves.

While the record-setting relay team will get the meet under way, another Husker relay team—the mile quartet—that produced one of the best races of the Kansas Relays will close the meet in the 1600-meter relay.

The NU mile relay team is anchored by Crook who produced an unofficial :45.5 in nearly overtaking the leaders after getting the baton with an 18-yard deficit at the KU Relays.

Crook also will be running in the individual 440 with Wisconsin's Steve Whipple providing stern opposition. Whipple, a sophomore, has been timed in :48.0 this season.

Houston offers its principal challengers to the Huskers in the sprints and hurdles where Boyd Timmons, a :09.6 runner, will go against NU's Greene, Headley and Milsap in the 100, and Cyler Thompson, a fifth place finisher in the NCAA high hurdles a year ago, will run against Nebraska's Preston Love, Ray Harvey and Bob Nelson.

Thompson has run a :14.1 this season in the high hurdles.

Wisconsin, the Big 10 indoor champion, will have three conference champions in action.

Bill Holden needed only 6-6 to win the Big 10 high jump crown but he has a top effort of 6-10½.

The Badgers also have the Big 10 880 champion and the 1,000-yard champion who will be running the 880 today.

Ken Latigolal, a native of Uganda, East Africa, won the half mile in the conference indoor meet and has run 1:53.2 outdoors this spring. Barney Peterson, the Big 10 champ at 1,000 yards indoors, will join Latigolal for the 880.

The entries:

Shot put (3 p.m.)—[illegible] Bob [illegible], Bill Walters, Wisconsin; Jim [illegible], Nebraska.

Discus (following shot put)—Jim [illegible], Wisconsin; [illegible] Zersen, Nebraska.

. . . BRAVES FALL, 2-0

By Associated Press

Jim Maloney checked Milwaukee on one hit — an eighth-inning bloop single by Denis Menke — and Deron Johnson's two-run homer gave the Cincinnati right-hander a 2-0 victory over the Braves Monday.

Maloney, who had been ineffective during spring training, walked three Braves and struck out eight in his first start of the season before a meager Milwaukee crowd of 2,804. Johnson homered off Braves southpaw Wade Blasingame with Frank Robinson, who had walked, aboard in the second inning.

After Menke, leading off the eighth, had ended his no-hit bid, Maloney got pinch hitter Hank Aaron, making his initial appearance since undergoing an operation last month, to bounce into a double play.

Philadelphia blanked Houston 8-0 on Jim Bunning's five-hitter and the Chicago Cubs routed Ray Sadecki with four first-inning runs and whipped St. Louis 7-3 in National League night games.

Jim Gentile drove in two runs with a single and his third homer as Kansas City pounded Whitey Ford and the New York Yankees 8-2 and the Chicago White Sox rallied for two runs in the seventh inning and four more in the eighth to whip Baltimore 7-2 in American League night action.

The Detroit Tigers were at Los Angeles for a night game with the Angels.

A scheduled day doubleheader at Boston between the Red Sox and Washington Senators was rained out.

The Phillies scored four runs in the third inning and Richie Allen blasted a two-run homer in the seventh to beat ex-teammate Dick Farrell for the first time since September, 1962. Farrell had beaten the Phils six straight times.

Doug Clemens knocked in three runs with a homer and single and Ernie Banks tripped a two-run homer as the Cubs Cubs handed St. Louis its fifth handed St. Louis its fifth loss in six games.

Ford surrendered seven runs before being lifted in the fourth inning while right-hander Diego Segui of the A's held the Yankees to eight scattered hits. The White Sox used a record-tying five pinch hitters in the seventh inning, with the last one, pitcher Gary Peters, singling home the go-ahead run.

Baseball Surprises Get Started Early

New York (AP) — The baseball season is only one week old but there are some early surprises in the batting averages.

Tony Oliva, the American League batting champ, is hitting only .172 for the Minnesota Twins. Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, fighting back to form after an attack of malaria, is batting but .250 in defense of his National League crown. All averages are figured through Sunday's games.

The home run king of the majors, Harmon Killebrew of the Twins, has yet to hit one. The entire Chicago White Sox ball club has yet to hit a homer. On the other hand, the Chicago Cubs have hit eight, tops in the majors.

Old man Ernie Basks of the Cubs is slashing away at a .522 clip with 10 runs batted in, the most in the majors. Ron Santo of the Cubs leads the pack with three home runs. The Cubs also have two precocious rookies in shortstop Roberto Pena, .333 with two homers, and second baseman Glenn Beckert, .259.

Willie Mays, the San Francisco Giants' $105,000 salaried star, is rocking along at .348 but he has to take a back seat to the Alou boys from the Dominican Republic. Jesus Alou, the Giants' right fielder, is batting .542 and Matty Alou, the Giants' sometime left fielder, is at the .438 level.

Mickey Mantle, the American League's $100,000 ball player, is hitting .357 with two home runs on the board but Roger Maris, despite a titanic homer in Kansas City Saturday night, has a sick .167 average. Two of Maris' three hits were homers.

Of the hitless sufferers, Joe Pepitone of the Yanks has to be the worst. Peppy is 0 for 20. Rico Petrocelli, the Boston Red Sox rookie shortstop, is 0 for 13 and Clay Dalrymple, the Phillis' No. 1 catcher, is 0 for 11.

Danny Cater is making the Chicago White Sox look good in their deal with the Phillies. Cater has eight hits in 12 trips and that figures out to .667.

The rookie crop appears to have some live ones. Tony Perez, who takes over from Gordy Coleman as Cincinnati first baseman when the Reds face a left-handed pitcher, rests at even .500. Tom Reynolds of Kansas City is up there at .375. Jim Lefebvre, the Los Angeles Dodgers' smart new second baseman, is batting .357 and both Curt Blefary of Baltimore and Jose Cardenas of the Los Angeles Angels are at .363.

John Sullivan, who has been doing plenty of catching for Detroit with Bill Freehan out of action, has impressed with a .357 average. Johnny Lewis, ex-Cardinal now with the Mets, has a robust .350 mark.

The big Washington-Los Angeles trade finds Frank Howard at .288, Ken McMullen at .136, Phil Ortega 0-1 and Pete Richert 1-0 for the Senators with Claude Osteen 1-0 and Johnny Kennedy .250 for the Dodgers.

Dennis Bennett is still in dry dock with arm trouble at Boston but Dick Stuart, who went to the Phillies in the Bennett deal, is struggling at .231 with one homer.

George Altman, back with the Cubs after stays at St. Louis and New York, appears to be back in his element with a .391 average.

And the team with the most errors. The Cubs with 14.

WINTERGREEN FLAVORED SKOAL CHEWING TOBACCO

Here's how to enjoy it most:

1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.

2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.

3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness.

Of Zoos And Baseball

Fathers and small boys once faced the problem of deciding between a trip to the zoo or to the baseball game on Sunday afternoon.

Charlie Finley, the imaginative Kansas City A's owner, has solved the problem for visitors to Kansas City. You can visit both the zoo and watch the baseball game in Finley's park.

"Visit A's Zoo, The Only Zoo In The Major Leagues," the sign in right field reads. After watching the A's drop fly balls and throw to the wrong bases during Sunday's rout by the New York Yankees, one wonders if the sign wouldn't have been better placed at the outside ticket windows.

All the monkeys on Finley's payroll may not be in the zoo.

The leader of the zoo parade is Finley's mule, with Charlie O—the mule—being paraded around the park just prior to the National Anthem.

Finley is even taking his pet on the first A's road trip with the first stop in Detroit and the mule is going first class.

Finley tried to get the mule a four-room suite in the Sheraton-Cadillac, home of the A's in Detroit, but had to settle for two car stalls in the hotel's garage.

Finley has gained permission to show his mule in Detroit and Cleveland on the road trip that starts Tuesday, but the Yankees haven't made their decision yet. Seems the Yankees still subscribe to the theory that the name of the game is baseball.

Promotions Galore

Finley has scheduled dozens of special nights for Kansas City this summer with Ladies Nights, School Patrol Nights, Rabbit Nights, Camera Nights, Family Nights, Bat Nights, Scout Nights, Farmers Nights, Charlie O Mule Day, Little League Nights and others.

The special nights all are listed on the right field fence behind Finley's one-half pennant porch. If you look real close, you can notice that Aug. 7 is listed as Baseball Night, leading one to hope that at least this one night they plan to play baseball.

Does anyone remember that Bill Veeck has been unofficially black-balled from baseball because of the crazy stunts he pulled a few years ago? "Ruined the decorum of baseball," they said.

Slumpers React Differently

Two of baseball's biggest early season slumps were on the line in Kansas City Sunday when the A's Mike Hershberger, a former Lincoln Chief, and the Yankees' Joe Pepitone took the field.

But the two reacted differently to their 0-for-17 performances prior to Sunday's contest.

"I'm not worried about it," Hershberger said during batting practice. "I feel like I'm swinging good and I'm hitting the ball good. It just won't fall in."

Hershberger snapped his hitless streak his second time at the plate when he rapped a Jim Bouton fast ball over the one-half pennant porch in right field to pull the A's within one run of the Yanks at 5-4.

Joe Pepitone was reacting differently to his slump. "I'm worried," he admitted frankly. "After a while, it gets on your nerves. I've lost my confidence." Pepitone was still in his slump after Sunday's contest.

Husker Thinclads Host Triangular Meet Today

. . . 440 RELAY TEAM TUNES UP FOR DRAKE

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's 440-yard relay team, seeking to complete a slam of the Texas-Kansas-Drake Relays circuit, will tune up for this weekend's Drake Relays this afternoon when Wisconsin and Houston move into Memorial Stadium for a triangular.

The Husker spring relay outfit of Tom Milsap, Dave Crook, Lynn Headley and Charlie Greene will get the running events under way at 3:30, one-half hour after the field event men begin their duties.

The NU sprint corps set a record for the 440 relay by winning in :40.5 at the Kansas Relays Saturday. The clocking was the fastest at the KU meet since the event has been run around two curves.

While the record-setting relay team will get the meet under way, another Husker relay team—the mile quartet—that produced one of the best races of the Kansas Relays will close the meet in the 1600-meter relay.

The NU mile relay team is anchored by Crook who produced an unofficial :45.5 in nearly overtaking the leaders after getting the baton with an 18-yard deficit at the KU Relays.

Crook also will be running in the individual 440 with Wisconsin's Steve Whipple providing stern opposition. Whipple, a sophomore, has been timed in :48.0 this season.

Houston offers its principal challengers to the Huskers in the sprints and hurdles where Boyd Timmons, a :09.6 runner, will go against NU's Greene, Headley and Milsap in the 100, and Cyler Thompson, a fifth place finisher in the NCAA high hurdles a year ago, will run against Nebraska's Preston Love, Ray Harvey and Bob Nelson.

Thompson has run a :14.1 this season in the high hurdles.

Wisconsin, the Big 10 indoor champion, will have three conference champions in action.

Bill Holden needed only 6-6 to win the Big 10 high jump crown but he has a top effort of 6-10¼.

The Badgers also have the Big 10 880 champion and the 1,000-yard champion who will be running the 880 today.

Ken Latigolal, a native of Uganda, East Africa, won the half mile in the conference indoor meet and has run 1:53.2 outdoors this spring. Barney Peterson, the Big 10 champ at 1,000 yards indoors, will join Latigolal for the 880.

The entries:

Shot put (3 p.m.)—Gary Crites, Bob Freimuth, Bill Walters, Wisconsin; Jim Beltzer, Nebraska.

Discus (following shot put)—Jim Sternfield, Wisconsin; Bill Zersen, Nebraska.

MALONEY HAS 1-HITTER

HE'S OUT OF THERE . . . Tony Perez of Cincinnati is out at second, as Denis Menke makes the putout.

Menke Foils No-Hitter Bid

. . . BRAVES FALL, 2-0

By Associated Press

Jim Maloney checked Milwaukee on one hit — an eighth-inning bloop single by Denis Menke — and Deron Johnson's two-run homer gave the Cincinnati right-hander a 2-0 victory over the Braves Monday.

Maloney, who had been ineffective during spring training, walked three Braves and struck out eight in his first start of the season before a meager Milwaukee crowd of 2,804. Johnson homered off Braves southpaw Wade Blasingame with Frank Robinson, who had walked, aboard in the second inning.

After Menke, leading off the eighth, had ended his no-hit bid, Maloney got pinch hitter Hank Aaron, making his initial appearance since undergoing an operation last month, to bounce into a double play.

Philadelphia blanked Houston 8-0 on Jim Bunning's five-hitter and the Chicago Cubs routed Ray Sadecki with four first-inning runs and whipped St. Louis 7-3 in National League night games.

Jim Gentile drove in two runs with a single and his third homer as Kansas City pounded Whitey Ford and the New York Yankees 8-2 and the Chicago White Sox rallied for two runs in the seventh inning and four more in the eighth to whip Balitmore 7-2 in American League night action.

The Detroit Tigers were at Los Angeles for a night game with the Angels.

A scheduled day doublheader at Boston between the Red Sox and Washington Senators was rained out.

The Phillies scored four runs in the third inning and Richie Allen blasted a two-run homer in the seventh to beat ex-teammate Dick Farrell for the first time since September, 1962. Farrell had beaten the Phils six straight times.

Doug Clemens knocked in three runs with a homer and single and Ernie Banks tripped a two-run homer as the Cubs Cubs handed St. Louis its fifth handed St. Louis its fifth loss in six games.

Ford surrendered seven runs before being lifted in the fourth inning while right-hander Diego Segui of the A's held the Yankees to eight scattered hits. The White Sox used a record-tying five pinch hitters in the seventh inning, with the last one, pitcher Gary Peters, singling home the go-ahead run.

Tom Reynolds of Kansas City is up there at .375. Jim Lefebvre, the Los Angeles Dodgers' smart new second baseman, is batting .357 and both Curt Blefary of Baltimore and Jose Cardenas of the Los Angeles Angels are at .363.

John Sullivan, who has been doing plenty of catching for Detroit with Bill Freehan out of action, has impressed with a .357 average. Johnny Lewis, ex-Cardinal now with the Mets, has a robust .350 mark.

The big Washington-Los Angeles trade finds Frank Howard at .288, Ken McMullen at .136, Phil Ortega 0-1 and Pete Richert 1-0 for the Senators with Claude Osteen 1-0 and Johnny Kennedy .250 for the Dodgers.

Dennis Bennett is still in dry dock with arm trouble at Boston but Dick Stuart, who went to the Phillies in the Bennett deal, is struggling at .231 with one homer.

George Altman, back with the Cubs after stays at St. Louis and New York, appears to be back in his element with a .391 average.

Chuvalo TKO's Omaha's Nielsen In Toronto Bout

Toronto (AP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo scored a technical knockout over Bill Nielsen of Omaha, Neb. in a fight at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night.

The 27-year-old Canadian champion weighed 209 pounds to Nielsen's 199.

Chuvalo, ranked No. 3 among heavyweights by the World Boxing Association, worked mainly on Nielsen's body and had some trouble staying away from the American's left jabs which drew blood from the winner's nose throughout the fight.

Nielsen, who is unranked, displayed some good combination punching early in the fight but seemed more concerned about staying away from Chuvalo than landing authoritative punches of his own.

The victory gave Chuvalo a 30-9-2 record and was his first bout since dropping a 12-round decision to Floyd Patterson in New York two months ago. Nielsen is 21-6-1.

In preliminary fights, Everett Copeland, 206, of New York, outpointed Jiancarlo Barazza, 204, of Toronto, in an eight-rounder, and Charlie Chase, 200, of Montreal, outpointed Jim Christopher, 176, of Detroit.

Sure beats smoking!

WINTERGREEN FLAVORED SKOAL CHEWING TOBACCO

Here's how to enjoy it most:

1. Take a small pinch of wintergreen flavored Skoal between your thumb and forefinger.
2. Place the Skoal between cheek and upper or lower gum.
3. Tuck it in comfortably with your tongue, and just leave it there. Skoal releases its rich tobacco pleasure slowly, without chewing. Every can is dated for freshness.

How can you know till you try it?

LA Angels Display Interest In Nebraska Pro Baseball

. . . GOV. MORRISON TOLD

A major league baseball official told Gov. Frank Morrison Monday that there is a good possibility the old Nebraska State League will be revived.

Marvin Milkes, assistant to General Manager Bob Reynolds of the Los Angeles Angels, said in a letter that the Angels organization has a high regard for the cities of Grand Island, Kearney, North Platte and McCook.

The four cities, along with Lexington and Holdrege, were members of the All-Rookie State League which operated from 1956 to 1960.

Milkes told Morrison that "with the new free agent draft and signing of many young players, there might be a possibility of a future league in Nebraska."

"I don't know what player commitments we would be able to make in the future development of such a league," Milkes said, "but I do believe that if there are enough players available, that most of the people in baseball will certainly recognize Nebraska."

Gov. Morrison recently sent letters to the 20 major league club owners stating that Nebraskans are most anxious to have another minor league.

A National League field representative earlier this month met with Grand Island, North Platte, Lexington and McCook officials to discuss the possibility of reviving the old league.

Boston Breaks Away For 129-123 Victory Over LA

. . . FOR 2-0 EDGE IN NBA SERIES

Boston (AP)—Boston's front court of Tom Sanders, Bill Russell and Tommy Heinsohn took charge in a breakaway third period as the Celtics beat Los Angeles 129-123 Monday night in the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

With the third game of the best-of-seven series scheduled in Los Angeles Wednesday night, Boston is halfway toward its second consecutive world championship.

The Lakers, virtually minus two of their players, battled hard and had much sharper shooting eyes than in their 142-110 loss in the first game Sunday.

The Celtics had no real answer for scoring ace Jerry West, who scored 45 points. Clinging to a 62-60 halftime lead, the Celtics were tied three times at the start of the third quarter but wound up moving away from the Lakers 39-29 in that span.

NWU Thinclads Clash With Peru In Contest Today

Peru State and Nebraska Wesleyan University meet in a dual track contest today at O. N. Magee stadium. Field events start at 3:00 p.m. with running events at 3:30 p.m.

Coach Woody Greeno, who took a sparse squad to the Corn Palace Relays at Mitchell, S.D. last weekend, says his squad will be in nearly top condition for the dual.

The Plainsmen picked up four medals at the Mitchell relays, two on the track and two in the field.

Greeno said Jim Booher tied for first in the high jump at 6 feet and Sam Cowan placed second in the shot put with a toss of 50 feet 10 inches, his personal best and best ever for a Plainsman.

LA Angels Display Interest In Nebraska Pro Baseball

. . . GOV. MORRISON TOLD

A major league baseball official told Gov. Frank Morrison Monday that there is a good possibility the old Nebraska State League will be revived.

Marvin Milkes, assistant to General Manager Bob Reynolds of the Los Angeles Angels, said in a letter that the Angels organization has a high regard for the cities of Grand Island, Kearney, North Platte and McCook.

The four cities, along with Lexington and Holdrege, were members of the All-Rookie State League which operated from 1956 to 1960.

Milkes told Morrison that "with the new free agent draft and signing of many young players, there might be a possibility of a future league in Nebraska."

"I don't know what player commitments we would be able to make in the future development of such a league," Milkes said, "but I do believe that if there are enough players available, that most of the people in baseball will certainly recognize Nebraska."

Gov. Morrison recently sent letters to the 20 major league club owners stating that Nebraskans are most anxious to have another minor league.

A National League field representative earlier this month met with Grand Island, North Platte, Lexington and McCook officials to discuss the possibility of reviving the old league.

Boston Breaks Away For 129-123 Victory Over LA

...FOR 2-0 EDGE IN NBA SERIES

Boston (AP)—Boston's front court of Tom Sanders, Bill Russell and Tommy Heinsohn took charge in a breakaway third period as the Celtics beat Los Angeles 129-123 Monday night in the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

With the third game of the best-of-seven series scheduled in Los Angeles Wednesday night, Boston is halfway toward its second consecutive world championship.

The Lakers, virtually minus two of their players, battled hard and had much sharper shooting eyes than in their 142-110 loss in the first game Sunday.

The Celtics had no real answer for scoring ace Jerry West, who scored 45 points. Clinging to a 62-60 halftime lead, the Celtics were tied three times at the start of the third quarter but wound up moving away from the Lakers 39-29 in that span.

NWU Thinclads Clash With Peru In Contest Today

Peru State and Nebraska Wesleyan University meet in a dual track contest today at O. N. Magee stadium. Field events start at 3:00 p.m. with running events at 3:30 p.m.

Coach Woody Greeno, who took a sparse squad to the Corn Palace Relays at Mitchell, S.D. last weekend, says his squad will be in nearly top condition for the dual.

The Plainsmen picked up four medals at the Mitchell relays, two on the track and two in the field.

Greeno said Jim Booher tied for first in the high jump at 6 feet and Sam Cowan placed second in the shot put with a toss of 50 feet 10 inches, his personal best and best ever for a Plainsman.

High School Field Event Leaders Unchanged

. . . YUNGBLUT INCREASES SHOT PUT LEAD WITH 60-1 TOSS

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

There were no changes in the field event leaders in Nebraska prep ranks last week, but Scottsbluff's Steve Yungblut stole the spotlight by becoming the state's first 60-foot shot putter.

The muscular junior, who had led previously with a 58-1 mark, added two feet to his distance in the Sidney Invitational.

In breaking the 60-foot barrier he again widened the gap between himself and the rest of the field.

Bellevue senior Jim Brooks had closed the margin at the Doane Invitational as he improved from 54-4½ to 57-0, just 3 inches shy of Yungblut's leading mark.

There are three others — Imperial's Mike McNair, Lincoln High's John Spaedt and Creighton Prep's Sam Buda— past the 55-foot mark, but none showed any gain during last week's competition.

Buda kept his discus lead, Benson's Randy Reeves his pole vault lead, Boys Town's Dennis Tunks his high jump lead and Grand Island's Rob Heimbuch his broad jump lead as there were few changes in these events.

The major shuffling came in relays, with new leaders cropping up in all three events on the state championship card.

Omaha Central, Kearney and Westside all broke 3:32 in the mile relay to take the top positions ahead of Scottsbluff, last week's leader.

Game Unit Tells Of New Sandhills Recreation Plans

A $1 million program to develop the recreational potential of Nebraska's Sandhills area was projected Monday by the State Game Commission.

The project includes fishing, hunting and camping facilities. It will be started later this year if option rights to the land can be obtained.

The area covers about 1,920 acres between Valentine and Springview in Keya Paha County.

Estimated cost of acquiring the land is $81,000, or $42.50 per acre.

The Commission, on a 3-2 vote, authorized director Mel O. Steen to negotiate with the landowner to extend the option rights for possible purchase.

Army Stars To Play In All-America Game

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP)—Quarterback Rollie Stichweh and tackle Bill Zadel, both of Army, accepted invitations Monday to play for the East in the fifth annual All-America football game June 26.

Stichweh, a star in last year's Army win over Navy, will join quarterbacks Roger Staubach of Navy, and John Huarte of Notre Dame in calling signals for the East in War Memorial Stadium.

Opening Of Grouse Season Set Sept. 18

The State Game Commission Monday set Sept. 18 for the opening of the grouse hunting season, about two weeks earlier than usual.

The Commission set Sept. 4 through 12 for an experimental teal hunting season. The teal is a migratory duck.

The special season was urged by the federal government and will offer an opportunity to gain data on teal harvesting.

Collegiate Stars Replace Hawks In Exhibition

St. Louis (AP)—A team of collegiate stars will replace the professional St. Louis Hawks in a game against the Russian national basketball team May 1.

The Russian team will play the U.S. national team here April 30 in the fifth game of a series between the two national clubs.

The Russians also had been scheduled to meet the Hawks and the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association during their U.S. tour. But a Russian official said last week that Russian amateur rules prohibits playing against the professional teams.

King Promises Anti-Alabama Financial Boycott

Selma Ala. (AP) Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. charged Monday night that more than 150 Negroes have been fired from their jobs in Selma for taking part in a civil rights movement.

And he promised a cheering crowd of Negroes at Browns Chapel A.M.E. Church that "We can't take this lying down. We are going to call on our friends all over the nation to help us. We will withdraw our economic support and spend our money only where we are respected."

It was the famed integration leader's first visit to Selma since the dramatic five-day march to Montgomery last month, and it climaxed a busy day of conferences both in Selma and and in neighboring counties where the civil rights struggle also was centered.

King told newsmen afterward that response to his appeal for a nationwide boycott of Alabama products "has shifted tremendously in our favor" across the nation.

Preceding King on the platform was a former Wisconsin state legislator Isaac Coggs of Milwaukee, who invited the leader of the civil rights campaign in Alabama to join Negroes in a planned protest in Madison, Wis., April 29.

Coggs told the crowd, "We have our problems in the North. They don't kill you physically, but they kill you psychologically."

Earlier, King met with civil rights leaders in Camden after police turned back two marches to the Wilcox County Courthouse.

King arrived while about 125 Negroes, their march halted by police, stood beside the street near a Negro church. He led the marchers back to the church for a rally and strategy meeting.

As soon as he drove into town, King was handed a state court injunction prohibiting him and other civil rights leaders from taking pupils out of school to demonstrate.

Student Stopped

Negroes were granted a parade permit by the Camden City Council for marching to the voter registrars office once a jail—but they insisted on marching to the courthouse to register. Police stopped them.

Mayor Reginald Albritton again halted the marches—resumed after a peaceful courthouse march with a permit last week.

Free To March

Albritton first stopped about 125 adults and told them they were free to march to the registrar's office, but not to the courthouse. He said if they had been told that officials were trying to keep Negroes from registering, "that's a point-blank lie."

The Negroes, however, insisted on registering at the courthouse. The registrars' office was moved from the courthouse to the old jail building 18 months ago.

"I definitely am not going to the jailhouse," said Charles Henry, a spokesman for the group. "In other states they go to the courthouse."

Disbanded

Sheriff P. C. Jenkins said about 10 Negroes took voter tests at the registrars' office. Several white persons also applied, he said.

"I don't know why they are raising hell about where they register," Jenkins said. "I told them I took the test out here under an oak. The office was moved to the old jail because there's just not enough space in the courthouse."

Most of the Negroes who have applied in recent weeks have been registered. Wilcox County has 77 Negro voters now, compared to none about one month ago.

Bans Pulling Pupils

The injunction restricting demonstrations here was issued by Circuit Judge James A. Hare of Selma. He was holding court in Camden. The order bans efforts to pull pupils out of school and also prohibits marchers from blocking store entrances.

$1-BILLION APPALACHIA AID PROGRAM IS SET IN MOTION

Washington (AP)—Governors of the Appalachian states needed only 20 minutes Monday to set in motion the unique $1-billion program of economic aid that grew out of a campaign promise by President John F. Kennedy.

Nine governors and representatives from two other states gave the quick send-off in an atmosphere of complete harmony despite the divergent political alliances represented around the table.

The federal-state program is designed to provide highways, water and land resources development, vocational schools, and health clinics among other things for an area stretching from Alabama to Pennsylvania. The purpose is to upgrade the mountain region's economy.

Among those who displayed a spirit of cooperation at the meeting were Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, militant segregationist who frequently has deplored the power of the federal government to intervene in state affairs, and Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican presidential nomination last year.

Although the governors obviously had paved the way at an informal session behind closed doors, they said there were no serious disagreements.

Gov. Carl E. Sanders of Georgia was elected co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission to serve alongside the federal co-chairman, John L. Sweeney.

Representatives of the governors will meet on a regular basis to work on details of the program. Harry A. Boswell of Maryland was elected head of this group. He and Sweeney form a two-man committee in charge of personnel and disbursements.

State Can't Pay More Than Legal Rate For Notices

The State Justice Department has ruled that under no circumstances may the state pay more than the legal maximum rate for notices placed with newspapers.

The opinion was in answer to a query from the state tax commissioner's office.

The opinion, written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Homer G. Hamilton, said any vouchers received for more than the legal rate should be reduced.

The legal rate for publication of all legal notices is 13 cents a single column line for the first insertion, and 11 cents a line for subsequent insertions.

King Promises Anti-Alabama Financial Boycott

Selma, Ala. (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. charged Monday night that more than 150 Negroes have been fired from their jobs in Selma for taking part in a civil rights movement.

And he promised a cheering crowd of Negroes at Browns Chapel A.M.E. Church that "We can't take this lying down. We are going to call on our friends all over the nation to help us. We will withdraw our economic support and spend our money only where we are respected."

It was the famed integration leader's first visit to Selma since the dramatic five-day march to Montgomery last month, and it climaxed a busy day of conferences both in Selma and and in neighboring counties where the civil rights struggle also was centered.

King told newsmen afterward that response to his appeal for a naitonwide boycott of Alabama products "has shifted tremendously in our favor" across the nation.

Preceding King on the platform was a former Wisconsin state legislator, Isaac Coggs of Milwaukee, who invited the leader of the civil rights campaign in Alabama to join Negroes in a planned protest in Madison, Wis., April 29.

Coggs told the crowd, "We have our problems in the North. They don't kill you physically, but they kill you psychologically."

Earlier, King met with civil rights leaders in Camden after police turned back two marches to the Wilcox County Courthouse.

King arrived while about 125 Negroes, their march halted by police, stood beside the street near a Negro church. He led the marchers back to the church for a rally and strategy meeting.

As soon as he drove into town, King was handed a state court injunction prohibiting him and other civil rights leaders from taking pupils out of school to demonstrate.

Student Stopped

Negroes were granted a parade permit by the Camden City Council for marching to the voter registrars office once a jail—but they insisted on marching to the courthouse to register. Police stopped them.

Mayor Reginald Albritton again halted the marches—resumed after a peaceful courthouse march with a permit last week.

Free To March

Albritton first stopped about 125 adults and told them they were free to march to the registrar's office, but not to the courthouse. He said if they had been told that officials were trying to keep Negroes from registering, "that's a point-blank lie."

The Negroes, however, insisted on registering at the courthouse. The registrars' office was moved from the courthouse to the old jail building 18 months ago.

"I definitely am not going to the jailhouse," said Charles Henry, a spokesman for the group. "In other states they go to the courthouse."

Disbanded

Sheriff P. C. Jenkins said about 10 Negroes took voter tests at the registrars' office. Several white persons also applied, he said.

"I don't know why they are raising hell about where they register," Jenkins said. "I told them I took the test out here under an oak. The office was moved to the old jail because there's just not enough space in the courthouse."

Most of the Negroes who have applied in recent weeks have been registered—Wilcox County has 77 Negro voters now, compared to none about one month ago.

Bans Pulling Pupils

The injunction restricting demonstrations here was issued by Circuit Judge James A. Hare of Selma. He was holding court in Camden. The order bans efforts to pull pupils out of school and also prohibits marchers from blocking store entrances.

$1-BILLION APPALACHIA AID PROGRAM IS SET IN MOTION

Washington (AP)—Governors of the Appalachian states needed only 20 minutes Monday to set in motion the unique $1-billion program of economic aid that grew out of a campaign promise by President John F. Kennedy.

Nine governors and representatives from two other states gave the quick send-off in an atmosphere of complete harmony despite the divergent political alliances represented around the table.

The federal-state program is designed to provide highways, water and land resources development, vocational schools, and health clinics among other things for an area stretching from Alabama to Pennsylvania. The purpose is to upgrade the mountain region's economy.

Among those who displayed a spirit of cooperation at the meeting were Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, militant segregationist who frequently has deplored the power of the federal government to intervene in state affairs, and Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican presidential nomination last year.

Although the governors obviously had paved the way at an informal session behind closed doors, they said there were no serious disagreements.

Gov. Carl E. Sanders of Georgia was elected co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission to serve alongside the federal co-chairman, John L. Sweeney.

Representatives of the governors will meet on a regular basis to work on details of the program. Harry A. Boswell of Maryland was elected head of this group. He and Sweeney form a two-man committee in charge of personnel and disbursements.

Stock Market's Rise Is Mixed

New York (AP)—The stock market made a somewhat irregular advance Monday but it was enough to post record highs in some, although not all, market averages. Trading was fairly active.

Volume was 5.71 million shares compared with 5.87 million on Thursday, the last session before the three-day Easter weekend. The pace of trading was livelier than Thursday in the morning when prices were higher on average.

The Dow Jones industrial average, although it rose .85 to 912.76, failed to make a record high. If it had kept its best gain of 1.50, made in the first hour of trading, it would have topped the Wednesday record closing figure of 912.86.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose to a record peak.

The news background to the stock market was quite encouraging following the long weekend. It included reports of records for March industrial production and personal income as well as a swelling total of increases in corporation earnings.

As the trading session wore on, news came that weekly steel production had equaled the previous record set in March and that housing starts in March were above the February rate.

Doubt prevailed, however, concerning the chances for postponing the May 1 steel strike deadline, and most steel stocks declined.

Final statistics showed that, of 1,384 issues traded, 621 rose and 482 fell—a clear-cut gain. New highs for the year totaled 113 and new lows 24.

The AP average rose .3 to 339.7, enough to better the previous closing high of 339.5.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher. Volume was 3.21 million shares compared with 1.97 million Thursday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds declined.

Moderate Rally Boosts Grains

Chicago (AP)—A moderate late rally lifted most grain futures contracts to the plus side of previous loses Monday but trade was thin on generally minor factors.

The May wheat contract was the best gainer with an advance of about a cent. Most other net changes were in minor fractions up or down. However, old crop soybeans were off more than 3 cents a bushel at times shortly after midsession and oats eased about a cent in spots at that time.

Soybeans closed ½ cent a bushel higher to ¼ lower, May $3.02⅝-¾; wheat ¼-1⅛ higher, May $1.51⅜-½; corn ½ lower to ½ higher, May $1.32¾-⅞; oats ¼-⅜ lower, May 72⅞ cents; rye ⅛-⅝ lower, May $1.19⅜.

Sen. Morton In State To Boost Curtis For 1966

Omaha (AP)—Sen. Thurston Morton, R-Ky., said in an interview Monday that President Johnson is "coming around" to the Republican position on South Viet Nam and "that's why so many Republicans are backing him and some Democrats are assailing him."

The senator said he thought chances for a negotiated peace are better now than before the air attack started. "but this doesn't mean we are going to get a negotiated peace tomorrow."

Sen. Morton was in Omaha in support of the campaign of Sen. Carl Curtis. R-Neb., for re-election in 1966.

'Sunset Strip' Star Seeks 'Quickie Divorce,' Marriage

Juarez, Mexico (AP)— Television actor Roger Smith filed for a quickie divorce Monday in this Mexican border town.

Smith, appearing at a Juarez night club this week, filed suit in First Civil Court of Juarez against his wife, Geannette Ann Alphick Smith. She didn't appear and was represented by Mexican counsel.

Smith's suit, which court sources said would be acted upon Tuesday by Civil Court Judge Lorenzo Olguin Cisneros, charged incompatibility.

The suit said a property settlement had been arranged, but left custody of the couple's three children, Tracy, 7; Jordan, 6, and Thomas, 3, to the judge.

Smith, who gained fame as television detective Jeff Spencer in the "77 Sunset Strip" series, will appear next season in a starring role in NBC-TV's "Mr. Roberts."

Court sources said indications were that Smith would marry singer and movie starlet Ann-Margaret Olson at Juarez later this week, if the divorce is granted.

Miss Olson created a controversy here when she wrote in a national magazine in 1963 that anyone who appeared in Juarez, Mexico, was a hasbeen. She commented in the Saturday Evening Post article that she would quit performing before playing in Juarez.

Easter Bunny Replaced By 3 Lion Cubs

Oklahoma City (AP) — Three lion cubs instead of the traditional rabbit were present for the Easter egg hunt and party at the George Sturm home. They played with the Sturm children and grandchildren.

The cubs—Taffy, Jake and Lethal—are six weeks old. They were rejected by their mother at the Oklahoma City Zoo and are being fed a milk and vitamin diet at the home of a doctor.

They are to be used to aid the zoo here. Taffy, a female, and one of the males will be traded for needed animals. One male will be kept. They are of the comparatively rare black-maned species.

Mrs. Sturm is an official of the Oklahoma Zoological Society which is a chief supporter of the city zoo.

Stock Market's Rise Is Mixed

New York (AP)—The stock market made a somewhat irregular advance Monday but it was enough to post record highs in some, although not all, market averages. Trading was fairly active.

Volume was 5.71 million shares compared with 5.87 million on Thursday, the last session before the three-day Easter weekend. The pace of trading was livelier than Thursday in the morning when prices were higher on average.

The Dow Jones industrial average, although it rose .85 to 912.76, failed to make a record high. If it had kept its best gain of 1.50, made in the first hour of trading, it would have topped the Wednesday record closing figure of 912.86.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose to a record peak.

The news background to the stock market was quite encouraging following the long weekend. It included reports of records for March industrial production and personal income as well as a swelling total of increases in corporation earnings.

As the trading session wore on, news came that weekly steel production had equaled the previous record set in March and that housing starts in March were above the February rate.

Doubt prevailed, however, concerning the chances for postponing the May 1 steel strike deadline, and most steel stocks declined.

Final statistics showed that, of 1,384 issues traded, 621 rose and 482 feel—a clear-cut gain. New highs for the year totaled 148 and new lows 24.

The AP average rose .4 to 339.7, enough to better the previous closing high of 339.5.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher. Volume was 3.21 million shares compared with 1.97 million Thursday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds declined.

Moderate Rally Boosts Grains

Chicago (AP)—A moderate late rally lifted most grain futures contracts to the plus side of previous loses Monday but trade was thin on generally minor factors.

The May wheat contract was the best gainer with an advance of about a cent. Most other net changes were in minor fractions up or down. However, old crop soybeans were off more than 3 cents a bushel at times shortly after midsession and oats eased about a cent in spots at that time.

Soybeans closed ½ cent a bushel higher to ¼ lower, May $3.02⅝-¾; wheat ¼-1⅛ higher, May $1.51⅜-½; corn ½ lower to ½ higher, May $1.32¾-⅞; oats ¼-¾ lower, May 72⅞ cents; rye ⅛-⅝ lower, May $1.19⅜.

Sen. Morton In State To Boost Curtis For 1966

Omaha (AP)—Sen. Thurston Morton, R-Ky., said in an interview Monday that President Johnson is "coming around" to the Republican position on South Viet Nam and "that's why so many Republicans are backing him and some Democrats are assailing him."

The senator said he thought chances for a negotiated peace are better now than before the air attack started, "but this doesn't mean we are going to get a negotiated peace tomorrow."

Sen. Morton was in Omaha in support of the campaign of Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., for re-election in 1966.

'Sunset Strip' Star Seeks 'Quickie Divorce,' Marriage

Juarez, Mexico (AP)— Television actor Roger Smith filed for a quickie divorce Monday in this Mexican border town.

Smith, appearing at a Juarez night club this week, filed suit in First Civil Court of Juarez against his wife, Geannette Ann Alphick Smith. She didn't appear and was represented by Mexican counsel.

Smith's suit, which court sources said would be acted upon Tuesday by Civil Court Judge Lorenzo Olguin Cisneros, charged incompatibility.

The suit said a property settlement had been arranged, but left custody of the couple's three children, Tracy, 7; Jordan, 6, and Thomas, 3, to the judge.

Smith, who gained fame as television detective Jeff Spencer in the "77 Sunset Strip" series, will appear next season in a starring role in NBC-TV's "Mr. Roberts."

Court sources said indications were that Smith would marry singer and movie starlet Ann-Margaret Olson at Juarez later this week, if the divorce is granted.

Miss Olson created a controversy here when she wrote in a national magazine in 1963 that anyone who appeared in Juarez, Mexico, was a has-been. She commented in the Saturday Evening Post article that she would quit performing before playing in Juarez.

Easter Bunny Replaced By 3 Lion Cubs

Oklahoma City (AP) — Three lion cubs instead of the traditional rabbit were present for the Easter egg hunt and party at the George Sturm home. They played with the Sturm children and grandchildren.

The cubs—Taffy, Jake and Lethal—are six weeks old. They were rejected by their mother at the Oklahoma City Zoo and are being fed a milk and vitamin diet at the home of a doctor.

They are to be used to aid the zoo here. Taffy, a female, and one of the males will be traded for needed animals. One male will be kept. They are of the comparatively rare black-maned species.

Mrs. Sturm is an official of the Oklahoma Zoological Society which is a chief supporter of the city zoo.

Strike Interrupts Sunpapers' 128-Year Publishing Record

Baltimore (AP) — The Baltimore Sunpapers, in its third day under strike by the American Newspaper Guild announced Monday night that it was suspending publishing operations.

It was the first time in the paper's 128-year history that spans two world wars and a stock market crash that the paper had suspended its operations.

Charles H. Dorsey Jr., managing editor of the Sun, handed out the announcement to newsmen in the paper's editorial department shortly after he told Sunpapers employes still on the job of the publisher's decision. The announcement came less than an hour before the paper's Tuesday morning editions were due to hit the streets.

The statement said that the paper regreted "that after an unbroken record of 128 years of publication we have been forced temporarily to suspend our operation because of the refusal of members of Baltimore Typographical Union No 12 to cross the picket line . . . of the Guild.

The statement, read by Dorsey to the staff who still remained, said, "We wish to express our appreciation to the many employes of the other craft unions and the many employees in other departments, who have reported to work, and to the carriers who have delivered the paper."

Mark Collins, publisher of the Baltimore News-American, said the paper definitely would publish its normal editions Tuesday.

Daily And Sunday

The News-American is an afternoon daily and Sunday paper with a combined circulation of 331,000 while the Sunpapers publishes a morning, evening and Sunday paper with a combined circulation of about 743,000.

The members of the typographers union met Monday morning to decide whether to cross Guild picket lines.

Prior to that meeting, the Sunpapers management had said it would continue to publish and a 40-page evening paper was put on the streets. Price Day, editor-in-chief of the evening paper, said the paper was prepared "generally by supervisory personnel" and was a "little short of normal size."

Talks Broken Off

Talks between the Guild and management were broken off Friday night three hours before the old contract expired. At issue are wages, fringe benefits and union security.

The Guild is seeking $200 weekly for senior newsmen, a union shop and fringe benefits. The old contract had a top minimum of $150.

Edna Berger, international representative of the ANG, said. "We hope the Sunpapers will come to their senses and get back to the bargaining table and resolve the issues which are union security and decent wages."

The eight ended the test Monday at the Philadelphia Navy Yard and said they could have continued it indefinitely. The other six were Lt. (j.g.) Jerry W. Munger of Greendale, Wis.; Lt. (j.g.) James B. Abbitt of Lemoore, Calif.; Lt. (j.g.) William R. McBride of Chadron, Ohio; Lt. Carl H. Yung of Cincinnati, Lt. (j.g.) Cyrus W. Strickler of Atlanta, Ga., and Capt. Karl A. Suit Filed Against Owner Of Carpenter Paper Co.

Washington (UPI)—The Justice Department filed suit Monday to force Champion Papers, Inc. of Hamilton, Ohio, to rid itself of three paper merchandisers it has acquired since 1961.

U.S. District Court in Omaha, Neb., was asked in the civil anti-trust suit to order divestiture of Carpenter Paper Co., of Omaha Whitaker Paper Co., of Cincinnati and Sample-Durick Co., Inc., Chicopee, Mass.

Champion's acquisition of the companies, the suit charged, "foreclosed a substantial market to manufacturers who had sold paper to the three companies, tended to create a monopoly in the sale of paper products, and gave Champion strong competitive advantage."

The suit accused Champion of violating federal anti-merger laws.

Champion is a leading producer and distributor of paper products. It owns other facilities in Canton, N.C., Pasadena, Tex., Buffalo and Chicago. It holds 618,000 acres of timberland and has annual sales exceeding $64 million, the Justice Department said.

Carpenter was described by the department as one of the nation's largest paper merchants.

State Seeking More Funds For Pollution

State Sanitation Engineer T. A. Filipi received State Board of Health approval Monday to proceed with attempts to convince the federal government Nebraska needs more federal money for water pollution control work.

Filipi said he will write letters to Nebraska's congressional delegation in hopes the congressmen can alert Washington officials to Nebraska's need for more pollution control funds.

Filipi estimated that the allotment of federal matching funds to Nebraska will have to be nearly doubled this fiscal year if all requests from Nebraska communities for federal help are to be filled.

The state received $1,250,000 in federal aid for water pollution control projects during the current fiscal year ending June 30. He estimated requests for federal money for the 1965-66 period will total about $2,143,000.

The federal government pays for 30% of the cost of each approved project, or $600 for each project, whichever is less.

Filipi fears that some of the projects in the state could be delayed as much as a year if federal funds are lacking.

Make this 3-day test! New M.P.O. must relieve pain faster and longer than the preparation you are now using or we will gladly refund your purchase price in full

If you seek more relief than you may now be getting, join the thousands of hemorrhoid (pile) sufferers now turning to new M.P.O. Developed by famous Mentholatum Laboratories, M.P.O. works in these five ways:

Three Burglary Cases Reported At Homes Here

Burglars entered three Lincoln homes over the Easter weekend, police said.

Intruders did an estimated $700 damage to clothes at the home of Joseph A. Merrigan, 1725 So. 50th, according to police. Police said that although there was a great deal of damage, nothing appeared to be missing. The clothes had apparently been slashed with some type of knife.

Burglars entered and ransacked the home of Timothy J. Farrell, 3470 East Pershing. Police said that entry was gained by breaking a window. Apparently a portable TV set was the only item taken by the intruders.

A small amount of change was taken by burglars at the home of Ray Blakewell, 1445 So. 58th. The burglars gained entry by forcing open a door, according to police.

Act NOW!

OR PAY AN EXTRA 10% ON YOUR TELEPHONE BILL PERMANENTLY!

Enacted 22 years ago as a "temporary" wartime measure, the telephone excise tax becomes a permanent part of this nation's tax structure unless it is eliminated by Congress this year. Otherwise you will pay an extra 10c on every $1.00 you spend for telephone service.

So this is it. This is your last chance to protest this tax to your Congressman. Ask for its repeal now, before Congress votes on excise taxes this spring. Remember, YOU pay the telephone tax. Your telephone company merely collects it for the federal government. Therefore, its removal would be a direct benefit to you, the telephone user.

Spend 10 minutes writing your Congressman today to SAVE 10 per cent on every telephone dollar in the future.

Strike Interrupts Sunpapers' 128-Year Publishing Record

Baltimore (AP) — The Baltimore Sunpapers, in its third day under strike by the American Newspaper Guild, announced Monday night that it was suspending publishing operations.

It was the first time in the paper's 128-year history that spans two world wars and a stock market crash that the paper had suspended its operations.

Charles H. Dorsey Jr., managing editor of the Sun, handed out the announcement to newsmen in the paper's editorial department shortly after he told Sunpapers employes still on the job of the publisher's decision. The announcement came less than an hour before the paper's Tuesday morning editions were due to hit the streets.

The statement said that the paper regreted "that after an unbroken record of 128 years of publication we have been forced temporarily to suspend our operation because of the refusal of members of Baltimore Typographical Union No. 12 to cross the picket line . . ." of the Guild.

The statement, read by Dorsey to the staff who still remained, said, "We wish to express our appreciation to the many employes of the other craft unions and the many employees in other departments, who have reported to work, and to the carriers who have delivered the paper."

Mark Collins, publisher of the Baltimore News-American, said the paper definitely would publish its normal editions Tuesday.

Daily And Sunday

The News-American is an afternoon daily and Sunday paper with a combined circulation of 531,000 while the Sunpapers publishes a morning, evening and Sunday paper with a combined circulation of about 743,000.

The members of the typographers union met Monday morning to decide whether to cross Guild picket lines.

Prior to that meeting, the Sunpapers management had said it would continue to publish and a 40-page evening paper was put on the streets. Price Day, editor-in-chief of the evening paper, said the paper was prepared "generally by supervisory personnel" and was a "little short of normal size."

Talks Broken Off

Talks between the Guild and management were broken off Friday night three hours before the old contract expired. At issue are wages, fringe benefits and union security.

The Guild is seeking $200 weekly for senior newsmen, a union shop and fringe benefits. The old contract had a top minimum of $150.

Edna Berger, international representative of the ANG, said, "We hope the Sunpapers will come to their senses and get back to the bargaining table and resolve the issues which are union security and decent wages."

Suit Filed Against Owner Of Carpenter Paper Co.

Washington (UPI)—The Justice Department filed suit Monday to force Champion Papers, Inc. of Hamilton, Ohio, to rid itself of three paper merchandisers it has acquired since 1961.

U.S. District Court in Omaha, Neb., was asked in the civil anti-trust suit to order divestiture of Carpenter Paper Co., of Omaha, Whitaker Paper Co., of Cincinnati and Sample-Durick Co., Inc., Chicopee, Mass.

Champion's acquisition of the companies, the suit charged, "foreclosed a substantial market to manufacturers who had sold paper to the three companies, tended to create a monopoly in the sale of paper products, and gave Champion strong competitive advantage."

The suit accused Champion of violating federal antimerger laws.

Champion is a leading producer and distributor of paper products. It owns other facilities in Canton, N.C., Pasadena, Tex., Buffalo and Chicago. It holds 618,000 acres of timberland and has annual sales exceeding $64 million, the Justice Department said.

Carpenter was described by the department as one of the nation's largest paper merchants.

State Seeking More Funds For Pollution

State Sanitation Engineer T. A. Filipi received State Board of Health approval Monday to proceed with attempts to convince the federal government Nebraska needs more federal money for water pollution control work.

Filipi said he will write letters to Nebraska's congressional delegation in hopes the congressmen can alert Washington officials to Nebraska's need for more pollution control funds.

Filipi estimated that the allotment of federal matching funds to Nebraska will have to be nearly doubled this fiscal year if all requests from Nebraska communities for federal help are to be filled.

The state received $1,250,000 in federal aid for water pollution control projects during the current fiscal year ending June 30. He estimated requests for federal money for the 1965-66 period will total about $2,143,000.

The federal government pays for 30% of the cost of each approved project, or $600 for each project, whichever is less.

Filipi fears that some of the projects in the state could be delayed as much as a year if federal funds are lacking.

Three Burglary Cases Reported At Homes Here

Burglars entered three Lincoln homes over the Easter weekend, police said.

Intruders did an estimated $700 damage to clothes at the home of Joseph A. Merrigan, 1725 So. 50th, according to police. Police said that although there was a great deal of damage, nothing appeared to be missing. The clothes had apparently been slashed with some type of knife.

Burglars entered and ransacked the home of Timothy J. Farrell, 3470 East Pershing. Police said that entry was gained by breaking a window. Apparently a portable TV set was the only item taken by the intruders.

A small amount of change was taken by burglars at the home of Ray Blakewell, 1445 So. 58th. The burglars gained entry by forcing open a door, according to police.

Act NOW!

OR PAY AN EXTRA 10% ON YOUR TELEPHONE BILL PERMANENTLY!

Enacted 22 years ago as a "temporary" wartime measure, the telephone excise tax becomes a permanent part of this nation's tax structure unless it is eliminated by Congress this year. Otherwise you will pay an extra 10c on every $1.00 you spend for telephone service.

So this is it. This is your last chance to protest this tax to your Congressman. Ask for its repeal now, before Congress votes on excise taxes this spring. Remember, YOU pay the telephone tax. Your telephone company merely collects it for the federal government. Therefore, its removal would be a direct benefit to you, the telephone user.

Spend 10 minutes writing your Congressman today to SAVE 10 per cent on every telephone dollar in the future.

Southern Mayors Vary Approach To Racial Problems

Atlanta (AP) — Racial disputes have caught many Southern Mayors in the middle of an emotion-charged conflict that makes their job far more difficult and politically hazardous than it was a decade ago.

"I can't win with either side," decided Mayor Jesse H. Cutrer of Bogalusa, La., a lumber mill town of 25,000. There civil rights marchers met bitter, violent resistance and the mayor was thrown into the role of peacemaker.

Cutrer, 50, square-jawed and straight-talking, has been talking himself hoarse appealing to Ku Klux Klansmen and Negro leaders to exercise restraint.

What To Do

Cutrer faced a crowd of about 300 hostile white men who demanded to know what he intended to do about civil rights marchers.

"I gave it to them straight," he related. "I said, 'Boys, the choice is between war and worse. You can accept it or you can have it jammed down your throat."

Afterward, he told Negro marchers that problems could be settled at the conference table. His direct approach began to ease Bogalusa's racial unrest.

Used Grenades

In another trouble-spot, Camden, Ala., the mayor halted march after march. Several times he resorted to smoke grenades and tear gas before he relented and allowed a march.

The mayor is 42-year-old Felix Reginald Albritton Jr., cattleman, service station owner and part-time lumberman. He was elected last September.

After turning back more than a dozen marches, the Camden mayor decided in favor of a lawful march—under a parade permit. He told Negro leaders to apply for a permit. They did and it was granted.

Brought Pledge

The mayor's calm handling of the issue ended demonstrations at least for a while. It also brought a pledge from Negroes to seek a permit for any future march.

Mayor Joseph T. Smitherman of Selma, the Black Belt capital with about 30,000 population, was caught in the middle in a different way. His city happened to be the seat of Dallas County, and Negores seeking to register as voters repeatedly ran afoul of Sheriff James G. Clark. Selma's mayor had a hand in halting some of the marchers during the long siege of trouble.

Smitherman, however, left the law enforcement largely to his public safety director, Wilson Gaker, who pursued a policy of avoiding arrests. The mayor personally appealed to marchers at one time to halt their demonstrations.

Uses Committee

A quiet worker for biracial harmony is Mayor Claude Dear of Anniston, Ala., in the northeast edge of the state. Dear, in his 40s, pushed hard until he got a biracial committee created after his election in 1962. The city has had little racial trouble.

In Mississippi, there are contrasting responses. Mayor Pat Dunne of Greenville meets with biracial groups. Demonstrations are allowed in Greenville.

Mayor Allen Thompson of Jackson takes no leading role in biracial moves, but when the 1964 civil rights act became law, he called for compliance. The last demonstration in Jackson was a sympathy march for the Rev. James J. Reeb of Boston, victim of a white gang attack in Selma. Streets were roped off and there was no trouble.

Mayors Are Leaders

The mayors of two big Southern cities, where racial change has come smoothly for the most part, have been leaders in promoting desegregation.

Mayor Robert King High of Miami, Fla., has vigorously attacked racial barriers with a philosophy of settling issues "at the conference table, not with the axe handles in the streets."

Atlanta's Ivan Allen Jr., an ex-segregationist, tackled racial issues head-on after his election in 1962.

Before Law Passed

Allen endorsed the public accommodations bill in 1963 and urged then that all businesses drop segregation practices. His approach has been through biracial negotiations which brought considerable desegregation even before the civil rights law.

Among the early leaders of the conciliatory method was Mayor Malcolm MacLean of Savannah, Ga. After he took office in 1960, MacLean worked with biracial groups, appealed to businesses to desegregate and hired Negro firemen and appointed Negroes to city agencies. Savannah had Negro policemen in the 40s. It was the first city in Georgia to integrate its police force.

Mayor Stan R. Brookshire, 59, of Charlotte, N.C., in the early summer of 1963 took the lead in promoting peaceful desegregation. He met with business leaders and they decided to act before the city became the target of demonstrations.

White and Negro leaders worked it out and before the summer ended, Charlotte's public accommodations were desegregated. As a result, there has been no racial trouble there.

Munger Retiring Post With Board Of Public Works

North Platte (UPI)—W. H. Munger will retire June 1 as secretary of the board of public works.

Munger, who moved here from Omaha 56 years ago, worked his way from a clerk-errand boy at the First National Bank to the chairman of the bank board.

He took over the secretary's post on the works board in 1950 and served consecutive three-year terms.

Munger said North Platters are proud of the fact that the city owns its own light plant and water department "free and clear." On the eve of his retirement, he complimented the efforts of board manager M. L. Sievers and Mayor Ken Huebner, who offered Munger another term.

"I thought I had served long enough," Munger said.

Munger was born at Fremont and later moved to Omaha, where he attended Central High School. He is the son of the late W. H. Munger, U.S. judge for the Nebraska district.

CELEBRATE U.S. BAY OF PIGS LOSS

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro taunted the United States Monday night for the failure of the Bay of Pigs invasion four years ago.

Addressing his people on the anniversary of the invaders' defeat within 72 hours of the April 17, 1961, landing, the prime minister said:

"April 19 marked the day on which the plans mapped by the pseudo-generals of the Pentagon and by the luminiaries of the Central Intelligence Agency went down in a matter of hours."

"Kennedy was criticized for not . . . providing air support. If they (the planes) had intervened, they could not have supported anyone, because there would have been no mercenaries left to support."

Castro added, "Not even the might of the United States could have saved" the invaders at the end.

"They underrated our people, miscalculated. Accustomed to working with electronic brains, they erred, because there is something their computers could not calculate. That is . . . the revolutionary spirit of our people."

A military parade on Giron Beach, the invasion site, preceded Castro's Havana speech.

SAC's Flying Command Hits 40,000 Hours

The flying command post is capable of establishing communications with the entire Defense organization. Brig. Gen. William C. Garland, commander of the Strategic Air Division, Davis-Monthan, Air Force Base, was emergency action officer, when the KC135 landed shortly after midnight Monday, rounding out the 40,000 hours of operation.

Southern Mayors Vary Approach To Racial Problems

Atlanta (AP) — Racial disputes have caught many Southern Mayors in the middle of an emotion-charged conflict that makes their job far more difficult and politically hazardous than it was a decade ago.

"I can't win with either side," decided Mayor Jesse H. Cutrer of Bogalusa, La., a lumber mill town of 25,000. There civil rights marchers met bitter, violent resistance and the mayor was thrown into the role of peacemaker.

Cutrer, 50, square-jawed and straight-talking, has been talking himself hoarse appealing to Ku Klux Klansmen and Negro leaders to exercise restraint.

What To Do

Cutrer faced a crowd of about 300 hostile white men who demanded to know what he intended to do about civil rights marchers.

"I gave it to them straight," he related. "I said, 'Boys, the choice is between war and worse. You can accept it or you can have it jammed down your throat."

Afterward, he told Negro marchers that problems could be settled at the conference table. His direct approach began to ease Bogalusa's racial unrest.

Used Grenades

In another trouble-spot, Camden, Ala., the mayor halted march after march. Several times he resorted to smoke grenades and tear gas before he relented and allowed a march.

The mayor is 42-year-old Felix Reginald Albritton Jr., cattleman, service station owner and part-time lumberman. He was elected last September.

After turning back more than a dozen marches, the Camden mayor decided in favor of a lawful march—under a parade permit. He told Negro leaders to apply for a permit. They did and it was granted.

Brought Pledge

The mayor's calm handling of the issue ended demonstrations at least for a while. It also brought a pledge from Negroes to seek a permit for any future march.

Mayor Joseph T. Smitherman of Selma, the Black Belt capital with about 30,000 population, was caught in the middle in a different way. His city happened to be the seat of Dallas County, and Negores seeking to register as voters repeatedly ran afoul of Sheriff James G. Clark. Selma's mayor had a hand in halting some of the marchers during the long siege of trouble.

Smitherman, however, left the law enforcement largely to his public safety director. Wilson Gaker, who pursued a policy of avoiding arrests. The mayor personally appealed to marchers at one time to halt their demonstrations.

Uses Committee

A quiet worker for biracial harmony is Mayor Claude Dear of Anniston, Ala., in the northeast edge of the state. Dear, in his 40s, pushed hard until he got a biracial committee created after his election in 1962. The city has had little racial trouble.

In Mississippi, there are contrasting responses. Mayor Pat Dunne of Greenville meets with biracial groups. Demonstrations are allowed in Greenville.

Mayor Allen Thompson of Jackson takes no leading role in biracial moves, but when the 1964 civil rights act became law, he called for compliance. The last demonstration in Jackson was a sympathy march for the Rev. James J. Reeb of Boston, victim of a white gang attack in Selma. Streets were roped off and there was no trouble.

Mayors Are Leaders

The mayors of two big Southern cities, where racial change has come smoothly for the most part, have been leaders in promoting desegregation.

Mayor Robert King High of Miami, Fla., has vigorously attacked racial barriers with a philosophy of settling issues "at the conference table, not with the axe handles in the streets."

Atlanta's Ivan Allen Jr., an ex-segregationist, tackled racial issues head-on after his election in 1962.

Before Law Passed

Allen endorsed the public accommodations bill in 1963 and urged then that all businesses drop segregation practices. His approach has been through biracial negotiations which brought considerable desegregation even before the civil rights law.

Among the early leaders of the conciliatory method was Mayor Malcolm MacLean of Savannah, Ga. After he took office in 1960, MacLean worked with biracial groups, appealed to businesses to desegregate and hired Negro firemen and appointed Negroes to city agencies. Savannah had Negro policemen in the 40s. It was the first city in Georgia to integrate its police force.

Mayor Stan R. Brookshire, 59, of Charlotte, N.C., in the early summer of 1963 took the lead in promoting peaceful desegregation. He met with business leaders and they decided to act before the city became the target of demonstrations.

White and Negro leaders worked it out and before the summer ended, Charlotte's public accommodations were desegregated. As a result, there has been no racial trouble there.

Munger Retiring Post With Board Of Public Works

North Platte (UPI)—W. H. Munger will retire June 1 as secretary of the board of public works.

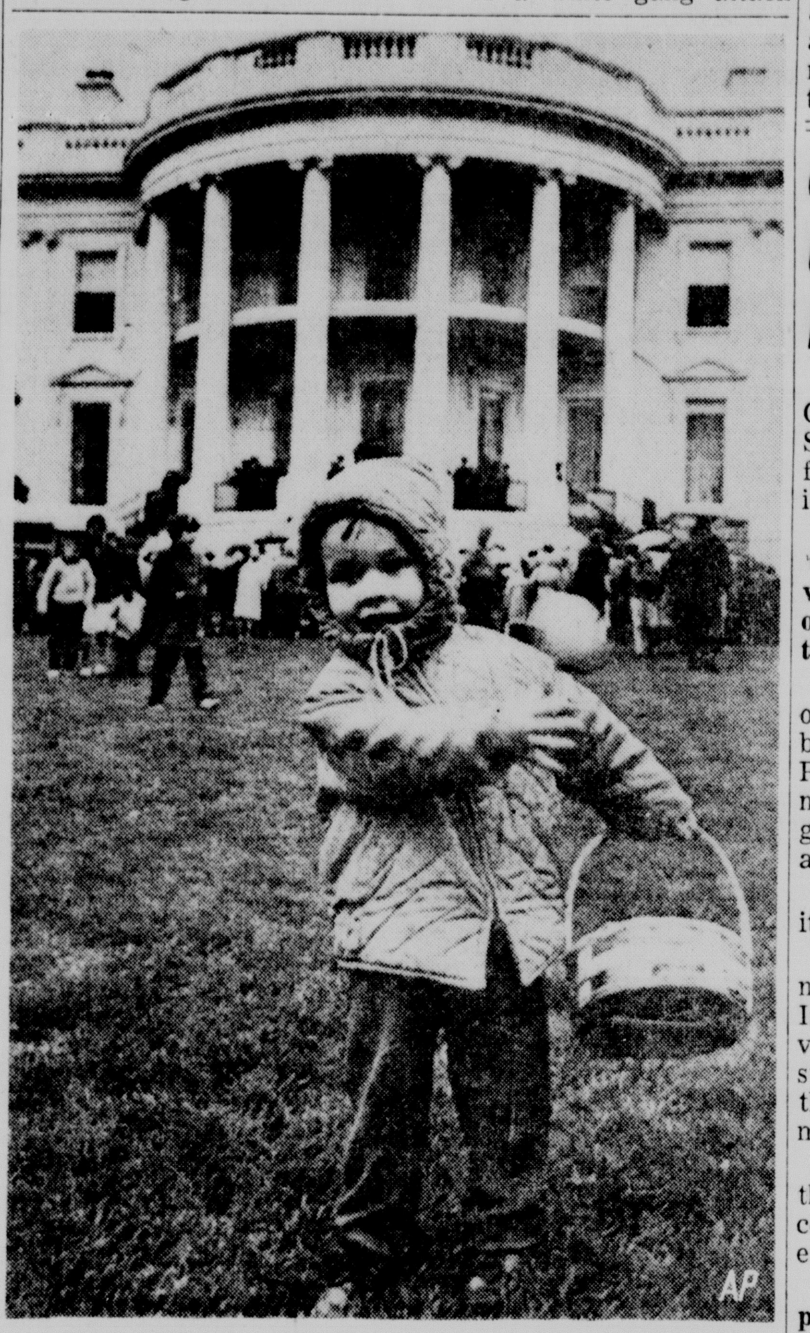
Munger, who moved here from Omaha 56 years ago, worked his way from a clerk-errand boy at the First National Bank to the chairman of the bank board.

He took over the secretary's post on the works board in 1950 and served consecutive three-year terms.

Munger said North Platters are proud of the fact that the city owns its own light plant and water department "free and clear." On the eve of his retirement, he complimented the efforts of board manager M. L. Sievers and Mayor Ken Huebner, who offered Munger another term.

"I thought I had served long enough," Munger said.

Munger was born at Fremont and later moved to Omaha, where he attended Central High School. He is the son of the late W. H. Munger, U.S. judge for the Nebraska district.



ROLLING EGG . . . NO MOSS

Two-year-old David Buttolph of Quantico, Va., makes a fast throw with an egg during the annual Easter egg rolling on the south lawn of the White House Monday. Other youngsters, and adults, cluster near the mansion as rain falls.

CELEBRATE U.S. BAY OF PIGS LOSS

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro taunted the United States Monday night for the failure of the Bay of Pigs invasion four years ago.

Addressing his people on the anniversary of the invaders' defeat within 72 hours of the April 17, 1961, landing, the prime minister said:

"April 19 marked the day on which the plans mapped by the pseudo-generals of the Pentagon and by the luminiaries of the Central Intelligence Agency went down in a matter of hours."

"Kennedy was criticized for not . . . providing air support. If they (the planes) had intervened, they could not have supported anyone, because there would have been no mercenaries left to support."

Castro added, "Not even the might of the United States could have saved" the invaders at the end.

"They underrated our people, miscalculated. Accustomed to working with electronic brains, they erred, because there is something their computers could not calculate. That is . . . the revolutionary spirit of our people."

A military parade on Giron Beach, the invasion site, preceded Castro's Havana speech.

SAC's Flying Command Hits 40,000 Hours

Omaha (AP)—Looking Glass, the Strategic Air Command's round-the-clock flying command post, reached another milestone, rounding out 40,000 hours of consecutive flying command.

The huge KC135 converted tankers, flying in relays have been constantly in the air since Feb. 3, 1961, carrying a general office and his staff, ready to assume command of the SAC bomber and Intercontinental Ballistic Missile force in the underground command post should it be knocked out by enemy action.

The flying command post is capable of establishing communications with the entire Defense organization. Brig. Gen. William C. Garland, commander of the Strategic Air Division, Davis-Monthan, Air Force Base, was emergency action officer, when the KC135 landed shortly after midnight Monday, rounding out the 40,000 hours of operation.

Morton's Kin Plans To Attend Arbor Day Rites

Nebraska City (UPI)—Plans were going ahead rapidly this week for Sunday's annual Arbor Day festivities at Arbor Lodge near here.

MOVE UP TO A LATE-MODEL
LINCOLN CONTINENTAL
THE LUXURY CAR THAT KEEPS ITS AGE

A BEAUTIFUL SECRET—Among the many beauties of Continental ownership is the concept of classic design—the avoidance of annual change for the mere sake of change alone. For this reason, it is difficult to tell a previously owned Continental (whether one, two—even four years old) from a brand new one. This of course enhances the value of the car, whether to its original owner or those following. We will be glad to demonstrate the truth of this by quoting you the substantial savings to be realized on a previously owned Continental. Why not visit us and see if now isn't the time for you to move in Continental's circle.

MOVE UP TO A LATE-MODEL
LINCOLN CONTINENTAL
THE LUXURY CAR THAT KEEPS ITS AGE

A BEAUTIFUL SECRET—Among the many beauties of Continental ownership is the concept of classic design—the avoidance of annual change for the mere sake of change alone. For this reason, it is difficult to tell a previously owned Continental (whether one, two—even four years old) from a brand new one. This, of course, enhances the value of the car, whether to its original owner or those following. We will be glad to demonstrate the truth of this by quoting you the substantial savings to be realized on a previously owned Continental. Why not visit us and see if now isn't the time for you to move in Continental's circle.

School Officials Asked To Meet With Governor

Governor Morrison Monday invited the executive committee of the Nebraska State School Boards Association (NSSBA) to meet with him to discuss their differences.

The meeting was called for after NSSBA members reported they were irked with a statement made by Morrison before a legislative commitee.

The NSSBA said the governor indicated waste in state government was minimal compared to that in schools.

Enough Problems

Dr. Harold V. Smith of Kearney, an NSSBA member and past president, said "School boards have enough problems as it is without having the governor cast such doubts on their ability and integrity."

The governor described the criticism as a misunderstanding between his office and the NSSBA.

He said the statement on government referring only to the waste of schools remaining idle three months of every year and was not intended to reflect on the ability or integrity of anyone.

'Doesn't Make Sense'

"In view of the cramped conditions and financial problems surrounding school administration to require all our schools to be idle three months out of the year simply doesn't make sense," Morrison said.

"Most educators agree with me that we must make fuller use of our school plants."

He said he was sure the NSSBA would be in almost total agreement with him once the matter has been fully discussed.

Curtis Calls For Reversal Of Trend In Ag Legislation

Laurel (AP)—A "single package" approach to farm legislation is expected to be brought before Congress this year, Sen. Carl T. Curtis R-Neb., said Monday.

Curtis said Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., is known to favor this approach which would deal with programs affecting a wide range of commodities.

In an address prepared for a Farm Bureau audience at Laurel, Curtis said a number of commodity programs will expire this year and next. He mentioned the wheat program, the feed grains bill, the wool act, sugar legislation and some legislation affecting tobacco, cotton and dairy products.

Curtis called for a reversal of the trend of recent years, when he said by legislation and administrative action prices have been permitted to drop and direct cash payments have been sent to farmers instead. These payments last year reached $2.2 billion and amounted to 17% of the farm income he added.

"I think this trend is bad," Curtis said. "I believe that all agricultural legislation and all actions of the Department of Agriculture should be directed toward raising the farmers' prices in the market place. It is for this reason that the department of agriculture exists and agricultural programs are enacted. Activities of the department, including the handling of surpluses, should never be to lower prices and compel farmers, to sign up for programs."

Earlier Monday Curtis addressed the Executive Club in Lincoln.

Nearly 100,000 Trees To Be Planted In State

Nearly 100,000 trees will be planted across Nebraska soon, the State Game Commission reported Monday.

It said some 40 private groups will plant 52,000 trees within the next few days. The commission will supply the trees.

In addition, some 47,000 trees and shrubs will be planted by the commission on state-owned or controlled lands at 35 different locations.

MORRISON TO EXPLAIN UNICAM IN TEXAS

Nebraska Gov. Frank B. Morrison will explain his state's unique one-house Legislature to a joint session of the Texas Legislature April 20.

His appearance was arranged by Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont, Tex., who has introduced a bill to establish the one-house system in Texas.

The U. S. Supreme Court's legislative reapportionment decision of last summer has prompted such states as Connecticut, Vermont, Hawaii and Texas to study the Nebraska system.

Population Alone

The court ruled that both houses of a state legislature must be based on population alone.

Nebraska got rid of the two-house concept entirely and settled for one in 1937.

The word for it is "unicameral." It was adopted as an economy measure, with the fiery backing of the late Sen. George Norris.

All other states have legislative systems modeled after the federal Congress—a house of representatives or assembly whose members are elected on the basis of population, and a senate in which apportionment is usually based on geography.

Under the Supreme Court ruling, state senates will have to adopt the population principle, too.

Morrison, a Democrat, believes the one-house system saves time, talk and money. He said the liaison between the Legislative and Executive branches of government is better under the unicameral system.

Morrison thinks it's "very significant" that a state the size of Texas is interested in the Nebraska system. "Texas is larger than most nations," he noted.
